NEW VIALO DANA

PICTURE CARRIES

STAR TO TRIUMPH

When Viola Dana, star of H. V. Esmond's "Dangerous To Men," now showing at the Rex theatre, was a child acting on the legitimate stage her parents used to make her lead the simple life on a farm near Williamsbridge, New York, in the summer. They were determined she should be a healthy, normal child, even if she was in theatrical work. But the theatre-going experience of the other children in the country was limited to attending the circus and they had an impression that because Miss Dana was on the stage she must be an acrobat. They implored her to do stunts. Rather than disappoint them she climbed a tree and swung from a horizontal branch. But she slipped and fell. One arm was broken. This kept her quiet for a little while. But a month later she was back to work on the stage, with her arm well.

"Father used to keep me on the farm," she says, "but I'd like to see the man who could keep me on the farm now."

TOM MIX AT THE REX SATURDAY

Tom Mix, the daredevil of the screen, who will be seen as Jere Lynch, only son of a family of feudists, with the courage to fall in love with the daughter of the enemy, when William Fox presents "The Feud" at the Rex theatre on Saturday, has lived more stories of adventure than he has yet had time to present on the screen.

Tom Mix was born in the southwest when that section was rife with the spirit of lawlessness and was raised as a cowboy there. He has been deputy sheriff, state and national enforcement officer, and a member of the Rough Riders, during the Spanish-American war, and later was Chief of Scouts in the Philippines. He also fought in the suppression of the Boxer uprising in China.

The adventure which Mix prizes most highly was the hunting trip on which he acted as guide to Theodore Roosevelt. The friendship established on this trip continued until the end of Roosevelt's life.

Mix first appeared on the screen solely as a daredevil, but quickly showed acting ability which won him serious roles. He has appeared as star in about twenty Fox productions, among the most important of which are "The Speed Maniac," "Rough Riding Romance," "The Wilderness Trail," "Fighting for Gold," "Hell Roarin' Reform," "The Coming of the Law," "Mr. Logan, U. S. A." and "Durand of the Bad Lands."

LAHOMA AT REX SUNDAY

Splendidly cast are the many different characters in "Lahoma." The name part required two actresses, as the story opens when Lahoma is but a child. Little Peaches Jackson has spent almost all her seven years before the camera, playing with such producers and stars as Allen Hollibaugh, D. W. Griffith, Doug Fairbanks, Tom Moore, Mabel Normand and Pathe's own Blanche Sweet. "The Girl in the Web," being Peaches' newest release.

Louise Burnham is the grown-up Lahoma, and an elfin sprite she proves to be. She has the fire and vivacity that characterized Clarence Seymour, the Griffith star who died recently. She will charm all who see her.

The biggest male role falls to Russell Simpson, with honors shared by Will Jeffries and Wade Boteler. Simpson gives a tender, but gripping portrayal of the out-law—the great heart who gave his life for the little waif, Lahoma, whom he loved above all else. Will Jeffries has a role widely differing from that of the crooked son in "Sherry." Herein he plays an Indian Chief with great stolidity. Wade Boteler makes his villainous role convincing.

Jack Perin, a popular star and leading man, is mainly in the role of Lahoma's sweetheart. Others who do splendid work are S. B. Phillips

LEONARD IS NOW FULLY CONVINCED

Gained Eighteen Pounds Since Taking Tanlac and Says His Health Is Fine

"I have gained eighteen pounds since I started taking Tanlac and am now as well and sound as anybody," recently said Edwin Leonard, 234 Seventh St., North Bronx, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I was in a weak, run-down condition due to a bad case of stomach trouble that had worried me nearly two years. My appetite was fairly good but what I ate disagreed with me. I would bloat all up with sour gas and have the worst sort of pains in my stomach. I suffered also from constipation and my nerves were on edge all the time and I was never able to get much sleep. I fell off in weight and was simply playing out altogether."

"Tanlac has built me up until I feel like a different man and I am as strong as I ever was in my life. I have an appetite like a wolf and my big gain in weight shows how well what I eat agrees with me. I am not constipated now and my nerves are so strong and steady I sleep all night without waking up once. I am never troubled in any way whatever now and couldn't ask to be in better health."

Tanlac is sold in Bemidji by City Drug Store, Knutson & Lilja at Graeton, and by the leading druggists in every town.—Adv.

as the cynic and Lahoma's teacher; Yvette Mitchell as the Indian girl, Red Fawn; H. M. Lindley and John Carville as two pitiless outlaws, and Lurline Lyons as the child's mother, proving that Edgar Lewis's policy of no stars, but every part played by the right actor.

BRET HARTE'S STORY

H. B. Warner, the famous Robertson-Cole star, has a virile and colorful vehicle in "The Gray Wolf's Ghost," a screen adaptation of Bret Harte's exciting tale of early California days, which appears at the Elko theatre tonight and tomorrow.

The fascination and glamour of Harte's characters are graphically portrayed, and the story has lost none of its gripping intensity in its screen adaptation.

If any person has doubts about the truth that nothing is so stubborn as a mule or donkey, let him attend "He Laughs Last," a Big "V" comedy which will also be shown at the Elko tonight and Saturday.

From the moment when Jimmy Aubrey, in the role of the prospector, pleads with his burro to be "reasonable," until he decides at last to give up the job of sheriff of Peace Center, there is just a long succession of laughs. Even coffins, a cemetery and open graves are made killingly funny. The buzzard, which becomes keenly interested in the new sheriff as soon as it sees his star, is a scream.

SAYS VAUDEVILLE

TONIGHT—"BEST YET"

Last night's vaudeville bill in its entirety was one of the best yet given on the Harwa program. Roth and Slater in "The Wrong Neighborhood," and Alburts and McVey in "A Scene at the Fair Grounds," are Orpheum time acts. In the latter act the performers show themselves masters of juggling, displaying a proficiency that must have required months of practice and hard work.—Little Falls Transcript.

This is what the editor of the Little Falls Transcript says of the vaudeville acts which will appear at the Grand theatre in this city tonight.

Charlotte and Leopold in a comedy singing, talking and piano ace and Charlotte Stockhill the Magnetic American songbird preceded by Taylor Holmes in the comedy drama "Taxi" will complete the program.

Deep Sea Boatswain.

The habit of attacking and endeavoring to overthrow venerable and other institutions is not consigned to human outlaws. One of the most persistent and ingenious of nature's iconoclasts is a marine worm, commonly known as the shipworm, which swarms in certain waters, especially on the coasts of East Africa. It apparently resents the introduction of wood into its domain, and whenever it comes across a ship, wharf, or pier formed of this material, it takes at once direct action. Its method is to bore into the timber, following the trend of the grain, and whenever it encounters a knot it makes a slight detour, and again forges ahead. Thus the erection, whatever it may be, is rapidly undermined. It is stated that a wooden viaduct which was erected across the arm of the sea which connects Mombasa with the mainland was practically destroyed by these vermin of the deep.

Picturesque Rags.

"No matter how ragged a refugee is in Turkey, he always has a patch of bright color about his clothes," writes a Y. W. C. A. secretary from Harpoot where she has been working among Arab refugees. "I have never seen such rags anywhere but they are picturesque, being made up of patches of as many colors as Joseph's coat—always bits of blue, red and yellow about them." On the hillsides of Palestine near by shepherds tending their flocks of sheep and goats and herds of cattle in the ancient style wear capes and coats of bright hues, often, the only spot of color on the landscape.

Melon Tidbit of Ancients.

Melons were first extensively cultivated in France early in the seventeenth century, but were known to the ancients from the commencement of our era. The Egyptians grew them. They are said to have been carried to America by Columbus, and to the Malay archipelago by the Portuguese. No other fruit is so variable in foliage and habit, or undergoes so many metamorphoses by crossing its varieties, all of which are fertile. They are grown extensively in Asia, but little care is bestowed on their cultivation, and they consequently never improve. They grow on sandbanks left dry by the falling rivers; if near a town a portion of the crop can be sold, but most of it is valueless, as it rots if taken any distance by cart or boat.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify, and freshen the entire alimentary tract before eating more food.

Get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless. Drink phosphated hot water every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins; also to prevent their formation.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.
