GARDEN GINSENG.

Two things appear to have conspired to knock the bottom out of the market for cultivated ginseng. Too many have embarked in the business and nearly every state in the union now has extensive acreage, producing a supply which is largely in excess of the demand. The Chinese think the cultivated root possesses but little of the efficacy of the wild root, while most people cannot detect a difference in the appearance of one from the other. Just at present they will not touch the cultivated root at any price. It's just so with lovers of golden grain belt beers—nothing else will do, advertisement. Order of T. R. Symons, agent. ## NOBODY CAN TELL THAT YOU DARKENED

YOUR FADED GRAY HAIR—USE SAGE TEA

MIXED WITH SULPHUR MAKES HAIR SOFT, LUSTROUS AND CURES DANDRUFF.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about fifty cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.
