Editorial Telephone, "THREE-ONE" DORA BARRETTE, Society Reporter

Come to the Bemidji Pioneer Office Supply Store in the Security State Bank building on Fourth street and have your fountain pens filled free. One of the Sanford Fountain Fillers will be at your service there. At this time it might be also well to say that this store carries ink in bulk. Bring your jugs to this store and buy any quantity you wish.

Go to Hakerup's for Photo's.

Cass Lake's postal savings bank opened for business yesterday. Depositors were not numerous but $102.50 were received up to noon. Postmaster Grady is unable to ascertain whether it was the rain, which fell all morning, or that people were suspicious on account of the opening coming on Friday, the 13th, that caused the light amount of business.

Go to Chapman's Shop for horse-shoeing.

The crowds that assembled at the closing out sale of the Model Clothing store of this city Market Day was surprisingly large. The store was crowded most of the day. In addition to the Market Day advertising this store issued large posters and distributed them throughout the neighboring town and villages, which not only brought people to the sale but helped swell the crowd for Market Day.

It is the policy of the Northern National Bank to avoid all speculative ventures and to keep its funds in assets always readily convertible into cash.

The Bemidji Council of the United Commercial Travelers will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Odd Fellows hall on Beltrami avenue and Fourth street. The session tonight it is expected will be largely attended as there will be a number of visiting members in the city this evening. Senior Counselor Harry Koors has appointed a committee to meet the visiting brothers at the Markham and Rex hotels and escort them to the council meeting. The session will begin promptly at 8 P. M.

A special agent of the Immigration department of the United States was in Cass Lake yesterday and placed Ludwig Makowski a Polish alien under arrest for the crime of entering the United States without a passport. He is also charged with having a disease of the eyes, which at certain stages is contagious. He was examined at Cass Lake by Dr. House, who decided that he had some symptoms of the disease, and later he was examined by Drs. W. H. Smith, D. F. Dumas and G. A. Christensen who pronounced the disease trachoma, and contagious. Makowski was taken to Crookston to be examined before a U. S. commissioner and will probably be deported to Canada.

Biliousness is due to a disordered condition of the stomach. Chamberlain's Tablets are essentially a stomach medicine, intended especially to act on that organ; to cleanse it, strengthen it, tone and invigorate it, to regulate the liver and to banish biliousness positively and effectually. For sale by Barker's Drug Store.

Maul Rock. Among the numerous natural curiosities of West Virginia is one in Lincoln county called the "Maul rock" because of its similarity to a maul. The base of the rock is about a thousand feet above sea level and is made up of large boulders, says an exchange. The stem of the rock is twenty feet high and will average about seven feet in diameter. The cap, or maul part, is about six feet thick and is thirty-eight feet in circumference. The stem is of a soft formation and is fast crumbling away, since the timber has died that was a great protection from the force of strong winds. By mounting the rock by means of a ladder that is kept there a magnificent view of the West Virginia hills can be obtained.—Christian Science Monitor.

Love Letters of a Husband.

"Dear Jane—Arrived here with morning O.K. It's a poor looking town, but business is good. I'll write more next time.—Your loving husband, John." "Dear Jane—Got here last night. Train was three hours late. No news, but business is good. Longer letter next time.—Yours as ever, John." "Dear Jane—Sorry to hear you weren't feeling well. Hope you are better by now. Getting a good many orders here. No news, but more next time.—Lovingly, John." "Dear Jane—Just to let you know I'm all right, though the rheumatism has been bothering me again. Got here this morning and have done a lot of business already. Nothing to write, but I'll do better next time.—With love John."—London Mail.

Durability of Steel.

It has been shown that nearly all the failures of steel occur very early in its history. If a plate or bar of mild steel lasts for a year in service it may be trusted to last for many years. The most injurious thing is continual bending backward and forward, as in what is called the "panting" of a boiler end. As one authority puts it, steel has a somewhat "milktoothed" youth, but "in middle age it is trustworthy and in old age beyond reproach." In regard to corrosion there is difference of opinion, some holding that steel corrodes more readily than iron.

A MENACE TO OIL SHIPS.

The Deadly Vapor That Stays After the Petroleum is Gone.

The explosion of vessels carrying petroleum frequently occurs, and this is generally caused not by the cargoes of oil which they contain, but by the inflammable vapor which is left behind after the huge tanks of the ships have been emptied.

It is difficult to remove all the oil that adheres to the sides of the tank, and the evaporation of the oil film left in them after they have been pumped out takes place with great rapidity. Moreover, the vapor thus formed mingles readily with the air and is capable of rendering more than 2,000 times its own volume of the former inflammable. A spark may thus cause a fearful explosion in the hold of a ship that is apparently empty.

A film of petroleum spreading over the surface of the water has been known to produce enough of this volatile and dangerous vapor to cause a conflagration, by which a number of ships lying in a harbor have been suddenly enveloped in roaring flames as if by a stroke of magic.

In some parts of the world, as at Baku, the center of the Russian petroleum trade, a film of oil continually covers the water for a considerable distance from shore, and warnings of the danger there have more than once been given.—Exchange.

HUMAN BOATS.

Swimmers Who Used to Rig Themselves With Sails.

When you throw a piece of wood into the water and watch how nicely it floats, has it never occurred to you to make yourself into a boat and to go floating about as easily and coolly as a real boat does?

This may sound very queer, but to one who has confidence in himself it is quite practicable, as was proved many years ago by a Dr. Bedale of Manchester. This gentleman, a noted long distance swimmer, was often to be seen floating about the river Mersey for hours at a time. He used to fasten a strong belt round his waist and attach to it a light mast and sail, which he could fur or unfurl as he lay comfortably on his back, and no doubt it was very enjoyable.

This was carried a step further by another noted swimmer, Captain Boyton, who used to think nothing of sailing up and down the English channel clad in dress inflated with air and with a sail fixed to his feet. Once, indeed, he actually crossed the channel from Dover to Calais, but on this occasion he used a paddle with which to steer himself.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Monumental Majority.

If one could get the vote of those who feel worse the day after a holiday than they did the day before he probably could be elected.—Atchison Globe.

Men grumble because God puts thorns on roses. Would it not be better to thank God that He has put roses on thorns?—Anon.

HER WEIGHT INCREASED FROM 100 TO 140 POUNDS.

Wonderful Praise Accorded Peruna the Household Remedy

Mrs. Maria Goertz, Orienta, Oklahoma, writes: "My husband, children and myself have used your medicines, and we always keep them in the house in case of necessity. I was restored to health by this medicine, and Dr. Hartman's invaluable advice and books. People ask about me from different places, and are surprised that I can do all of my household work alone, and that I was cured by the doctor of chronic catarrh. My husband was cured of asthma, my daughter of carache and catarrh of the stomach, and my son of catarrh of the throat. When I was sick I weighed 100 pounds; now I weigh 140. "I have regained my health again, and I cannot thank you enough for your advice. May God give you a long life and bless your work."

WASHING THE DISHES.

Suggestions to His Brothers by the Club Woman's Husband.

Tonight I want to offer my brother husbandettes a valuable hint about dishwashing.

When you do the dishes don't set the dishpan in the bottom of the sink, as most men do. Sinks may be the right height for women, but they are too low for men.

For months I suffered from crick in the back, aching shoulders, stiff neck and abdominal cramps. I consulted our family physician without obtaining relief.

At last, quite by accident, I lit on the cause of my trouble. A pile of skillets and saucepans had been left in the sink, and I put the dishpan on them. Then I was not obliged to bend over so far as usual, and that day I had hardly any lumbago pains at all.

Since then I have rested the dishpan on a couple of bricks placed in the bottom of the sink, and I wash the dishes standing almost erect. The roses are coming back into my cheeks, and our whole home is brighter as a result of my lucky discovery.

I am sure that my men readers will be saved many miserable hours if they will follow my suggestion. The bricks may be used between times as door stoppers, foot warmers or nutcrackers.

Tomorrow evening I will tell you what I know about washing granite ware.—Newark News.

In Plain Words.

Father (to his daughter, whom he sees whispering to her mother)—Elsie, how often have I told you not to do that? Speak out if you want anything. Elsie—Well, father, I wanted to know why the woman near me has such a red nose.—Pilegende Blatter.
