COUNTY NEWS NOTES.

To insure insertion ALL correspondence must be in this office by Monday night of each week, and that nearby on Monday morning

Our correspondents are derelict in duty and we want to say that henceforth they will not receive papers except for the week they have news letters. We are dependent upon them for the news and when they fail to send in their favors they put us to great inconvenience.

SUNNY SIDE.

Uncle Rastus Brooks and wife were out visiting Sunday.

Miss Alice Merkins is spending a few days with N. P. Lacy and family.

The Sunny Side children went to Hazel Green Sunday to hear Prof. Cord, their old teacher, preach.

Miss Nannie Shackelford and brother, of Breathitt county, were visiting friends in Daysboro, Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. E. K. Pike, who is holding a protracted meeting at West Liberty, came home Saturday and went back Sunday, and while on his way preached at Goodwin's Chapple.

The Sunday school at the Methodist church is in a growing condition. Mrs. Ellen Swango, the superintendent, is on the sick list, but Edward Oney presides in her place, and the good works goes on.

If all our business men would advertise like J. T. Gevedon, our town and our county would soon be on a boom, and it would give the dear old HERALD the lift that it needs. So help the editor, and by so doing, you will help yourselves.

Sterling, a member of the republican state executive committee in the recent campaign, to the vacancy created by the resignation of Commissioner Yontz. The election of Mr. Duty as the third member of the state board is believed to indicate that all idea of a contest against Judge-elect O'Rear has been abandoned.

ESCAPED THE NOOSE.

New Congressman Once Under Sentence of Hanging.

Among the seven new members of the house of representatives who took the oath of office Monday is a man who was once sentenced to be hanged—the hero of the most exciting episodes of the civil war.

In 1863 a young Confederate from Alabama named William Richardson was captured by the Federal forces in Tennessee and taken to a prisoners' camp in Indiana. He made his escape and got back to Nashville, where he had relatives who sympathized with the rebellion and arranged for him to go through Union lines with a Confederate spy known as Mr. Paul.

The couple were captured by Gen. Crittenden's forces taken to his headquarters at Murfreesboro, and, after trial before a drum head court martial, were sentenced to the ignominious death by hanging, which is the fate of spies, who under the rules of warfare, do not deserve honorable death by shooting.

In some manner the news was carried to Gen. Forest—47 miles away—that one of the most valuable men in the secret service of the Confederacy was about to be hanged by Gen. Crittenden, and hour or two before daylight on the morning appointed for the execution. Forest surprised Crittenden's forces demoralizing them, killing a good many and taking a large number of prisoners. During the fight "Mr. Paul" and young Richardson managed to escape.

After the war Richardson returned to Alabama, studied law with his father, who was an eminent member of the bar of that state, and now goes to congress as the successor of Gen. Joe Wheeler.—Lexington Leader.

Why They All Changed Their Drinks.

The Rev. Thomas Colson was booked to speak at a prohibition meeting the other night where W. T. Wardell was the chief attraction. He was unable to come, but sent a note of regret. Before reading the note Chairman Cummings said he would tell the crowd a true story about Rev. Mr. Colson.

"Several years ago," said Mr. Cummings, "Mr. Colson was out West. He stopped off at a town which was the loafing place of a large number of cowboys when they were off duty. These rough looking fellows, with revolvers strapped to their sides and wearing belts filled with cartridges, met Mr. Colson and asked him to take a drink. He declined at first, but they insisted, and he went along with them. When the party reached the saloon the biggest of the three called out: "What are you going to have?" The other two said, 'Whisky.'

"Give me whisky, too," he said. "What's yours?" he added to Mr. Colson.

"Water," answered Mr. Colson. "Water, eh?" exclaimed the big fellow. "See here, stranger, you drinks what them other gents drink or I'll spring a few leaks in your swallow."

"He drew out his revolver and handled it menacingly.

"You didn't dictate to these gentlemen what they should call for, did you?" said Mr. Colson.

"No."

"Well, you can't dictate to me either. My drink is water, I always thought you would be too much of a gentleman, Dave, to question a man's right to choose his own drink when he was your guest."

"Well, string me up if it ain't Tom Colson," exclaimed the man, who had recognized his boyhood friend. "Me and Tom used to go to school together, fellers. Well, if I ain't glad to see you! I want to apologize to you, Tom, for what I said, and I want to say to you fellers that you'll change your orders and drink what Tom drinks, or pop goes the glasses."—Detroit Free Press.

Get the Almanac That Predicted the Galveston Storm.

The Ladies' Birthday Almanac for 1901 is being distributed in our city this week. This publication achieved great prominence in September by its accurate prediction of the Galveston storm. The New York Times Sept. 18th, said: "Galveston's disastrous storm was predicted with startling accuracy by the weather prophet, Andrew Jackson DeVoe, in the Ladies' Birthday Almanac issued in Chattanooga, Tenn., last January." It is so different from the ordinary cheap patent medicine almanac, that it has become very popular, and now has a circulation of 15,000,000 copies, annually. Our readers who have not received a copy of the 1901 edition, can get it from their merchants, or by sending their address to the Ladies' Birthday Almanac, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Consumption

is destruction of lung by a growing germ, precisely as mouldy cheese is destruction of cheese by a growing germ.

If you kill the germ, you stop the consumption. You can or can't, according to when you begin.

Take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil: take a little at first.

It acts as a food; it is the easiest food. Seems not to be food; makes you hungry; eating is comfortable. You grow stronger. Take more; not too much; enough is as much as you like and agrees with you. Satisfy hunger with usual food; whatever you like and agrees with you.

When you are strong again, have recovered your strength—the germs are dead; you have killed them.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

The Louisville Evening Post has secured his services and is now publishing his letters two or three times each week.

Wm. Gibson, the man who tortured to death his three-year-old stepdaughter, with a red-hot iron, is in the Maysville jail for safe-keeping. He was captured on the 5th inst., by Griffith Davis and son, near Iron Hill furnace, in Carter county and five miles of Grayson. Gibson committed the horrible crime at his home in Catlettsburg.
