

What Society is doing

The home of Mrs. Belle Anderson, 736 Hunter street, was the scene of a pretty social function last evening when about 20 guests were entertained in honor of Miss Beth Evans of Bemidji, the hostess being Mrs. F. L. Graves, who was assisted by Mrs. E. Wilde. The color scheme for the rooms was worked out in yellow and green, autumn leaves being used to secure the very pleasing effect. Miss Evans pleased with a couple of vocal solos and Miss Florence Levins gave two very pleasing readings. Norwegian whist was played with Miss Helen Misner being given high honors and Miss Lucile Cram was awarded the "booby" prize. A guest prize was presented the honor guest, Miss Evans. Refreshments were served during the course of the evening.—Crookston Daily Times, Oct. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Naugle, Mrs. J. W. Naugle and Arch Naugle returned last evening from Norway, Mich., where they have been the guests of Mrs. J. W. Naugle's daughter, Mrs. Charles Borchardt, and husband. Mr. Borchardt, who is superintendent of the Norway schools, was formerly superintendent of the schools at Crookston. Mrs. H. P. Dunning of Chicago, another daughter of Mrs. Naugle, and two children were also guests at the Borchardt home for a few days. The Bemidji party made the trip of 1,200 miles by automobile and with a very few exceptions found the roads in excellent condition.

Rev. and Mrs. Ira D. Alvord, accompanied by William Towell and Mrs. Beaver, will motor to Park Rapids Wednesday where they will attend the state convention of the Baptist church as delegates from this city. Wednesday evening, Oct. 11, will be the opening session and the convention will continue over Sunday, Oct. 15. This is the first state meeting of the Baptist church ever held north of the Twin Cities.

Frank Snow of Prunella, Wash., who has been in Duluth for several days this week on business, visited Bemidji friends while enroute to his home. Mr. Snow and family were former Bemidji residents, moving from here about eight years ago. Mr. Snow was pleased to note the many changes and improvements made during that time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Barnett, who were recently married, were tendered a reception by the married people of the Baptist church Wednesday evening at their home on 1008 Mississippi avenue. About thirty people were in attendance, and Mr. and Mrs. Barnett were both presented with gifts.

Misses Olive Whaley, Jess Woodford, Belle McGuckin and Eva Hirt, teachers in the Cass Lake schools, are the guests of Miss Whaley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Whaley, during the week-end. While in the city they will attend the Elks' carnival.

RED PEP'S PHILOSOPHY

"One reason we respect the Bull Dog is that he finishes what he starts"

And we feel we are entitled to due respect on the same account.

We are continually starting something in the lumber line that patrons are always pleased to help us finish.

We are constantly achieving our object of giving to the builders and farmers in this community the best lumber, in it's various forms, that the forrests afford, and at moderate prices.

We have lumber to fit your building plans and your pocket book.

This is what the boss of

The St. Hilaire Lbr. Co.

told me to tell you this week and I wouldn't tell you if I didn't know it is right.

Yours from start to finish,

"RED PEP"

I will receive a fancy car of

Hand Picked Bulk Apples

in a few days and will be pleased to have you hold your apple orders for me. I sell only good apples and you can depend on good stock as soon as this car arrives.
