THE BEMIDJI DAILY PIONEER

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON.

OFFICIAL PAPER—CITY OF BEMIDJI
BEMIDJI PIONEER PUBLISHING CO.
By A. KAISER.

Entered in the postoffice at Bemidji, Minn., as second class matter.

SUBSCRIPTION—$5.00 PER ANNUM

It would be well for some of the people of the city who are taking a very active part in the present municipal campaign to consider a few questions of importance that will have considerable bearing on the future of this city which have not yet been mentioned. There is a possibility that Bemidji may secure the proposed sixth normal school, Mayor A. A. Carter was one of the delegation that went to St. Paul and did good work for Bemidji. Present indications are that the fight for the location of the school will be transferred to the State Normal Board. This board is composed of Governor Johnson, State Superintendent Olson and seven other men of learning and culture. In the course of determining the location of the normal school, it is very probable that the members of the board will visit Bemidji for the purpose of ascertaining the true conditions which prevail in this city. In receiving this committee, it will fall on the mayor, as the chief executive of the city, to receive the gentlemen and welcome them to the city. Mayor Carter would acquit himself and the city with honors, and would undoubtedly create a favorable impression in the minds of the visitors. Can as much be said by the cultured (?) gentleman who is opposing his re-election and is supported, in the main, by men whose every word is an oath and a vile epithet?

The people of Cass Lake who are using every artifice which they can contrive to secure the location of the proposed sixth normal school assert that Bemidji has always "butted in" when the Cass Laker has been at anything, and are fond of repeating that Bemidji attempted to get the local U. S. land office after it had been permanently located at Cass Lake. Bemidji had the best of reasons for the action taken relative to the land office matter. Some 1,800 homesteaders petitioned for the re-location of the land office in Bemidji, and they were the persons who were most interested in the matter.

How Dolls Are Made.
Many big things are made to make a small doll. She has her beginning in a great trough, where workmen knead up into a dingy paste old cardboard, even old gloves, old rags and gum tragacanth. They are great brawny fellows, these men, naked to the waist, wearing leathern aprons. In an adjoining room the paste is poured into molds for the busts, the arms, the legs of dolls innumerable. There is a special machine for stamping out the hands. I should not like to confess how long I stood in front of it, fascinated by the steady stream of queer little hands that fell ceaselessly from the iron monster. It was awful, uncanny, hypnotizing. Indeed, the whole sight was grim and monstrous. The low factory rooms were misty with steam and lit by strange, red glowing fires. Always the great steel machines pulsed and changed, and through the mist swayed giants of men went to and fro with heads of little greenish arms and legs until you began to think that some new Herod had killed all the little people in the world.—Everybody's.

Napoleon Trusted His Omens.
Napoleon always had an unlimited trust in his presentiments. When the news came to him that one of the Nile river boats, the name of which was L'italie, had been wrecked and the crew put to death he gave up all hope of ever completing his conquest of Italy by sea. Napoleon believed that the stars exercised an occult influence over human destinies. When General Rapp, at one time his aide-de-camp, returned from the siege of Dantzig he found the emperor gazing with concentrated attention at the heavens. "Look there!" shouted the emperor. "It is my star! The fiery red one, almost as large as the moon! It is before you now, and ah, how brilliant! It has just appeared under a tree of enormous size. I see it on all great occasions. It commands me to go forward; it is my sign of good fortune, and where it leads I will follow."

Shadeless Forests.
Large tracts of dense forests in Australia are practically shadeless. Many kinds of trees in that strange country turn their edges instead of the flat surface of the leaves to the sun, and thus one may stand under a tree of enormous size and be as fully exposed to the sun as though he were in the open plain. Travel through these forests is said to be exceedingly arduous work, as the trees, while they do not cut off the sun, prevent the breeze from reaching the ground, and thus the traveler experiences a stifling heat.

Luck and Reputations.
"Nobody gifted with a sense of humor can fail to be diverted by the luck of the man in which luck makes and unmakes reputations for business ability," says Will Payne in Everybody's. "Years ago a gentleman named Jennings was an extensive owner of downtown real estate in Chicago. He was the first, I believe, to develop on a large scale the modern system of the ninety-nine year lease, whereby the owner insures to himself and his heirs for a century an absolutely fixed rental, free and clear of all charges. After Mr. Jennings had leased a lot of his lands for ninety-nine years a depression came on. Other people's incomes were curtailed, but his was stable. 'What foresight!' said the town. 'What sagacity?' 'What superb business judgment!' Mr. Jennings' views on the business situation and outlook were eagerly sought. The depression passed. Realty prices advanced immensely. The Jennings lots could have been leased at twice the rental named in the old indenture. The town shook its head sympathetically over poor Mr. Jennings' deplorable shortsightedness."

Woes of a Drummer.
"I'm just a little discouraged with my work," said the tall New York boy who has started out on the road. "I was making my second trip west when I met an old drummer who had been on the road for more than thirty years. He sat with grip between his knees and talked to me. 'Chuck it, my boy,' he said. 'If there is anything else in the world you can do, do it. Look at my gray hairs. I don't know what I have to do at home. My wife about once in five weeks, I know that I've a wife and children in a flat in New York, but that's all I do know about them. The children have grown up and married, but I have not had time to attend their weddings. My wife has grown gray, too, but she has had the best of it. She has had a home and the children. If there is anything else in the world you can do, my boy,' he repeated, 'quit drumming, and do it.'"

Curious Blunders.
Some remarkable mistakes in memorials have totally escaped notice until it was too late to rectify them. The spurs on the boots of Cromwell's statue at Westminster Abbey, London, are the most interesting feature of the monument, although they generally get no attention at all from sightseers. They are worn upside down. In a painted window on the staircase which leads from the floor of Westminster palace to the committee rooms an inscription on a sword wielded by the "Black Prince" has the words "Prince of Wales." Again, in the fresco depicting the embarkation of the pilgrim fathers in the corridor leading from the center lobby at St. Stephen's to the house of lords the Mayflower is shown to be hoisting the Union Jack, a flag which did not come into existence until 250 years after the days of the historic Mayflower.

A "Ringers" Jug.
A beer jug in a belfry is happily somewhat of a rarity in these days. At the beginning of the last century, however, people were not so particular. The ringers' jug at Beccles, in Suffolk, holds six gallons, a sufficiency to sustain the ten weary ringers, though the weight of the bells did exceed six tons. The vessel is made of red earthenware and has three handles, one of which is concealed by the neck. It bears the following inscription in quaint spelling: "When I am ill'd with liquor strong, Each Man drink once and then dine strong, Drink not too much to Cloud your Knobs Least you forget to make the Bobbs. A gift of John Pattman Beccles." On the reverse side is the maker's name, "Samuel Stringfellow, Potter"—London Strand.

The Scallop.
The scallop can anchor itself as well as any ship. It never fails to drop its anchor on the approach of rough weather. The scallop, lying in its bed of shell water, foresees a storm in true sailor fashion and at once puts out a tough and elastic little cable from a point near its hinge. This cable it fastens firmly to the nearest rock. It is then secure in the vilest weather. He who wades through scallop haunted shoals as a storm approaches may see the tiny shellfish bustling themselves on all sides with silent bustle.

Men-of-war on Paper.
Each man-of-war is built upon paper before a single plate of steel is forged. Not only are the length and breadth of a ship decided upon, but the naval constructor can tell to an ounce how much water she will displace upon her armor and guns are mounted upon her, how many times her propellers will revolve in a minute with a given pressure of steam and how many tons of coal an hour must be consumed to attain a certain rate of speed.—London Graphic.

His Gloomy Life.
"What," asked the sweet girl, "was the happiest moment of your life?" "The happiest moment of my life," answered the old bachelor, "was when the jeweler took back an engagement ring and gave me sleeve links in exchange."

Inquiry as to a Holdup.
She (sternly)—Why were you so late last night? He (apologetically)—I was held up on my way home. She (still sternly)—Were you, too far gone to walk alone?—Baltimore American.

Twice Two.
"Do you really believe two heads are better than one?" "Give it up, but I know we wouldn't amount to much without foreheads."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Familiar.
Visitor—Will you tell your master that I called? Servant—Yes, sir, if you will please tell me your name. Visitor—That is unnecessary. He knows me quite well.—Wanderer.

If people resolutely do what is right, in time they come to like doing it.—Buskin.

How Woxall Was Named.
Near Schwenksville, Pa., is a village that bears the name of Woxall. This wonderful name was the result of an error upon the part of the postoffice department in Washington. The place was known many years ago as "Crop-petel," or "Crowthorn," and later Mechanicsville, but when a post-office was established there in 1888 neither of these names was satisfactory, and it was decided to choose a new cognomen. Many were the suggestions submitted to the postoffice department, but all were found to be too nearly like the name of some other postoffice to be acceptable. One day the village storekeeper saw the word "Noxall" upon a piece of calico and called the attention of several friends to it. At once all agreed that "Noxall" would be a fine name for their town. So the postoffice authorities were notified. Soon a letter came from Washington approving the name that had been chosen, but in the letter it was spelled "Woxall." So Woxall became the name of the village.—Philadelphia Record.

What Puzzled Her.
A woman whose religious education had been received in the plain edifice erected by an unassuming New England congregation was persuaded, much against her will, to attend divine service in one of New York's most showy churches. She showed from the start that notwithstanding her puritanical training, she was interested in the proceedings. She studied the elaborate ceremony, the architecture, the richly decorated windows and the altar decorations closely. By and by her eyes became fixed on the ceiling. Her friend wondered what particular feature of those lofty heights held her attention for so long a time. During a lull in the chanting of the choir she tried to find out. "Oh," said the New England woman in tones of infinite concern, "I was just wondering how on earth they get away up there to dust the rafters!"—New York Post.

What is 'All Wool?'
I have met a county magnate, a wealthy man who would not be put off with anything but the best, if he knew it, clad in a handsome "homespun" suit, the delicate blue gray mixture of which I happened to know was produced by the judicious blending of old blue stockings, such as navies wear with old white stockings. I have seen a "society" lady in a stylish "blanket" motor coat, the composition of which I knew to be of such a nature that it might very easily owe its existence in part to the cast-off hosiery of her own scullery maid, collected from the ash bin. Even the judge trying a case of "misrepresentation of goods" may, as likely as not, be unconsciously sitting in somebody else's thrown away rags that he has bought as "all wool."—A Woolen Manufacturer in Grand Magazine.

His Modest Claim.
A claim for damages against a railroad company is so often a license for exorbitant charges that a simple bill, such as was received by an American railroad company many years ago, even apart from its humorous aspect, is refreshing. It reads as follows:

The — and — Railroad company. Dr. July 19, 1887.—To running your Locomotive into my wife; as per Doctor's bill for curing her..... $10.00 To smashing him box and spilling her hat..... 3.57 To upsetting my deer horn (wagon) and breaking it..... 35.00 To hurting me..... 5.00

There is authority for stating that the claim was paid immediately.—Scrap Book.

Her Chilly Retort.
The late Dr. — of Malden, after pouring forth the story of his undying love in the most touching manner for over an hour to a young woman who he hoped would become his fourth wife, was refused the second time. He started for the door; but, looking around, he said in a most thunderous tone, "By heavens, you are the coldest woman I ever saw!" The young woman looked up and answered sweetly: "Oh, no, doctor; you have seen three colder than I!"—Boston Herald.

A Curious Notice.
This curious official notice was once published in Germany: "At the request of Herr Wilhelm Leigson of Innsbruck the seaman, Johan Leigson, who was drowned in May, 1869, on a journey from Stockholm to Hamburg in the Kaiser Friedrich, is hereby called upon by the courts to appear and report himself on or before April 1, 1881, under pain of being declared dead."

Financial Note.
Jerrold—Could you pay me that 10 shillings you owe me? I owe Johnson some money and want to pay him. Hobart—Well, I'll tell you what. You pay Johnson what you owe him, and then I'll borrow 10 shillings off Johnson and pay you.

Unjust.
Fluffy Young Thing (at the play)—I believe this man in front of us is trying to hear what we're saying. Man In Front (turning around)—You do me an injustice, my dear young lady. I am trying not to hear it.—Chicago Tribune.

BEWARE OF THE BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Backache is the Danger Signal and This Prescription if Taken in Time Will Prevent It.

More people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases are suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first-class physician, leave patent medicines alone.

There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home as stated by a well-known authority. For some of these, such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency, (especially at night) painful, scalding, and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon, one ounce, Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These vegetable ingredients are harmless and can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy and anyone can mix them by shaking well in a bottle. The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and again at bedtime.

There is no better general remedy known to relieve all forms of rheumatism either, because it acts directly upon the kidneys and blood. It cleans the clogged up pores in the kidneys so they can filter and strain from the blood the poison ous uric acid and waste matter which if not eliminated remain in the blood, decompose and settle about the joints and muscular tissues causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

Backache is nature's signal notifying the sufferer that the kidneys are not acting properly. "Take care of your kidneys," is now the physician's advice to his patients.

Doctors Mistakes

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and to the organs of the body, a series of diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes pills and poisons. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up the treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better in reason of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all the distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, "A disease known is half cured." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, worn-out, run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.
