GRINNELL WOMEN TO VOTE ON DATES

Grinnell, Nov. 12.—A meeting of all the women of Grinnell college will soon be held to determine whether or not Sunday dates shall be permitted. Resolutions recently passed by the student council and presented to the faculty strongly recommend an abolition of the present Sunday "date" rule, which positively forbids anything of a social nature being carried on between the men and women on Sunday, except on special occasions. This rule grew out of a tradition which has existed since the foundation of the college.

IOWA CANNERS STORING APPLES

Glenwood, Nov. 12.—Darting & McGavron, Glenwood's sanitary cannery, are busy these days since they went into the apple business. Every available space in the factory is now piled with apples. The shed to the east has been boarded up and filled. The apples still come and are coming every day. The company is now making a month's stock of apples west of the weather and preserving them from the weather by a covering of hay and straw. The company found that they could not care all the apples they would receive, so they are now installing a new addition—a power cider mill, capable of making 4,000 gallons a day. Carloads of barrels are coming in to hold the cider.

GIVE UNIT K A BIG SENDOFF

COUNCIL BLUFFS HOSPITAL CORPS HONORED BY TWO CITIES.

Council Bluffs, Nov. 12.—Members of Hospital Unit K, who leave this evening for Fort Porter, N. Y., to be equipped and trained for service overseas, attended divine service Sunday morning at St. Paul's Episcopal church. The unit assembled at the chamber of commerce and marched to the church. The unit is on active duty today and is mobilized at the armory. They are now in government service and subject to the rules and regulations of the military. Supplies of the unit were hauled to the depot Friday and started on the way to Fort Porter. Personal baggage of the members of the unit was assembled at the armory today and taken to the baggage car from there. Coaches for the transportation of the unit will be attached to the Milwaukee passenger train which leaves here at 8:45 o'clock this evening. It is probable that "standing room only" will be the rule at the depot tonight, when the boys are given their final send-off. The hour makes it possible for almost everybody to be out and it is a safe bet that they will be there, regardless of what the weather man may decree. The unit will march to the depot, probably starting from the armory and will be escorted by the drum corps and Captain Sam Greene's new "A" company of the national guard. This is the first call of any kind for the new company, which just reached full strength last Tuesday night and they gladly accepted it.

A short time ago there appeared in his English paper an editorial entitled "Galley Brutality." In it, United States naval officials were charged with mistreating troops on board transport ships. The article urged conscripts, "who had been deprived of their constitutional rights by being forced to fight in foreign lands," to protest to their congressmen. Starzl was taken into custody by a United States deputy marshal and arraigned in Sioux City. He has published a retraction, and says his 17-year-old son wrote the article. ### POLICE NEED AID OF COURTS

NOAH SAYS FAILURE TO PROSECUTE AND WET VICTORY EMBOLDENS BOOTLEGGERS.

"Until the federal and state courts follow up the work of the police departments, the battle against the importing and sale of beer and whisky in Ottumwa or other cities of the state will be an uphill fight for the police."

Thus declared Chief of Police Levi Noah in commenting upon recent shipments of beer and whisky into Ottumwa by persons and organizations.

"A case that illustrates what we are up against in sticking a man found with the goods on him, or at least to him which was seized before he got it, is the Graham case before Judge Wade in the federal court during the last term here," said Chief Noah.

CAPTURES LIQUOR EN ROUTE.

"We got a hunch that the stuff was coming to Bidwell and I sent Officer Criswell there August 13 to lay for the man who had been hired to go for it and bring it to Ottumwa. Criswell was dressed in citizen's clothes and was given a ride home by the teamster upon request, having thrown the driver off his guard as to his presence out in the neighboring town. By the time they reached Ottumwa the officer told the teamster his mission and had the trunk full of liquor brought to the police station. "One would think that we had the case as good as closed, but not so. When it got into federal court it was found that the department of justice was waiting for a ruling on a similar case and Judge Wade passed the Graham action over to the next term. "Then there is always difficulty in fixing the ownership when we find booze on premises. The proprietor of the place or the person to whom the stuff is obviously being sent if caught in transit, denies ownership and all that we can do is confiscate and destroy the liquor. They buy more and it is only the same procedure over again until one gets annoyed at the apparent futility of making raids. "We have not let up, however, for we think that if it is annoying to the police it is equally annoying to the bootlegger and we will keep after them as hard as ever. "Asked if he thought the traffic was being curtailed, Chief Noah said that it apparently was on the increase. "Last Monday we had more drunks in court than any one day for many months and as many as we would have in two weeks ordinarily. "WET VICTORY GIVES IMPETUS. "One of the factors that makes this possible is the failure of the prohibitory amendment to pass in the recent special election. The wet victory seems to have made the bootlegger more daring and we have information that more beer is being shipped than before the election. For a time recently it was hard to buy beer here, not so now. "There are many and devious ways adopted to outwit the police in the raids we make. For instance, a few days ago Officer Gray and myself visited a house and store in the west end and searched about every conceivable place in the buildings to find the beer we knew had been received. We even tore up the linoleum and pried boards loose in the floor of the store, but got nothing for our pains. A few hours after the search we were told that the owner of the store boasted to some friends that we were at one time within a foot of one barrel of beer, but I am at a loss to figure out where they had it hidden. "We will put a stop to it, or at least make it so hard to handle booze here that bootleggers will get into a more respectable calling if the courts will only follow up the work of the police."

Obituary.

Harry A. Horne. The death of Harry A. Horne, son of Mrs. Henrietta Horne, 514 Center avenue, occurred Friday at his home in Cedar Rapids at 4 a. m. following a four days illness. ### ARMY'S MORALE MUST BE SAVED

DR. F. E. DAY MAKES IMPASSIONED PLEA FOR Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN FUNDS.

"The morale of the army is not the precision of the soldier's step nor the skillful execution of military maneuvers. It is its manhood. "When America wins over the central powers, if she has lost the virtue of her manhood, the ideals of her citizenship and the strength of her young people, she will have lost the war," said Dr. Frank E. Day, from his pulpit in the First Methodist Episcopal church at his People's service last evening.

Talking on the subject, "The Y. M. C. A. in War; or Why We Shall Win," Dr. Day carried a strong plea for the Y. M. C. A.'s campaign for $35,000,000 for war work which is being waged in the United States this week. His keynote phrase, "Ten Dollars Saves a Soldier," brought the audience face to face with the facts and glorified the unlimited opportunities which the Army "Y" has to save men from themselves, from the bestial surroundings in which they are placed and from the ensnaring octopuses of vice lying in wait for him when he returns from the trenches with his nerves hanging at his finger tips and his whole soul strained to the exploding point.
