MADERO DOWN AND MEXICAN WAR ENDS

they were deserters and the impression grew that half of the government troops were refusing to continue fighting.

Mexico City, Feb. 15.—Felix Diaz issued a notice at 2 p. m. Friday that he was about to increase the fury of bombardment of the national palace. He warned noncombatants to withdraw from the danger zone. More persistent firing on the palace then began.

Mexico City, Feb. 15.—Diaz Friday morning asked for recognition as a belligerent by the United States government in an informal note to Ambassador Wilson, stating that he was in control of the city.

Ambassador Wilson replied promptly to the rebel leader, explaining that while Diaz' statement might be correct, his own eye was untrained to military affairs, and he was not able to see the situation as Diaz explained it. He added that he was assured by President Madero that the government remained in control.

REVIEWED HIS WHOLE LIFE

Drowning Man Even Remembers Where He Had Put His Rescuer's Premises Note.

The undertow had been playing rather roughly with Dubbleigh and when they got him ashore it was considered desirable to roll him over a barrel a half dozen or more times in order to send him into liquidation. It was with a sigh of relief that the lifesavers observed his return to consciousness and assured safety.

"By George, boys," said he, as he opened his eyes and realized the significance of what had happened, "that was a terrible experience! I don't want to go through that again." "I should say not," said Blid, who had been instrumental in pulling him out. You had a narrow escape. "I guess I did," said Dubbleigh. "And, say, Bill, do you know that statement is a fact that the drowning man lives over again the whole story of his past life? By Jove! It was mighty interesting—right, from my boyhood up, every incident in my life passed in review before my consciousness. I was even back in school again, and then in college, and all those years after graduation, from my beginnings as a bank messenger up to this morning when I jumped into the surf."

"It's a wonder you didn't die of mortification." "Yes," said Dubbleigh, "but I'm glad I didn't, for among other things that came along was a vision of where I put that lost promissory note of yours for $50—the one you wouldn't pay because I couldn't produce the document." "Gee! I'm almost sorry I pulled you ashore."—Judge's Library.

Asiatic Creeds. Few people realize the growth of Asiatic cults and religions in America. It is stated on apparently good authority that this country now holds 15,000 sun worshippers, and an equal number of Buddhists.

Probably ten times as many persons have covered the Oriental basis of their new creed with a veneer of western Christianity. The number of dabblers in the "mystic" cults of India now among us cannot be guessed.

There is no cause for alarm at this growth of Orientalism. Neither is it a thing to be proud of. Mysticism, sensuality, lethargy—these in varying proportions are woven in the texture of every Asiatic creed that is seeking converts here. These creeds do not and cannot fit the busy life of our land today, and for that very reason they will make no dangerous progress in this land.

The growth of pagan Orientalism in America is remarkable, but, after all, it touches only the fringe of our population.

When a Public Official Gets Wrong. When a public servant gets caught doing something he ought not to, he always seems to derive a lot of satisfaction from pretending that his motives are misunderstood," says an Ohio paper. That isn't what he says. He says: "I have no desire to try my case in the newspapers."

GRANT CHILD RIGHTS

LET HIM HOLD HIMSELF, IS ADVICE GIVEN BY WRITER.

Putting it in Another Way, a Little "Letting Alone" is a Wise Course for Parents to Pursue—Mother of Freedom.

Let your children alone. Do not neglect them. There is a difference between a wise letting alone and a foolish neglect.

There have been probably as many children spoiled by over-management as by negligence.

Don't forget that the prime right of a child is the right to his own personality. In fact, his chief business in life is to develop properly the expression of that personality. How can he do this if he is continually hedged and thwarted by you?

A child learns by three means—by experience, by example and by atmosphere.

It is doubtful if didactic teaching and preaching ever did much good to anybody, child or grown-up. Only inspirational preaching is of any account.

To let the child touch the stove and get hurt a little is far better than to say "You mustn't touch it!"

Be chary of your commands. Every useless order is a burden that interferes with his growth and tends to alienate him from you.

Let him run as free as you dare. One lesson he learns from his own experience is worth a dozen he gets from you.

How many little lives are rendered utterly wretched by the loving but irritating tyranny of parents. The little ones are crossed at every turn. The mother is continually scolding, the father breaking in at times with sharp prohibitions.

The queer part of all this is that those parents think they are doing their high duty by the child. They propose to give their children some "bringing up" and not let them "run wild." So they cramp, thwart, oppose the growing mind.

Children are sharp. They soon adjust themselves to this, and get their parents' measure. Then they turn to become one or two things—"good," that is, shrewd little hypocrites, prigs and time-servers; or "bad," that is, angrily insistent upon having a life of their own.

Study the child, seek to bring out what is in him. Don't study your catechism or "system of education" and try to make your child measure up to that.

There is no genuine morality without freedom. Anything done from fear is immoral. Even the "goodness" your child puts on because he is afraid of you is wicked.

Quit trying to mold your child. Stand by and help him. Let him mold himself. Be his friend. Let him feel you understand him.

A lot of our "moral principle" is mere self-conceit and vanity of opinion, and we think we are doing God's services when we impose our egotism on others, particularly upon helpless youth.

Study the child, live with him, enter into his life and point of view, encourage him in what he wants to do, sympathize with him.—Exchange.

Found Hidden Spring.

Solving the secret of a hidden spring which opened a case of valuable minerals at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, Daniel C. Lavery stole $2,000 worth of art treasures, according to his admission in court. The robbery is the first of the kind at the museum. Just how Lavery gained possession of the secret of the spring is a mystery. His arrest followed an attempt to dispose of some of the articles.

Old Age.

Old age as it comes in the orderly process of nature is a beautiful and majestic thing. It stands for experience, knowledge, wisdom, counsel. That is old age as it should be, but old age as it often is means poor digestion, torpid bowels, a sluggish liver and a general feeling of ill health, despondency and misery. This in almost every instance is wholly unnecessary. One of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will improve the digestion, tone up the liver and regulate the bowels. That feeling of despondency will give way to one of hope and good cheer. For sale by Barker's Drug Store.—Adv.

STANDARD OF THE WORLD

As a commercial asset, one of the most pronounced advantages enjoyed by the Cadillac Company is the supreme and universal satisfaction and enthusiasm of more than fifty thousand users who are ever anxious to sound the praises of the Cadillac car.

Of special significance are the expressions of those whose motor car experience has not been confined to the Cadillac but has extended to cars of lower price and to cars of higher price and from one to the other.

These expressions, which you will hear voiced throughout the length and breadth of the land, leave no room to question.

That the Cadillac is the most sturdy and dependable of motor cars.

That it is the car of most enduring service.

That in ease and luxurious riding qualities it has no occasion to acknowledge a superior.

That in economy of operation and maintenance there is none which enjoys a favorable comparison with it.

That in real and substantial motor car value the Cadillac stands pre-eminent.

Well Informed Salespeople Make Shopping a Pleasure

How delightful it is when you go shopping in an undecided state of mind to find a salesperson who can tell you what fabrics are to be the most popular, and what is most appropriate for a woman of your size; or one who will sell you the hat that is really becoming, and is candid enough not to say that "everyone looks lovely on you."

The merchants who advertise in THE PIONEER take particular pains to see that their salespeople are well-informed on newest modes and correct styles in dress, furniture or whatever you may sell. You will be well advised if you accept their help—which is never aggressively given.

Read the advertisements in THE PIONEER closely and constantly every day. They tell you where to find the best goods and where you will get the best service to be had in this city.
