

ALLIED ARMIES GAIN ON BOTH GERMAN WINGS

(American Press.) Paris, Oct. 1.—In a final effort to turn both wings of the German army, now retreating on the left and right, reinforcements are being rushed east and north by the French military staff. There has been no let-up on the two ends of the wavering battle line since last Friday.

Vienna, via Rome, Oct. 1.—Four gigantic battles and two fort bombardments involving fully 6,000,000 men, is in progress in eastern war theatre today. At no point has there been any decisive result and it will be several days before fighting will reach a crisis.

London, Oct. 1.—Slight advances by both wings of the allied armies, is indicated by an official statement issued by the French war office today, and at the same time described the general situation as unchanged. "We have nevertheless," says statement, "made progress on our left to the north of Somme and our right in the southern Weevre district.

Peking, Oct. 1.—German reports from Tsingtau, fortified position in Kiaochow territory, indicates the Germans' retirement from second line of defense around Tsingtau Monday, due to numerical strength of the Japanese. This report says that the Japanese losses were 1,700 killed.

London, Oct. 1.—According to the official bulletin given out by the war office in Paris the turning movement of the allies on their left wing north of the Somme river is developing rapidly.

No one knows except those on the ground just how the great siege battle of the Aisne is progressing, but there are many indications that its nineteenth day may be witnessing a stupendous and decisive struggle in the valley of the Somme.

Between the Rivers Oise and Aisne the Germans have delivered a vigorous attack on Tracy-le-Mont, northeast of the forest of Aigue, which has been repulsed with heavy losses. Confirmation of a news agency story that the German right wing had broken on and was in flight still is lacking.

Military experts show an inclination to discount this story, although they consider the breaking of the German right wing would be only a natural result of the great turning movement which, according to line given out by the French official reports, shows the German right wing virtually is at right angles with the rest of the line.

Reports Show Similarity. For the first time in the war there is some concordance in the drifts of the reports from the headquarters of the three armies holding the center of the stage in France. It is to be noted, however, that corroboration by one side of claims of the other is largely negative.

The French advances in the vicinity of Verdun and Toul have been renewed, according to the official German statement, and the communication of General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces, agrees with it in the statement that his troops have made "slight progress" in the field.

At the other end of the 350-mile line the "allies are holding their own," is the report from British headquarters, and the Berlin announcement seems indirectly to admit this claim by announcing that battles on this line have been indecisive. Both the French and German official reports agree the center is relatively calm.

The fact that the German army headquarters admit their great efforts to throw back the pressure of the allies is regarded in England as significant. Belgium again has been the scene of fighting which in a war of less magnitude than the present titanic struggle would be called a great battle, as it is estimated that more than 150,000 men were engaged in the Antwerp triangle. Desperate fighting took place along a line extending from Termonde to Aerschot. The Germans are reported to have been reinforced from the south of Brussels and steadily are drawing their lines about the Antwerp fortresses.

German Troops Recalled. That Germany is hard pressed by the allies in France is indicated in advices from Copenhagen that all the German troops who have been in Schleswig, Prussia, have been sent hurriedly into France and Belgium and to protect Sylt, one of the No. Frisian island, on the west coast of Schleswig. These soldiers will be replaced by smaller divisions of land-sturm troops.

This morning the captain heard a thud against the outer wall of the house and on investigating found a partridge, its neck broken. Many other partridges have been found within the city limits.

DOORS WIDE OPEN TO BOYS OF STATE

Schools of Agriculture in Several Cities of Minnesota Provide Splendid Courses for Farming.

TEACH CORRECT PRINCIPLES

Work So Arranged That it Does Not Conflict With Spring or Fall Farm Duties—A Distinct Purpose.

Opportunity calls loudly to the boys and girls of Minnesota through the state's Schools of Agriculture at St. Anthony Park, Morris and Crookston.

The great development of the next quarter-century in America is going to be agricultural. Necessity will compel this. The call, therefore, will be for young men and young women technically trained for life in the country.

To Practical Subjects. In the courses as arranged, the first three months are devoted to practical subjects. This three months' work in reality constitutes a short course in practical farming, and replaces the four weeks' short course formerly given by the school of agriculture.

The schools of agriculture of the University of Minnesota, have a very distinct purpose. They are for the boys or the girls who want to know right farming or correct principles of home management, who want to know the science of agriculture or of home building as applied to practical farm life.

Those of Another Class. There is another class for whom the schools are an open door. This is made up of young men especially, who in school work have fallen behind others of like age.

Many such farm boys go to business schools in the cities, though they have no idea of becoming stenographers or bookkeepers, simply because they can do so without being put into classes with others much younger.

"A great inducement to young men of both classes is the low cost of living at the school. I know of no institution where so much can be had for so little in living, or where instruction may be had at so low an expense rate."

CURRENCY BILL PASSED AT DEMAND OF WALL STREET

Congressman Lindbergh in Address Here Last Evening Criticizes Action of United States Congress.

IS USED IN SPECULATION

Says Banking Laws of Nation Entirely Wrong and That War Will Effect Business Here.

That the $1,500,000,000 emergency currency measure was rushed through congress at the demand of Wall street, was charged by Charles A. Lindbergh, congressman from this district, in his talk at the City hall here last evening. Mr. Lindbergh arrived in Bemidji early last evening direct from Washington and his talk here was the first of a short campaign which he will wage for reelection.

The congressman said that the war situation, cutting off as it did revenue from imports according to the tariff law, and the drain of gold in the United States for use in Europe, resulted in the passage of the $100,000,000 war tax and the $1,500,000,000 currency measure, both of which were passed by congress without sufficient study and investigation. He criticized the lack of debate in the passage of both measures.

To Buy Securities.

"Wall street urged the passage of the currency measure," said the congressman, "that it might buy securities in Europe at a low rate as a matter of speculation and profit by their sale following the conclusion of the war."

This money, amounting to a billion and a half of dollars, was sent to all parts of the United States, Minneapolis securing $25,000,000. Then came the demand of the secretary that the smaller banks stop hoarding and caused to be published a list of institutions so doing. Unconsciously the government endeavored to start the money on its way to the money centers of Chicago, St. Louis and New York, where it entered the banks of the money trust.

Duty to Lindbergh On.

Congressman Lindbergh said that it was the duty of the small banks to hang on to what money they have, it being provided for use in the best interests of the community. He urged lower interest for the farmers.

That the issuance of the currency was unnecessary and results in the inflation of currency and expands credit and causes higher interests, he claimed.

Lindbergh condemned the banking system as it now stands and said that it is in every way favorable to the interests of Wall street and enables them to gain control of the financial conditions of the country.

In speaking of the war situation he said that it is bound to paralyze business conditions in all parts of the country and will eventually effect this section, placing money at high interest and making it almost impossible to borrow.

Boss Rule Continues.

Boss rule still continues in congress, said the congressman. The people know nothing of what really goes on in congress for matters are prearranged in committee rooms behind locked doors. This, Lindbergh has been fighting for many years and will not be content until committee action is public and the newspapers allowed to print whatever is done and said and the people allowed to know the facts.

Attorney Montreville J. Brown, Republican Central committeeman of this city, introduced Congressman Lindbergh. There were no other speakers.

ROBBERIES ARE NUMEROUS.

Police Kept Busy Investigating Work of Sneak Thieves.
