THE SELECTION OF "STREET ILLUMINATION."

Better and Cheaper Light Than Ever in Future to Be Proposed. In the selection of an up-to-date system of street illumination any community has today a large range of choice, not from inference, but actual example, writes T. Comarford Martin in the American City. One of the best things to do is, of course, to get the help of engineers and illuminating experts, but the whole country may be compared today to a large museum where all the prevalent systems can be studied in full operation. In some places the "old line" arc, incandescent and high economy in waste and lumens. In other places the flaming arc bestraddles the sky and belittles the moon and stars. A good many cities have "luminous" arcs on high posts or low posts, and the results are unequivocally satisfactory. On many a thoroughfare the clustered tungsten lamps employed in ornamental street lighting and with handsome electrolites and massive curb posts make one quite indifferent to the coming of the dawn. And now the nonvacuum, nitrogen filled incandescent lamps of large candle power, at the lowest wattage consumption known to mankind, are looking up as the latest addition to the electrical resources with which our streets are all to be made Great White Ways. The future is altogether one of hope, for out of this struggle of the types and methods emerges the assurance that we shall undoubtedly have better, lighter and cheaper lights than ever for our streets, not less than a more perfect electric candle indoors to light us to bed.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG. Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you're gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. When ever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Webster's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" you will get a tiny bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp, and falling hair. A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Webster's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It is so easy to use, too. It simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

Beautifulizing California. Sixty California cities and nearly 100 civic and commercial organizations have combined to take action toward beautifulizing the whole state during the year 1915.
