water, and shouted to the children standing on the river bank:

"Oh, come on in, the water's fine!"

Smaller Boys Were Heroes.

Less than a minute later Thomas touched the quicksand bottom of the river and cried for help. Theodore Olson, who celebrated his thirteenth birthday but yesterday, immediately wanted to jump into the water in order to help his older friend, but Oscar Olson attempted to hold him back, saying it would be too dangerous and, most likely, perfectly useless to attempt to rescue.

Theodore, however, quickly made up his mind to help Thomas, undressed, told Cy, his youngest brother, to sit tight on his clothes until he came back, and then jumped.

From what could be learned, Theodore caught hold of Thomas, but was dragged down to the bottom by the weight of the older boy and by the suction of the water.

At the instant that Oscar Olson realized the danger of his brother, he, too, undressed in a hurry and went into the water trying to effect a rescue. He, also, was dragged to the bottom.

A meeting is planned for Monday evening at Grygla and it is expected that much will be accomplished along this line since residents there have expressed a hearty desire for such a meeting.

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock all those who plan to make the trip or have at some time or other expressed a desire to do so, are asked to meet at the rooms of the Bemidji Civic and Commerce association. Those who do not attend or who do not report to the committee that they will be able to make the trip will be considered as having given up the project and others will be asked to join the party. Attention is called to the fact that it is urged that as many Bemidji people as possible make plans to attend the meeting at Waskish Thursday.
