HOME AND FARM.

Rice Fritters: A good way to use cold rice: One large teaspoon of boiled rice, two cups of milk, one egg flour, to make a stiff batter, one teaspoon baking powder.

Well-ventilated apartments. When the weather is mild and warm turn them out into the yard. If it is not convenient to let the eaves out, arrange partitions and pens so that the lambs may enjoy the outside air and sunlight.

A sieve is a very necessary article about a poultry yard. The soil of a place may seem to be fine enough to please the fanciest hen, but she will not be surprised to see how many small clinders will obtain—enough to encourage the aforesaid hen in her attempts to use the dust-box.

Coffee Jelly: One teaspoonful of very strong coffee. Dissolve in it one ounce packet of gelatine. Put on the fire one pint of milk and six ounces of sugar, when nearly on the boil pour in the coffee and gelatine.

Away from the large cities, if nowhere else, every one who has any ground to cultivate should have a strawberry bed large enough to supply the family. Two hundred plants would give enough, with a surplus to put by for winter.

Ecological Meats: Chop the meat rather coarse, season high with salt and pepper. For a pint of meat use half a cupful of gravy and a heaping cupful of bread crumbs.

CONCERNING MOTHS. How to Prevent their Development and How to Destroy them. Prevention is the means most to be recommended for escaping annoyance from moths.
