

TROUBLE AT SPOONER

Neither Set of Officers Elected at First Election Have Been Seated.

ACTION STARTED AGAINST BURT CLARK.

Claims Made That Election Was Illegal Because It Was Held in Saloon.

The trouble over the first election of the village of Spooner held last spring has not yet been settled and neither set of officers which were elected at that time have been legalized. Each of the factions have proceeded in regular manner, however, in registering the business of the village, but the legality of the proceedings of each of the two bodies is questioned by the other.

An action has been started by Attorney General Donahower and Matt Gannon against Bert Clark asking that the Clark contingent be made to show cause why they should not be unseated and the actions of the Gannon council proclaimed official. The order is signed by Judge Spooner and was filed today at the office of the clerk of court.

Charles W. Scrutchin, who has acted as Gannon's attorney since the time of the election, secured the attention of the attorney general who immediately took action with the result that the question will be aired at the coming term of court.

Dr. Mayland's Candidacy For Representative Meets With Favor.

Dr. Lewis L. Mayland of Bagley, candidate for representative from the counties of Beltrami, Clearwater and Red Lake, is in the city today in the interests of his candidacy. Dr. Mayland is meeting with encouragement on all sides. His frank statement of his principles,—"drainage, good roads and the re-election of Senator Clapp"—has made him many friends everywhere throughout the district.

Dr. Mayland's interests are identical with those of Beltrami and Clearwater counties and there is every reason why the people of these counties should vote for him as against a man who lives more than a hundred miles away in a county whose interests are totally different from our.

ADS FOR BLACKDUCK

Crookston Papers Doing Nobly in Advertising the North Line Town.

ALL SORTS OF QUEER THINGS CREDITED TO BLACKDUCK.

Latest is a Man Who Will Have No Wife, But a German Maiden.

Blackduck is indebted to the Crookston daily papers for a deal of free and fulsome advertising. When they are hard pushed for news at the Queen City of the Red river valley they doctor up a cock and bull story and slap it down to the credit of Blackduck which is far enough away to be safe and near enough to be well known. When rust has been spread on and wiped off from the wheat crop until the process has grown a bit wearying to the good people of Crookston, a coffee pot is exploded at Blackduck and spread thick over a column in the Crookston Journal. When the library site has been dragged from muck of the river bottom to the council chamber and back again until the pavement and the story grows too thin, the Crookston Times gets black in the face over a freak Blackduck farmer who is just dying to marry but will never marry until he finds a maiden, a German maiden, a young, healthy, honest, industrious, comely German maiden, a really truly, real thing German maiden.

These are innocent stories. They amuse the people of Crookston.

The Crookston papers have an immense circulation. We have their word for it. Blackduck would be a beast did it not appreciate such advertising, gratuitously and periodically thrown at it. It is a little off color, but it is not well to look a gift horse too closely in the mouth.

CAN VOTE

Attorney General Makes a Ruling Affecting the Primary Election.

The attorney general in a letter to Sheriff Bailey rules that a signer of a petition for a candidate may also vote at the primary election, but that one who has voted at the election cannot afterwards sign a petition. The following is the text of the letter:

Office of the Attorney General, St. Paul, September 12, 1904. MR. THOMAS BAILEY, Bemidji, Minn.

DEAR SIR: In your favor of Sept. 9 you submit the question as to whether it is lawful for the nominating petition of an independent candidate to be signed and made up prior to the primary election day. The law does not name any time for securing signers to such a petition. I can see no sound reason why such petition may not be lawfully signed by electors prior to the primary election day. Such signing does not deprive any elector of the right to participate in any primary election but if he does participate in any primary election he cannot then sign a nominating petition. Chapter 90, General Laws of 1903.

Yours truly, W. J. DONAHOWER, Attorney General.
