

Does Not Color Hair

Ayer's Hair Vigor, as now made from our new improved formula, does not stain or color the hair even to the slightest degree. Gray hair, white hair, blonde hair is not made a shade darker. But it certainly does stop falling hair. No question about that.

Indeed, we believe it will stop every case of falling hair unless there is some very unusual complication, something greatly affecting the general health. Then you should consult your physician. Also ask him about the new Ayer's Hair Vigor.

If you have any saddles or harness that need repairing take them to S. F. Reynolds and see how neatly and cheaply he can do the job.

Clifford Nickell, representing Trimble Bros., grocers, Mt. Sterling, was in town Tuesday and sold J. T. Day quite a nice bill of goods.

Clift-Amyx.

Richmond, Ky., Feb. 10, '09. Spencer Cooper, Hazel Green, Ky. Dear Sir: Find enclosed a clipping from the Tulsa Daily World of Feb. 5, of the marriage of Bertha L. Amyx. She was a daughter of Tom Amyx, who moved from Red river some eight or ten years ago to Muskogee, Okla. She was book keeper for the firm. As all her people live near you I hope you can give me space.

Yours truly,

Mrs. S. S. Combs.

Among the pretty midyear weddings was that of Homer C. Clift and Miss Bertha Amyx yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was a simple one and was witnessed by only a few intimate friends. The bride was attended by Miss Vance Graves and W. E. Henshaw was the groom's best man.

Mr. Clift is one of Tulsa's rising young business men, holding a responsible position with the Merchants & Planters Insurance company. The bride is a daughter of one of Kentucky's old and aristocratic families, having come here from Muskogee several months ago.

The young couple enter upon their married life under particularly happy circumstances and many friends extend heartiest congratulations and wish that they may spend together many years of unalloyed bliss.

Killed in Colorado Mine.

A telegram reached here last week that "Doc" Coldiron, a son of Owen Coldiron, of Laurel, had been killed in a silver mine in Colorado, and asking for instruction as to burial, etc., Mr. Coldiron telegraphed to have the remains buried there, but it is supposed the party having the remains in charge failed to get the message from here, for the next message from there stated that the remains were en route and would reach Campton Monday, 15th at noon, whereupon Mr. Coldiron decided to have the burial at that place. The deceased had been in Colorado for about five years, employed in mining at from $65 to $85 per month, and it is thought he had some private means. He was a member of the Junior Order American Mechanics, in which he had a policy of $500 and burial expenses. A brother from West Virginia arrived here Saturday to attend the obsequies.

One Hundredth Anniversary.

For nearly four years the Disciples of Christ have been preparing to have a great centennial gathering in connection with their international convention at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, in October, 1909. It was in 1809 that Thomas Campbell, father of Alexander Campbell, and his co laborers issued the declaration and address which gave rise to the reformation of the nineteenth century and brought into being the religious body known as the Disciples of Christ, better known in the South as the Christian church. Their church papers are filled with centennial references and their preachers are having much to say about the meeting which will doubtless be one of the greatest religious gatherings ever held in America.

Bank Wins Suit.

The noted bank case of J. Taylor Day vs. Exchange Bank of Mt. Sterling, was finally settled at Frankfort, when the Court of Appeals affirmed the judgment of the Montgomery Circuit Court in favor of the bank. This case was a suit to recover money, it being alleged by Day that he purchased stock in the bank, over twenty-five years ago, paying more for it than it was worth at the time. The case has been on the docket since 1888 and has been bitterly fought. The amount involved was $5,500, and interest, amounting in all to about ten thousand dollars.

Fire at Campton.

The Combs House at Campton, one of the oldest hostleries in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky, was totally destroyed by fire Monday morning. Fire broke out about 2 o'clock and people of the town being in bed at that hour there was no one to fight it. "Dump" Allen, who had the building rented, succeeded in saving about two wagon loads of plunder, and one or two guests saved their trunks. The building belonged to George Robertson, of Winchester, and was uninsured, but Mr. Allen carried a policy of $500 on the furniture and fixtures.

Our Ladsaw correspondence did not reach this office last week until Thursday evening, hence their omission. All correspondence should reach this office not later than Monday evening and should be addressed to THE HERALD to insure publication, as private letters are sometimes overlooked as correspondence.

A Kentucky woman soundly thrashed her husband because he failed to pay his subscription to the country paper after she had given him the money. The editors of the land should chip in and purchase for her a gold-mounted club to be used upon the brute when occasion demands.—Ex.

Rev. H. J. Derthick left Monday for a month's visit throughout Tennessee and along the borders of North Carolina and Georgia, with the view of establishing a mission school similar to Hazel Green Academy, under the auspices of the C. W. B. M. The probability is that it will be in Tennessee.

Misses Sue Long and Della Legg, Mrs. Maud Kash, John and Clayborn Johnson and Bill Hurt, former students of Hazel Green Academy, who are attending Hiram College, Hiram, Ohio, write to friends here that they are delighted with the town, the curriculum and everything pertaining to the institution.

Dr. J. H. Stamper left Tuesday for Louisville, where he will enter a school of dental surgery and take a course, and he may also attend lectures in the medical school at the same place. While his work will compare favorably with most any dentist in the country, he needs some technical work, and this is what he is seeking.

The following was received from one of our subscribers, and speaks for itself: "Hell to it" said Courtney A. Combs, of near Mt. Sterling, when he found one of his best fox dogs hung in a wire fence, and as there was no doctor near, Mr. Combs was compelled to dress the wound, which took nine stitches to sew it up, and he says he thinks she will be able to run again by the first of next month.

Dr. Dan H. Kash, of Campton, who was suddenly stricken by some bowel complaint last Saturday, was taken to the Good Samaritan hospital at Lexington Tuesday. An examination was made by a prominent Lexington physician, who said he did not think a surgical operation was necessary. Dr. Kash was accompanied to Lexington by Dr. G. T. Center and his brother, Sam Kash, both of our town. At last accounts he was resting easy.

At the home of Rev. Frank Pres Wilson, at Neola, there is a stray pigeon upon which the letter "E Z," and the figures "8506" are inscribed. It has been there some time and no one knows where it came from, but it is thought it may be a carrier pigeon which was lost in a storm and strayed from its course. It is gentle and feeds from the hand, and this is taken as another indication that it may be a carrier pigeon. We publish this so that in event any one has lost such a bird the owner can recover it.

Will Plant 20 Acres.

J. Taylor Day will this year put in 20 acres of tobacco and has made arrangements with parties at Louisville and other places so he can supply all farmers who wish to grow the weed with seed. He has three large tobacco barns and will be prepared to prize tobacco for any man who grows it. Mr. Day realizes that there is more in tobacco grown in this section than any crop we can grow, and he will this year give it his attention and supervision. With the warehouse in which to prize, no farmer in this immediate section should hesitate to put in a few acres, at least, and we hope to hear that many will give it their attention.

We have been hearing promises so long we have lost confidence in them.

A communication from Hon. Finley E. Fogg, of West Liberty, in reply to our editorial regarding the whipping of convicts, was received, but being too lengthy for this issue must of necessity lay over until next week.
