A NATION MOURNS,

President McKinley, Victim of Anarchist Czolgosz, is Dead.

He Expires at 2 A. M. Saturday, From Heart Failure.

End Came Peacefully After a Hopeless Struggle of Hours--Following a Last, Fond Farewell to His Devoted Wife, He Murmured "Nearer My God to Thee," and Slept Unconsciously.

"GOOD-BYE, ALL; GOOD-BYE. IT'S GOD'S WAY--HIS WILL BE DONE."

HOSPITAL ON THE GROUNDS
PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.
WHERE THE PRESIDENT'S WOUNDS WERE DRESSED.

Wife Not Present at Bedside.
MILBURN HOUSE, BUFFALO—3:30 A. M.—President McKinley died at 2:15 this morning. He was unconscious since 7:50 P. M. His last conscious hour on earth was spent with his wife, to whom he devoted a lifetime of care.

He died unattended by a minister of the Gospel, but his last words were a humble submission to the will of the God in whom he believed.
He was reconciled to the cruelty to which the assassin's bullet condemned him, and faced death in the same spirit of calmness and poise which marked his long and honorable career.

His last conscious words were reduced to writing by Dr. Mann, who stood at the bedside, and when they were uttered were as follows:
"GOOD-BYE ALL, GOOD-BYE; IT IS GOD'S WAY. HIS
WILL BE DONE."

His relatives and members of his official family were at the Milburn house, except Secretary Wilson, who did not avail himself of the opportunity. Some others of his personal friends also took leave of him.

The Last Look.
This painful ceremony was simple. Friends came to the door of the sick room and took a longing glance at him and turned tearfully away. He practically was unconscious during this time. But powerful heart stimulants including oxygen, were employed to restore him to consciousness for the final parting with his wife.

He asked for her and she sat at his side and held his hand. He consoled her and bade her goodbye. She went through the heart-rending scene with the same bravery and fortitude with which she has borne the grief of the tragedy which ended his life.

Rage Boundless.
The rage of the people of Buffalo against the president's assassin when they learned that he was dying was boundless.

Death Announced to Cabinet.
BUFFALO, Sept. 14.—2:30 a. m.
—The announcement of the death to members of the Cabinet was made by Webb Hayes, who said:
"It is all over."

Mrs. McKinley last saw her husband between 11 and 12 o'clock.
At that time she sat by the bedside holding his hand. Members of the Cabinet were admitted to the sick room singly at that time.
The actual death probably occurred about 2 o'clock, it being understood that Dr. Rixey delayed the announcement momentarily to assure himself.

The announcement to those waiting below was postponed until the members of the family had withdrawn. Through Secretary Cortel-lo the waiting newspaper men received notification.

Members of the Cabinet, Senators and close friends remained but a few minutes. Then, with mournful tread, and bowed heads, they came out into the darkness, and went away, not one among them with dry eyes, and some moaned in agony of grief.

With the momentary excitement incident upon the announcement of death, the entire scene became one of unmistakable and deep mourning. As if nature had lent its aid to the grieving crowds, a dense fog settled like a pall over the city. The Milburn house became a tomb of silence. Lights not extinguished—were dimmed; visitors were denied admittance and the family and their more intimate friends were speedily left alone with the distinguished dead.

Administering the Oath.
Vice President Roosevelt, who now succeeds to the presidency, may take the oath of office wherever he happens to hear the news.
The cabinet will, of course, resign in a body and President Roosevelt will have an opportunity of forming a new cabinet if he so desires.

A Loving Wife's Tribute.
"Do you know Maj. McKinley?" asked Mrs. McKinley of a visitor at New Orleans during the trip across the continent this spring.
"Ah, no one can know him, because to appreciate him one must know him as I do, and I am not speaking now of Maj. McKinley as the president. I am speaking of him as my husband. If any one could know what it is to have a wife sick, complaining, always an invalid for twenty-five years, seldom day well, and yet never a word of unkindness has ever passed his lips; he is just the same tender, thoughtful, kind gentleman I knew when first he came and sought my hand. I know him because I am his wife, and it is my proudest pleasure to say this, not because he is the President, but because he is my husband. I wish that I could have seen him yesterday. I love to see him among the people whom he seeks to serve so faithfully. But I read his speeches this morning. I read all his speeches.
I only wish that I could help him as I should. But he is so kind, so good, so patient. He gives me all the time he can. He never forgets me, no matter how busy he is. But I will be glad when he is out of public life. I did not want him to run a second time. I thought he had done enough for the country, and now I know that he has done enough, and when his term expires he will come home and we will settle down quietly and he will belong to me."

Body Under Guard.
Milburn House—Within 30 minutes of the death a private of the United States army hospital corps was detailed for duty and took his position by the body of the dead president.

THE JUDGE'S JOKE.

It Was Funny, But Left Him With One Unpolished Shoe.

Judge William Yost, of Greenville, Ky., who is a candidate for the Kentucky Court of Appeals, is one of the biggest men in the state, physically at least, for he stands 6 feet 5 inches in his stockings, and has a pair of shoulders like those of a professional prize fighter. The Judge is a great joker, and when in this city recently a boot-black called out "Shine, Sir!" the Judge looked at him vacantly, pretending to be deaf and dumb. After several minutes of sign language he understood. He leaned against a building, and the boy went to work. Another bootblack appeared, and the one at work said:

"Youse needn't stop; dis is all mine."

"Sh-h! He'll hear yer," whispered the other.

"I'm gettin' five a shoe for dese scows," was the other's reply in a loud voice. The second boy looked so astonished at his friend's boldness that the latter laughed and said:

"Say, ye chump, he's deaf and dumb. See?"

The other boy, who had been looking with all his eyes at the giant, blurted out in a loud tone of admiration: "Say, he's a big tugly lookin' devil, ain't he?"
This was too much for the Judge, and he broke into a laugh. The boys looked for an instant at him, and then fled down the street, leaving the Judge with but one shoe polished to look for another bootblack to make equally presentable the other "scow."

Geo. W. Lane, Pewamo, Mich., writes: "Your Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the best remedy for indigestion and stomach trouble that I ever used. For years I suffered from dyspepsia, at times compelling me to stay in bed and causing me untold agony. I am completely cured by Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.
In recommending it to friends who suffer from indigestion I always offer to pay for it if it fails. Thus far I have never paid."

Ginseng is Very Scarce.

Ginseng has soared sky-high.
Quotations on this favorite root of the Celestials are $4.25 to $4.75 for the Kentucky product, and $4.75 to $5.25 for Indiana, Alabama and Mississippi roots.
The advance is not caused by a scarcity of the article, but by reason of the fact that the long drouth caused the leaves of the weed to fall off, leaving no means by which the diggers can locate the roots, as the leaves soon blow away.
There is plenty of ginseng in the ground, but the trouble is to find it. Demand on the Kentucky market is good.
