

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION NOMINATES WILSON AND MARSHALL

PRESIDENT NOMINATED BY DEMOCRATS AT A MIDNIGHT SESSION

Suffrage Plank is Entirely Unsatisfactory to Members of Women's Party.

WILSON ACCEPTS PLACE SAYING HE IS GRATEFUL

Resolutions Committee Has an All-Night Session; Scrap on Floor Possible.

(By United Press) St. Louis, June 16.—Woodrow Wilson was nominated president at a midnight session of the Democratic national convention.

Discards Speech. Thomas Marshall was nominated for vice president. Senator Kern, in nominating Marshall, discarded a prepared speech and simply said, "I renominate Thomas R. Marshall."

Judge Westcott of New Jersey delivered the address placing Wilson's name in nomination. Applause was given his remarks on the policy toward Mexico.

President Wilson in Washington when informed of the action taken by the convention said, "I am very grateful."

Merely Words. Following a 22 hours' continuous session, the Democratic resolutions committee this morning agreed upon a suffrage plank entirely unsatisfactory to women.

Suffrage Defeated. The equal suffrage plank as a national issue was defeated by a vote of 20 to 22. The following amendment was adopted by a vote of 25 to 20: "We recommend the extension of the franchise to women of the country by states upon the same terms as men."

All-Night Session. It was a motley crew of politicians and statesmen that finished the all-night session. The room on the second floor of the Planters hotel where the resolutions committee met was a sight.

Delegates Go Home. The fight on the platform began last night at ten o'clock. The president's draft was changed three times. The main fight was on the suffrage convention between the western and southern states, with the southern states opposing suffrage.

Wilson for Lynch. The balance of the delegates were slow in arriving this morning. Huge sections of the convention floor and the galleries were vacant.

Denounce Americans. Unmeasured denunciation of hyphenated Americans, the lauding of all President Wilson's achievements during the past three years and the promise of additional labor legislation besides declarations for Americanism and preparedness are the features of the Democratic platform submitted to the convention this afternoon following the all-night meet of the resolutions committee.

Word from Washington last night was that President Wilson favors Lynch as the Minnesota delegate. That settled matters. The formal ratification of Lynch's appointment will be made late this afternoon, it is estimated.
