No Rest Day or Night

"I would lay awake for hours without any apparent cause, or dream terrible dreams which would bring on extreme spells of nervousness. After taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and Tonic for awhile I could sleep well, and the nervous spells have left me." MISS ALMA HUG, R. R. No. 4, Canal Dover, Ohio.

Without sleep the nervous system soon becomes a wreck, and the healthful activity of all the organs obstructed. Restful, body-building sleep accompanies the use of Dr. Miles' Nervine because it soothes the irritable nerves, and restores nervous energy. When taken a few days according to directions, the most restless sufferer will find sleep natural and healthful. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

AMERICA'S GREATEST WEEKLY.

THE TOLEDO BLADE,

TOLEDO, OHIO.

The Best Known Newspaper in the United States.

CIRCULATION, - - - 200,000

Popular in Every State.

The seventy-fourth year of its existence finds the Toledo Blade more popular than at any period of its remarkable career. It is now read each week by more than a million people. Its field is not circumscribed by State boundaries, but involves the length and breadth of the United States, giving it an unquestionable right of claiming to be the greatest national weekly newspaper in the country.

The Weekly Blade is distinctly a family newspaper. The one object of its publishers has always been to make it fit for the American home, for the fireside, and of interest to every member of the family. To fulfill this purpose it is kept clean and wholesome. The news of the world is handled in a comprehensive manner, and the various departments of The Blade are edited with painstaking care. The Household page is a delight to the women and children; current affairs are treated editorially without prejudice; the serial stories are selected with the idea of pleasing the great number of fiction lovers; the Question Bureau is a scrapbook of information; the Farmstead columns are conducted with the purpose of giving the patrons a medium for the exchange of ideas and information on farm topics. No department is neglected, but every feature is taken care of with the idea of making The Blade worth many times the price of subscription—one dollar a year. Sample copies mailed free. Address, THE BLADE, Toledo, Ohio.

Hord Sanitarium To be Enlarged.

Although less than three years old the Hord Sanitarium, of this city, has established a most enviable reputation in its field. To be exact, the Hord Sanitarium commenced operation on October 13, 1906, in the magnificently located and commodious brick building formerly owned and used as a residence by J. W. Vanarsdall. Since that time the capacity of the institution has been more than doubled, and plans are now being made to still further enlarge the extent of the rooms.

The Hord Sanitarium has demonstrated beyond a doubt its ability to cure the unfortunate addicted to the liquor and drug habits. It is now generally recognized by medical authorities that the drug or liquor habit is a disease, and to effect a permanent cure the habit must be so treated.

It is this feature that gives the Hord Sanitarium an advantage over so many liquor and drug cure institutions. The patients are given the best of medical attention, the general health is treated, and the secret formula for eradicating not only the effects of the last debauch, but for eradicating entirely the desire for liquor or drugs has been proved beyond any doubt to do all that the institution claims for it.

For the past year the number of patients has been regulated by the capacity of the sanitarium.

In addition to the many improvements that will be made, an artesian well will be sunk, and, if the proper mineral water is found, a large bath-house will be built, so that the patients may receive the same service as at French Lick Springs and other famous resorts of the Hoosier state.

Persons having been cured of this dreadful disease are loud in their praise of the Hord Sanitarium. The patients have come from Maine to California. The most of them are very secretive when they come for treatment. Prominent physician, men of affairs in public and commercial life, and officers high in army and navy circles, have been cured at the Hord Sanitarium. They usually register under assumed names, but after being satisfied that a cure has been effected, they are so happy over the results that they write the institution officers concerning their correct names and station in life, and very often permit the institution to refer to them, when the skeptical victim wants to be shown.

The sanitarium is located in an ideal place. On the west edge of the city, surrounded by a small park of trees and shrubbery, it is but a few squares from the traction station. Shelbyville is noted as the city of beautiful homes. The environment here is such that the most fastidious man or woman can not help but be satisfied.

The Hord Sanitarium is a good thing for Shelbyville. It brings people to the city; it takes money to feed these people; there is always something in the way of raiment these people buy; they also buy cigars, souvenirs, etc., and some of them are bound to be impressed with Shelbyville and will make this city their future home.—Shelbyville (Ind.) Democrat.

Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, secretary of the State Board of Health, addressed a joint assembly of the Senate and House, held in the hall of representatives last week. He pointed out the road to health for all Kentuckians by legislative enactment. In his address he dwelt at length on the following subjects:

Says Ohio river is now 1,000 miles of typhoid fever.

Blames sickly condition of state's farming communities upon the house fly.

Says one-third of the deaths in Kentucky every year are from diseases preventable.

Says her free streams are the only hope of Kentucky's unborn generations.

Claims one-half of the people never pay doctor bills.

Announces that fresh air is our most important food.

Makes the corollary—good roads good schools, good health.

Refers to Kentucky mountaineers as the purest type of English blood in America, and pleads for better education in that section.

HIS FORETHOUGHT.

A Bit of Zeal That Was Not Appreciated by His Wife.

He was a very busy man, and, like all of his kind, he hated to waste time by unnecessary waiting. That was why in the midst of his correspondence along about 11 o'clock the other morning he paused and, turning to his secretary, requested him to ring up his residence on the phone.

"Jemmison," he said, "get my house on the wire and ask Mrs. Blank to come to the phone. Just tell them that I wish to speak to her."

The secretary made off, and in a few minutes the required connection was made.

"Is that you, Mary?" said Blank when he got to the phone.

"Yes," was the answer.

"Well, this is John," he said. "I have just rung you up to tell you that Barker was in here this morning with two tickets for the theater tonight. He and Mrs. Barker have been called suddenly out of town, and he thought we might like to use the tickets. How about it?"

"Fine," replied Mrs. Blank. "I have nothing else to do."

"All right, my dear," continued Blank. "The curtain rises at half past 8."

"Yes; I know," said Mrs. Blank. "I thought I'd let you know in time so that directly you have had your lunch you can begin to put your hat on," he went on. "Then we can get there before the middle of the first act. By-by, dear."

The only answer was an angry click at the other end of the wire, which seemed to indicate that another receiver was in trouble, but Mr. Blank only laughed as he returned to his work.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Cause For Thanksgiving.

One fine summer night the whole village was disturbed in its slumbers by the deep tones of Nasreddin giving praise and thanks unto Allah. "What hath befallen thee, O Nasreddin," they inquired, "that at this hour of the night thou doth give praise and thanks until Almighty Allah?"

"As I lay half sleeping on my divan," replied the hojja. "I looked up and suddenly beheld a white thing flapping by this window. This must be a ghost or jinn or some other evil spirit sent by Sheitan to torment true believers, methought, so I seized my bow and drove an arrow through it. I forthwith arose, and behold, it was no jinn, but my own shirt which the arrow had transfixed. Wherefore do ye see me giving just praise.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Faint Praise.

A little girl taking her first ocean trip was awakened from a sound sleep one morning when the steamer was close to a strip of coast where the mountains tower sheer from the water's edge to a height of thousands of feet, presenting a majestic aspect not to be equaled in many other places. The little girl's father, carrying her to the deck, pointed to the great line of mountains and asked her:

"Well, what do you think of that?" expecting, as was natural, that she would be quite overwhelmed at the sight.

Instead she just rubbed her sleepy eyes.

"They look," she muttered dubiously, "like hills."

Whereupon she went to sleep again.—New York Times.

The Salt In the Sea.

The saline elements of ocean water may be in part derived from geological formations which consisted largely of like matter, but it is generally considered that the saltiness of the sea is sufficiently accounted for by the deposition of soluble salts from the rivers. Salts of various kinds form part of the constituent ingredients of the earth's soil everywhere. They are washed out by springs and rivulets and carried to the sea by large streams, and as the evaporation which feeds the streams carries none of the dissolved matters back again the tendency is for the salts to accumulate in the sea. The principal saline ingredients found in ocean water are chloride of sodium, or common salt, and salts of magnesium and lime.

The Sovereign.

He was a smart junior, with a rising reputation for genius in the art of cross examination. Said he to witness, a garrulous but alert old lady:

"How much money had you in your pocket when you say it was picked?"

"Four shillings, two sixpences and a sovereign in gold," came the reply trippingly on the tongue.

"Did you ever see a sovereign in anything but gold?" was the next question, cynically put.

"Yes; I once saw the king in a carriage."—London Answers.

Nervous Women

For nervous, tired women, we recommend Cardui. Cardui is a woman's medicine. It acts specifically on the female organs and has a tonic, building effect on the whole system. It contains no harmful ingredients, being a pure vegetable extract. If you suffer from some form of female trouble, get Cardui at once and give it a fair trial.

TAKE CARDUI

It Will Help You

Mrs. W. W. Gardner, of Paducah, Ky., tried Cardui and writes: "I think Cardui is just grand. I have been using it for eleven years. I am 48 years old and feel like a different woman, since I have been taking it. I used to suffer from bearing down ains, nervousness and sleeplessness, but now the pains are all gone and I sleep good. I highly recommend Cardui for young and old." Try it.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to year you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.
