Every Day WANT OF EVERYONE Will Now Be Supplied with Dictionaries—The New Websterian Edition for a Few Coupons.

When in doubt, consult the dictionary—but when complying with this useful advice you should consult only the best dictionary obtainable, and it is this sort of a work that The Pioneer is providing the public, in distributing an entire edition of the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, illustrated. All that is required in exchange for one of these volumes which would prove a valuable addition to any library, and the most useful book of ready reference that could be placed upon an office desk, is six coupons clipped from consecutive issues of The Pioneer and the small expense bonus stipulated in the particulars printed in a display advertisement on another page of this issue. There is no royal road to learning, but you can make the way to a better understanding of our own language much easier. The person who does not need to increase his or her vocabulary would be hard to find, and many are those who have found by bitter experience that their shortcomings in the use and proper understanding of words is a heavy handicap in business and social life. To ignore this opportunity to have at your elbow the education you need and which you can acquire by referring to the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, is to admit that you are not ambitious to increase either your earning power or the means of properly expressing your ideas and emotions by either spoken or written words. A free scholarship in the study of the language, in addition to the supply of a wonderful fund of ready reference information, is what is really offered the crowds which are visiting our dictionary department to look at the books, demonstrates that the opportunity provided is a popular one. Those who cannot come to get their books can obtain the volume they select from the published description by sending six coupons, expense bonus and 22 cents for mailing. This dictionary is not published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors. No. 1 is a beautiful book, bound in full limp leather, flexible and stamped in gold on back and sides. It is printed on strong Bible paper with red edges and with rounded corners. It makes a handsome appearance and is durable. This book would ornament any library or desk. It is compact and small enough not to be cumbersome. No. 2 is the same book as No. 1 except in style of binding. It is in half leather, with olive edges and square corners. No. 3 is bound in plain cloth. It is printed on the same strong Bible paper, but does not contain the beautiful colored plates and charts which illustrate the other two volumes. The illustrations are in black and white. It is complete as to contents. Everybody needs and should have this particular dictionary. Clip the coupon today.
