Governor Hammond has named Carlos Avery, of the Hutchinson Leader, as a member of the State Game and Fish Commission, succeeding F. B. Myers, of Biwabik, whose term expires. Avery will be made executive agent, following the resignation of Rider from the commission. This will leave another vacancy and Myers should again be appointed. He has been a most active member of the commission and his work has been valuable.

Knoxville Would Keep Its Dollars At Home.

The lesson with a smile in it has sometimes the best chance. Knoxville, Tenn., has found this out and is acting upon it. Its Board of Commerce has undertaken a campaign of encouraging trade with the home merchant.

Most towns pound, "Patronize home industries," they cry. But Knoxville smiles. When its people enter the street cars they look up and read:

"Think how you'd feel if they ran you out of town. Your dollar has feelings, too. Buy at home. Knoxville."

In the store windows they see another card:

"What chance would you get at a dollar sent out of Knoxville? Buy at home. Knoxville."

Even with the smile, there is no lack of serious argument. Another card reads:

"If you buy out of town, and we buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?"

Superficial judgment will say that trade will seek its best market, that if the larger cities within mail-order reach of Knoxville can offer a wider range of selections, prompt deliveries and attractive prices, no amount of local spirit can overcome the appeal of such offers. This is only partly true, says the Minneapolis Tribune.

The home merchant has two distinct advantages if he chooses to avail himself of them: He can give the customer actual sight of the goods before the customer chooses; and he can make immediate deliveries.

Furthermore, co-operation among any large fraction of a city's buyers can work surprisingly large results. The larger the trade the larger the stock that can be carried. The merchant can extend his stock faster than at first the buying increases. And buying at home does unquestionably increase the city's turnover of funds to buy with.

If Knoxville has learned that advertising should be continuous and cumulative, if it will keep the smile in its "copy," if it will make public, from time to time, evidence that the campaign is producing fruits, there is good reason to believe that more and more of its dollars may stay at home.

EDITORIAL EXPLOSIONS

Senator Sullivan of Washington county proposes that the senate, at least, shall know, when it is voting for appropriations of the money of the taxpayers of the state, that the appropriation is either necessary or unnecessary. The senator's resolution provides for an amendment to the permanent rules of the senate requiring the production of itemized accounts of bills against the legislature with an explanation of the purpose of each item and the necessity for the same. This resolution, if adopted, means in effect that as far as the senate of Minnesota is concerned, it will have established the budget system for expenditures, the system that is in force in all private business of magnitude that is well managed and successful and that long ago should have been adopted by the state of Minnesota.—Stillwater Gazette.

Lieutenant Governor Burnquist sets a good example at the opening of the legislative session by discarding his $10-a-day private secretary, claiming that there is nothing for that functionary to do that cannot be done by the messenger. If this same spirit were to penetrate the entire assembly maybe a few scores of $5-a-day lackeys might also be dispensed with without serious loss to the service. Perhaps, for instance, a $25-a-month kid could watch a cloakroom just as efficiently as a $150-a-month man.—Red Wing Eagle.

You can't mix turnip with horse-radish and place in on the market as the real thing in the future without running amuck with the pure food and drug act. If you want to sell turnip and horse-radish mixed it must be so read on a label attached to the bottle. The pure food laws are beginning to be appreciated as the years roll past and we begin to realize what we have been having pawned off on us as the real article.—Brainerd Dispatch.

Lieutenant Governor J. A. A. Burnquist says he will get along without any secretary of the senate this session and thus save the state about $1,000. Fine! Now if some more of our state officials will only wake up to the fact that they can do without a lot of expensive hangers-on there will be a long step made on the road to real economy.—Hill City News.

MARGARET MASON TELLS OF SPRING FASHIONS

By Margaret Mason.
(United Press)
Prorogative of female kind, folks say, it is to change her mind. But more these days, I think you'll find, To change her waistline she's inclined.

New York, Jan. 15.—Once more the glass of fashion threatens to become an hour glass, judging from the shadow cast by coming Spring Fashions. Hips and busts are to be let out and given the freedom of the city and waists are to be yanked or squeezed in inch by inch. Oh, there is really no sidestepping it any longer;

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of old honest St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 25 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly!

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Try this! Mix Sage Tea and Sulphur and brush it through your hair, taking one strand at a time.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cent you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover that druff is gone and hair has stopped falling. Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger.

DULL, SPLITTING, SICK HEADACHE

Dr. James' Headache Powders relieve at once—10 cents a package.

You take a Dr. James' Headache Powder and in just a few moments your head clears and all neuralgia and distress vanishes. It's the quickest and surest relief for headache, whether dull, throbbing, splitting or nerve-racking. Send someone to the drug store and get a dime package now. Quit suffering—it's so needless. Be sure you get Dr. James' Headache Powders—then there will be no disappointment.

of $5-a-day lackeys might also be dispensed with without serious loss to the service. Perhaps, for instance, a $25-a-month kid could watch a cloakroom just as efficiently as a $150-a-month man.—Red Wing Eagle.

The popular figure for 1915 is going to be the figure 8. And not only is the 1915 waist-line going to be content to be pinched in; it's going to take a flying leap from the long of Moyer Age line to the short or Empire effect. Some jump, too, from just above the hips to just below the bust, not to mention the wastful skipping of a few centuries from the Middle Ages to the Empire period.

Almost all the perky little suits of the omnipresent putty color cravatette show the short waisted effects with cunning little strap-like belts just below the armpits. Suits of white serge for southern wear and tan toned pongees, now more popular than ever on account of the fashionable perch for any shade—that smacks of coffee, khaki, sand, putty, tan or ecru tones, are all short of waist and also of jacket, the latter either belonging to the abbreviated box coat variety or falling short and ripped from the encircling Empire belt.

Little one-piece frocks and dresses of silk or cotton fabrics are invariably short waisted and long sleeved with full buffed skirts. Many of them also boast the hip collared neck and arrayed in one of these the New Year's girl will make her last year's photograph look like an alien being.

You simply must get busy and overhaul your figure, for you never can hope to get by as a 1915 model with a last year's chassis and tonneau, believe me.

Miss Brown's in town and everything being done good and brown this year. You simply must be in something brown. If you can't do any better, be in a brown study. All the new little earliest spring hats that have peeped out timidly amidst the biting frosts are brown and sere as a fallen leaf. They are almost all of silk, or at least a combination of silk with a brim or facing or a crown of brown straw just to show which way the fashionable wind will blow.

Even tinier than their little winter sisters these new-born spring chapeaux. So teensy as to look as if they had been hatched in a hat incubator instead of a regular factory or shop. They still show a great leaning toward the warlike turban and helmet effects and fairly bristle with their spiked and curiaised jauntness. Another favorite model for the little brown hat, however, is the old reliable sailor shape in its smallest form. Either a garland of tiny French flowers circle the crown or a band of ribbon with a neat bow and streamers.

This bow and streamer of ribbon on the hats is too quaint and old-fashioned for words and is used with killing effect on wide brimmed, flat, floppy hats as well as those of Lilliputian proportions. A charming little sailor of tobacco brown straw needs nothing more than a band of narrow old blue ribbon with a picot edge of yellow simply banding the tiny crown with a neat flat bow in the rear and a fall of two streamers, one longer than the other, by a trio of inches to make it the quintessence of smartness. It's just as well there will be something long about the spring maid of 1915 even is it is merely a couple of streaming ribbon ends on her hat. Goodness knows she's going to be short of most everything with her "short" waist and the new figure calling for new corsets that will undoubtedly result in her being a little short of breath.

THE GOOD JUDGE VISITS THE CONSOLIDATED MINES

YOU know how tobacco chewers used to apologize for their tobacco when a friend wanted a chew. Now they are glad to tell their friends about "Right-Cut" because they know it's the Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to the tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; ¼ teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ¼ cup shortening; about ½ cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three table-spoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk.

Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving a smooth exterior. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Bake about twenty-five minutes. Turn the pan on a large serving-dish. Turn the pan on a large serving-dish. Turn the pan on a large serving-dish.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetizing recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 2-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jacobs Mfg. Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the 2-cent size—smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.
