Tone plus tone control

You would not get much pleasure out of a piano that could only be played when the loud pedal was down; and there would be no satisfaction in playing it with the soft pedal nailed down all the time, either.

In the same way there is not much pleasure owning a "talking machine" with a fixed volume of tone. Tone-control is just as essential to enjoyment as tone-quality.

With a Columbia Grafonola you get both.

A convincing example of the triumph of tone plus tone-control is this complete and completely enclosed upright Columbia Grafonola. The Price:

We'll gladly play this or any other Columbia over to you, or send one to your home, with an outfit of records on approval.
