The census bureau has just issued a preliminary bulletin on its report on the national wealth in 1912, in which the total wealth of the nation is placed at $187,739,000,000.

Amongst the many problems confronting the department of agriculture at Washington is the one of improving the condition of women on the farms. The department is making an earnest effort to devise ways of making life more pleasant for these women and relieving them of some of the drudgery which has heretofore fallen to their lot.

Is More Pleasant.

In his Bagley Herald, G. P. Jones says: C. A. Boalt of Winona purchased 320 acres in town of Nora three years ago. At the time Mr. Boalt purchased this one-half section, there was only about 30 acres improved; but during the last two seasons he has put under cultivation nearly 200 acres, besides he has built a new house, big barn and other necessary farm buildings, besides putting up a wind mill and also has enclosed his farm with a good fence and crossed-fenced it.

A certain amount of oil meal is good, but a mixture of the two feeds is better. The man who can supply all his feeds at home is fortunate. He who must buy should secure those materials which serve his purpose best and give the largest return for their cost price.

football and is due to be kicked in matter what it does.—HoKah Chief.

The automobile has done more for good roads than all the talking and lecturing on record. They have been the cause of the roads being removed and the ditches filled. Every automobile man is a booster for good roads and with their boosting they actually take hold with the end of permanent improvement in view, and they are getting it.

TANKAGE FOR HOGS OUTDOES OIL MEAL

Tankage, as a supplement to corn rations for hogs, is more profitable than linnseed oil meal at present prices and for nearly all classes of hogs is a more valuable feed.

Recent tests at the Minnesota Experiment station are of interest to every Minnesota hog raiser who does not have plenty of milk or buttermilk. R. C. Ashby, in charge of swine at the University farm, gives the following results with hogs fattened for market last winter.

Of five lots of hogs fed from December 22, 1914, to February 24, 1915, three were fed on corn, shorts, and tankage, and one on corn, shorts and oil meal. The average ration for the tankage lots was: Shelled corn, 84.45 per cent. Shorts, 7.37 per cent. Tankage, 7.47 per cent.

The initial weight of the oil meal lot was 136.75 pounds; the final weight 211.70 pounds; the average daily gain 1.17 pounds; the number of pounds of grain for each 100 pounds was 531.13, and the profit per bushel of grain 5.3 cents. The average initial weight of the three tankage lots was 138.83 pounds; final weight 228.17 pounds; the average daily gain 1.39 pounds; the number of pounds of grain for each 100 pounds of gain 482.16, and the profit per bushel of grain 12.5 cents.

From December 24 to March 23, Mr. Ashby had on feed five lots of fall pigs, each lot receiving somewhat different rations. Of these one lot was fed corn, shorts and tankage, while a second lot was fed corn, shorts and oil meal. The tankage fed lot made an average gain of 0.722 pounds a day, and the oil meal lot each 376 pounds of grain eaten, while the oil meal lot required 460 pounds of grain for each 100 pounds of gain. The feed cost of 100 pounds gain on the tankage lot was $4.32 and on the oil meal lot was $5.27.

Tankage is a product marketed by the packing house and is obtained from animal carcasses—blood, meat scraps, etc. It contains 60 per cent of protein and from 15 to 17 per cent of mineral matter, while oil meal contains 31 to 33 per cent of protein, and from 6 to 7 per cent of mineral. Mineral matter is used to build bone and frame, and protein is used to develop muscular tissue, blood and vital organs. Tankage is rich in lime and phosphorus, two materials greatly needed by young hogs and brood sows.

A certain amount of oil meal is good, but a mixture of the two feeds is better. The man who can supply all his feeds at home is fortunate. He who must buy should secure those materials which serve his purpose best and give the largest return for their cost price.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of It in Bemidji But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed. Not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood. When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood. Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble. It is often the kidneys' cry for help. Heed it. Read what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for overworked kidneys. Read what Doan's have done for Bemidji people.
