WOULD MAKE PICKLES

Dr. Rowland Gilmore Speaks Enthusiastically of Beltrami's Resources.

SAYS PICKLE FACTORY WOULD BE OF UNTOLD BENEFIT

Interesting Figures Given by the Doctor Regarding New Industry.

It is gratifying to know that the prominent and influential business men of this city are making themselves busy in developing enterprises that will build up and place Bemidji and Beltrami county on a basis that will insure business and social progress and prosperity for generations to come. A supreme effort is being put forth to secure and encourage commercial and industrial enterprises particularly adapted to our climate and resources, and which can not fail of success if properly managed. At the present time there are several propositions under consideration that can be placed in this class, and the prospects for a maturing of plans are encouraging.

The construction and operation of a modern pickle factory at this point is a proposition that is making a strong appeal to our business men and the farmers in the country districts surrounding. The utility and practicality of such an enterprise is attracting substantial attention, and has proceeded to that point when the local Business Men's association at a session Monday evening will devote the time necessary to a general discussion of the proposed industry. As a matter of fact, the promotion of an enterprise of this character has been under investigation and careful consideration for months past, and has practically reached a point where definite action may be taken and work on the construction of the plant may be instituted at once so that this fall's crop of pickle products can be handled.

Among the most enthusiastic advocates of a pickle factory enterprise is Dr. Rowland Gilmore, who has devoted many of his spare moments during the past summer to a practical consideration of the question. The doctor is interested in the prosperity of Beltrami farms, and he has given long and careful thought to the crop proposition with the view of determining the most profitable way in which to utilize the soil of which he is possessed.

In an interview with the Pioneer regarding the agricultural issue, he engaged at some length in a presentation of his views concerning Beltrami county soil, its producing qualities, crops best adapted to the soil and climate, marketing advantages and other pertinent features.

Dr. Gilmore maintains that this is not a small grain district for two specific reasons. First, there is not a sufficient acreage cleared to enable the farmers enough to maintain their families. Second, if the land was all cleared, it is not a grain soil.

"This county," said Dr. Gilmore, "will produce better timothy and clover than any other part of Minnesota. Therefore this is a dairy country. The soil of Beltrami county will produce cabbage, potatoes, cucumbers, cauliflower, celery, onions, beans, beets and other garden truck in greater quantities than in any other part of this broad land. Therefore this is a pickle country."

"On one acre of ground, planting cabbage 3 1/2 feet apart each way, we raise 15 tons in a poor season and 25 tons in a good season. If this product is marketed at the usual price of $7 or $8 per ton, it is readily seen that cabbage is a very profitable crop."

"Beans should net $60 per acre, as it is a prolific crop, and demands a steady and fair market price."

"Potatoes at 25c per bushel should net $50 per acre. But, potatoes seldom sell for less than 60c per bushel."

"Onions sell for from 75c to $1.50 per bushel, and a good onion crop is from 200 to 325 bushels to the acre."

"Cucumbers are even more profitable when manufactured into pickles, but having no market here, we have no way to utilize this crop. Therefore, our farmers' sons work in the woods in the winter and in the Dakota harvest fields in the summer, while our farmers' daughters must go to Dakota to cook for harvest hands to maintain a living."

"Had we a market here for the produce enumerated above, all this labor could be profitable at home. It behooves Bemidji to create a market for this kind of produce, as cabbages, cauliflower, cucumbers, onions, etc., in the green state are perishable, and it is not profitable to ship in that condition. Hence, in order to advantageously market this crop so that the producers can derive fair and reasonable profits, arrangements must be made for pickling the produce here, and our people will all prosper by the thrift of the agriculturist.

"No other place in the state offers the advantages to a pickle factory that Bemidji does. We can raise pickle produce here cheaper and in greater quantities than in any other part of the state. Being nearer to the retailers, our freight rates would be cheaper than from any other point north of the Northern Pacific railway to the Canadian border, and west to the central portions of Montana, where, of course, we would begin to come in competition with the one or two small factories on the Pacific slope. This would give us a market of greater capacity than our supply, and inasmuch as the raw material can be raised here cheaper than in other parts of the state, and the large saving in freight rates would give a big advantage over any other factory in the country."

In illustration of his ideas, Dr. Gilmore cited one particular instance, that of an experiment of the Clearwater Logging company, which strongly supports his views. He said: "The Clearwater Logging company of eighteen acres with three men employed constantly at $30 per month, two extra men during the planting and harvesting season, harvested a crop of garden truck valued at $3,800. As 1600 bushels of this crop was potatoes valued at 30 cents per bushel at that time, it can be readily seen that had the potato crop been marketed at the most advantageous time, the total returns would have exceeded $3,800, potatoes having advanced to $1.50 the succeeding spring. Besides, four or five acres were planted in tomatoes which were not permitted to ripen, but were made into green pickles and valued at 15 cents per bushel, which any farmer or gardener will tell you is a ridiculous low price."

"I have given this matter considerable serious thought," continued Dr. Gilmore. "I have made it a point to interview a number of farmers in regard to the proposition, and they have taken a very favorable view of the proposed enterprise. Seven responsible farmers have agreed with me to raise not less than 18 acres each of the produce in question, and may put in twenty-five acres. Fifty men will sign a contract to put in from one to five acres, if a market can be assured them. I have talked with many more and they all are united in the opinion that the enterprise suggested would be a splendid one. If the factory can be secured, there is no question but what it can be made a grand financial success, and will vastly increase the circulating medium in this community. I hope the business men will give the proposition the attention that it merits, for I feel confident that an industry of the kind outlined would redound to our everlasting good."

At the request of the Business club, several prominent citizens will appear before that body on Monday night and present a detailed statement of investigations and views. It is hoped that there will be full attendance, and business men of the city who are not members of the club are cordially invited to be present at the club rooms in the Swedback block. It is an enterprise in which all our citizens are directly interested, and there should be no lack of cooperation and encouragement.

Announcement. Beginning Oct. 3rd. I shall be prepared to receive students wishing to do work in college, normal or commercial subjects. ONE ON JADAM Couldn't Stand Congressman's Jokes and so Took to The Tall Timber.

The sale of reservation lands dragged somewhat today, there being but a total of 30 sales made up to 3 o'clock this afternoon out of a total of 270 descriptions offered by Auctioneer O'Brien.

However, there was the liveliest bidding on one piece that has been seen during the sale. This piece, in section 30, township 153, R. 40 located on the Red Lake river just below High Landing brought $9.70 per acre. This is the highest price secured during the present sale, and the tract contained 175 acres. It was bought by Pat J. Sullivan of North Dakota. Bidders today were a delegation of Irishmen from Pine City, Congressman Bede's stamping ground, who, as was jokingly expressed by one of the party, "couldn't stand Jadam's jokes any longer and decided to take to the tall timber." Gully Sunbeam Hunt also bought a tract and promised quarter-sawed editorials in the future as soon as his sawmill started up.—Crookston Times.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to baby as to an adult. It is pleasant to take. When all these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by Barker's Drug Store.

Chicken Pie Supper. The ladies of the Baptist church have planned a chicken pie supper for next Tuesday evening and it will be served in the building recently vacated by the Ross Hardware store.

Cause of Lockjaw. Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin, as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes cuts, bruises and like injuries to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. Sold by Barker's Drug store.

Dance Saturday. A dance will be given at the Glidden hall Saturday night and all are cordially invited to attend. The best of music will be furnished for the occasion.

Best Remedy for Constipation. "The finest remedy for constipation I ever used is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Eli Butler, of Franklin, N. Y. "They act gently and without any unpleasant effect, and leave the bowels in a perfectly natural condition." Sold by Barker's Drug store.

George Anderson and "Babe" Scott returned this morning to their homesteads north of Turtle River after a short visit in the city with friends.

M. E. Thurston and G. Handy returned this afternoon from Northwest Territory, Canada, where they have spent the past two weeks looking up timber for the Brairerd Lumber company.

Are Chiropractic Adjustments the same as Osteopath Treatments?

No. The Chiropractic and the Osteopath both aim to put in place that which is out of place, to right that which is wrong; but the Pathology Diagnosis, Prognosis and Movements are entirely different. One of my patients, Mr. W. A. Casler, has taken both Chiropractic and Osteopath treatments. The Chiropractic is ten times more direct in the adjustments and the results getting health ten times more thorough in one tenth of the time than an Osteopath would.
