NUBS OF NEWS.

Attend the board of health meeting to-night.

The county commissioners met in Bernalillo yesterday.

The free and easy has been closed to make room for a five cents beer hall.

There was a large lot of passengers on the south bound emigrant train yesterday.

The bar room at Lillwall's hotel has been closed for a few days by the assignees.

H. M. Stone yesterday took Billy Ryan's place in the New York clothing house.

F. A. Fritsch has started in business for himself. Real estate and insurance is his line.

Block & Loventhal, the Frisco restaurant men, will run the Maden house lunch counter.

L. Harriman, proprietor of the Journal Hotel, has placed in position several attractive new signs.

Capt. H. H. Bible has completed his cottage on Silver avenue, and moved into it yesterday.

Mrs. Capt. R. C. Vose will leave this city on Thursday for California, where she goes for the benefit of her health.

Among the other improvements being made to the Maden house is an awning which is being erected on the east side of the building.

Officer Murphy gathered in three pick pockets Sunday night, who robbed a man near the depot for $75.

There was a fourth one in the gang, but the vigilant Murphy failed to catch on.

Con Erbeck has opened a grocery store in the First National Bank block and has in stock a fine assortment of fancy groceries.

There was scarcely standing room on the Chihuahua excursion train last night. The management did not secure enough cars, at least one more coach should have been added to the train.

John R. Price, the railroad contractor, is now at Jemez springs engaged in fishing. Reports received from there say he is the most successful fisherman who has struck the place this season.

The Las Vegas Optic has moved into a new office, and now comes out with its customary gall and claims the best printing office in the west.

Of course they don't know that the Journal is in the country.

An eminent medical authority asserts that a half teaspoonful of cream of tartar taken in water twice a day is a certain cure for small pox, and is as effective a preventive as vaccination.

It is cheap and simple and worthy of a trial.

A meeting of citizens is called at the Board of Trade rooms at 7:30 this evening for the purpose of organizing a board of health and providing some means of maintaining it after it is organized.

There should be a large attendance as every one is interested in the sanitary condition of the city.

Charles Hulise and J.W. Sullivan, who were mentioned as being in company with J. W. Hillman alias "Tex," on last Thursday night, are men whom he met at Cayote cañon.

While it is true that they worked with "Tex," at the mines in the cañon yet it is none the less true that they knew nothing of the man nor of his evil doings and should not be classed in the same category with him.

Court met at 10 A. M. yesterday, Judge Bell presiding. The docket was gone over and some cases disposed of either by being set for trial, continued or stricken from the list.

The grand jury were sworn, and after a very full and comprehensive charge by the court they were sent to their room with a large batch of criminal business, which will be reported to the court this morning at 10 o'clock.

While Con Caddigan was at Manzanillas in pursuit of Tex he found the people there in a state of excitement. A man had stolen a shotgun and had been captured by the indignation populace, who were intent upon lynching him.

Con played the part of the rescuer, and intervened for the poor victim and saved his life. If similar scenes were of daily occurrence at Manzanillas that town would furnish an excellent field for an ambitious newspaper reporter.

E. P. Sullivan, who has been engaged in this city in the capacity of stage manager of the opera house, leaves this morning for Pueblo, Colorado, where he proposes to reorganize the Black Crook and go on a tour through the Western States.

Mr. Sullivan is an actor of superior merit, but he properly belongs on the legitimate stage instead of the variety. In his new enterprise he is bound to meet with success, as he possesses the tact of giving first-class entertainments, and first-class entertainments are certain of drawing good houses.

A small Indian boy, who was about to be sent to Albuquerque to school, engaged in the interesting employment of hammering the brass end of a rifle cartridge, the implements used being two stones. The untutored mind of the youthful savage awakened to the fact that he was off wrong when the cartridge exploded, and one of his fingers fluttered to the breeze. Dr. Thomas had the wound properly cared for and the child of the forest is still on the turf with a better knowledge of powder than he had heretofore acquired.

He suffered intensely, but bore the pain like a hero.—New Mexican.

A TEXAN RANGER.

Con Caddigan and Two Deputies Follow Hillman to Near Manzanilla.

The Fugitive is Tracked for Nearly a Hundred Miles, But Makes His Escape.

The Desperado Evidently Making for Texas—Where He Had Been Accused of the Murder of Two Men.

Con Caddigan and the two deputies, Bob Harris and Fred Rainwell, who went in pursuit of J. W. Hillman alias "Tex" returned Sunday evening about 6 o'clock.

After leaving the city on Friday they proceeded to Cayote Cañon where they met Hulise and Sullivan, who had just succeeded in getting rid of their troublesome companion, "Tex."

Without stopping they started off in the direction of Tijeras cañon. At Carpenter's they found that Hillman had stopped to have his mule shod.

Finding that the fugitive was but four hours ahead of them, and that he had taken the main road to Chilli, they again started on the chase.

Caddigan says the trail was plainly marked by the new shoe on Hillman's mule. Arriving at Chilli, they found that their man had a horse in addition to his mule, and that he, therefore, had much the best of his pursuers.

The officers took the road to Manzanillas and kept straight down for the town, as a Mexican had informed them that Hillman had gone in that direction.

Buffalo Springs ranch lies to the left of the main road, and it was in that direction that Hillman went, while Caddigan, passing the turn in the road, went to Manzanillas before he found out that his man had taken another course.

There was nothing now for the officers to do but to return to this city, which, as stated above, they did.

Hillman evidently knows the country in the direction of which he is going, and in fact it is reported that he owns a large ranch in Brown's country, Texas, but having killed two men in that state he was obliged to leave it.

As is well known to all Texans, the Seven Rivers country has about the hardest name of any one section in the United States, it being filled with desperados of the worst kind, and it is to that asylum evidently, that he is fleeing.

The mule which Hillman had is owned at Manzanillas, and was stolen from that place some time ago, as it is supposed by him. There are rumors of many other crimes that this man has committed, and that he is a cool-headed, calculating villain, is proved by the fact that after leaving this city he refused to drink a drop. He was offered liquor at Carpenter's but would not indulge. Bryson and Boyd who started on the trail Saturday morning, have not yet returned.

RAILROAD REVIEW.

The engineers of the New Mexico Central and Northern railroad will start tomorrow to go over the proposed line.

Mr. G. G. Lyman, we understand, is to do the work. R. M. Town will furnish the transportation. It now begins to look as if this road would give a reality. A few more such moves will give the people some confidence in the enterprise.—Las Vegas Gazette.

After a month's absence in the east, Andy Boyd, the popular engineer, has returned to take his engine again. The bad effects of the injuries he received have almost entirely passed away.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe work train is filling in the piece of low ground just south of the new freight depot, for the purpose of running in a switch.

The eating houses, along the line of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, will hereafter be managed by Elton Moore.

To those who travel the road this will be welcome news as Elton is one of the best caterers in the West.

Among the changes along the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, are the following: At Las Vegas, C. A. Mitchell is now acting agent; C. L. Lane, Chief in Superintendent Sand's office; A. Bell goes to Lamy as agent, while J. F. Henniger goes to Topeka, in the purchasing agent's office. Mr. Swanagan becomes a traveling auditor. Mr. Fiskell is now acting freight agent in Mr. Gage's place.

Erratum. In the publication of the awards for mineral exhibits in your Sunday morning addition, two errors occurred, viz: Capt. Michel Cooney received the second premium, $50.00, for the best mineral exhibit from any one mining district, instead of A. A. Thacker, who received the first premium, $50.00, for the best collection from any one mine in the Territory.

Respectfully, D. B. EMMERT, Secretary.

The Fair. The second annual Territorial fair has been an unequalled success. There was nothing to mar the even progress of the program, which was varied and interesting. Weather and time were favorable, as the days were pleasant and the concourse numerous. It pleases us to think that the exhibits of the Territory were well represented. Some counties brought minerals, others products of the soil. New mines which have been developed within the past year displayed their riches, and the Atlantic & Pacific railroad showed the power of the land along its line by the many various products grown.

The merchants of Albuquerque gave a creditable display of merchandise, and together with the products of native manufacturers added interest to the fair. All during the week the racing attracted crowds of spectators and it reflects credit on the directors that they offered sufficient inducements to attract such a number of good horses.

Mining News.—Demand for Miners.—An Old Market With a History.—The Battle of Valverde.—No Opposition to Luna.—Another Toledo Parole.—A Word of Advice.—Cattle Thieves.—Wants to Re-sign as a Peace Officer.—No Bonus for Smelters.—Sant City News Continued.

E. L. Smart left yesterday for Cat Mountain district for the purpose of further developing his noted Bay City lode.

J. K. Gooding and A. B. Elder left Saturday night for the south, especially for the Organ and Percha districts. They go to purchase ore for the smelter.

There will be a great demand for miners here this fall for the purpose of doing assessment work. There are hundreds of claims in this county that assessment work is due on, and if not looked after between now and the 1st day of January, will be "jumpable." To hold claims that were located last year $100 worth of work must be done on each before the beginning of 1883.

Harlow & Wallace have in their store an old Harper's Perry musket, made in 1845, that was recently picked up off of the battle-field at Valverde. The battle of Valverde was fought during the early part of the rebellion between the Union and Confederate forces.

The town is a small Mexican village, about twenty miles south of Socorro. In this connection I will relate an incident that occurred during the battle. When it was learned that the rebel forces were invading New Mexico, a union regiment was hastily organized in Socorro for the purpose of opposing the invaders. The Colorado regiment was composed of hardy pioneers, dead shots and from every state in the union. They knew but little as to the cause of the war, but in fact they were fighting to manning the flag of their country was sufficient to cause them to enlist and hasten down the Rio Grande to meet the foe. Each man armed himself and dressed to suit his own fancy.

The result was that the first Colorado to have the most motley looking outfit that has followed the stars and stripes since the days of Washington. In the rebel army was one full company over 100 strong armed with lances, and which had never failed to rout the enemy. The Mexican militia that they had encountered during their triumphant march up the Rio Grande.

At Valverde they discovered the Colorado regiment drawn up in rather a disorderly manner, and they opened fire on them for Mexican militia leveled their lances and charged, expecting to see the enemy flee like chaff before the wind. The Coloradans awaited until the Texan lancers came within two hundred yards, when they fired which caused a slaughter and equalled during the war. But three of the lancers lived to return to their command, all the remainder being killed or fatally wounded by the Coloradans.

So true was the aim of the Colorado that scarcely a horse belonging to the enemy was wounded.

The only opposition to Mr. Luna in Socorro county is to be found in the Sun, an alleged Republican paper, and a popular opinion will soon compel it to take sides with the people's choice. The Black Range and the Mogollons will be sold for him, at least that is what Capt. Cooney says and he ought to know as he was a member of the San Marcial detachment. Mr. Luna will carry Socorro County like a Kansas county, and all she wants to know is how many votes he needs to insure his election. Let Mr. Luna furnish the figures and he shall have the ballots. It is true that every good index of the people's little opposition to Mr. Luna here, but that has all disappeared long ago. The few have been carried along with the storm of enthusiasm, eaten their crow like little men and proved to be very good indeed, although they do not recommend it for a steady diet. The chorus of a very popular song sung nightly on the streets by Democrats and Republicans, old and young alike, is:

"Luna forever, harrn boys, harrn boys, 'till the day we play around the alley boys, 'till we play around the alley boys, 'till we play around the alley boys."

The poetry is not what might be called away up, but it expresses to a certain extent our wild, untamed enthusiasm and reckless joy.

The two precincts here held a mass convention Saturday night and selected delegates to attend the people's or tad pole convention, to be held upon the tenth instant. Some think the affair was cut and dried, simply because the chairman of Precinct No. 1 after calling the roll of names and reading the names of the delegates, said: "Gentlemen, I shall appoint a committee of five to select delegates to attend the convention—four besides myself. I am the chairman of this meeting and propose to run it to suit myself, and I no kind of a hindrance." The self-constituted committee then adjourned to make up the slate while the "mass" hung itself around Mr. Luna, awaiting the result of their boss.

It gave you the names of the delegates selected but its no use, you'll never hear of them again.

In this connection I will remark for the benefit of a certain gentleman who wants to be postmaster, that he had better stop the people's movement as though it was a hot potato. The present administration is a stalwart one and won't tolerate any foolishness. Nothing but the pure gold goes this time.

Mr. Manzanillas business partners here claim that he will be a candidate for delegate. He has said he would not spare the time, and he is not the man to go back on his word.

Cattle thieves have been getting in their work on our people. A pair of steers were recently stolen and disposed of twenty-five head of stolen cattle to one of our stockmen.

Judge D. Z. Moore has returned from Lake Valley disgusted with the outlook. It is only a matter of time when Lake Valley will drop to some thing reasonable.

Mayor DeBaun contemplates resigning, probably to take the stump for Luna. Wm. Watson is spoken of as Judge DeBaun's successor as Mayor. Capt. Drake. The latter's health, though, would prevent his accepting the office if tendered though he would make an efficient official.

Ex-Agent Russell, late of the Mesquero, has an Apache shield made and presented him by the old chief, Futzella. The shield is made of rawhide and will turn an arrow or an ordinary pistol bullet. The manufacture of this shield goes to prove that there are many of the mechanical trades in which the Indians could successfully compete with the whites and thus become self-supporting.

Capt. Beery arrived last night from the Black Range country. He reports mining matters rather quiet in that locality, most of the miners being engaged in doing their assessment work a large amount of which falls due this year.

Both stacks at the smelter will be fired next week.

The citizens' meeting held Saturday looking towards donating money on which to locate a new smelter met with very little encouragement. A half dozen men own nearly all the vacant ground in this locality and if they have not got public spirit enough to donate sufficient ground for the new smelter they ought at least not ask the business men to. Ore will bring very little encouragement. A smelting millers without donations, consequently every dollar donated to smelters and mills is that much thrown away. Flash up the ore and they will come on their own account.

Robt. Houston is in from the Pueblos where he is interested in a number of rich claims.

The county commissioners meet on the 4th inst.

The material for the new White Oaks paper still remains at the depot.

Dr. Carter is in Arizona collecting birds for a well known eastern collector. The doctor is a splendid taxidermist and through naturalist.

Due shooting in the sloughs between here and San Antonio is the big sport at the time.

Dr. Way is in the Mogollons where he is employed by the Cooney Company's chemist.

Socorro is well supplied with photographs, having three of that profession.

Death of Oscar Nicholson.

Oscar Nicholson, or as he was better known "Nick," the cigar man, died Sunday afternoon about 2 o'clock, after an illness of only five days.

Nicholson was born at Warsaw, New York, where his parents still reside, and came to the western country many years ago. He was about 42 years of age at the time of his death.

Telegrams were sent to his parents as well as to a brother who lives in Chicago, Ill. No word has been received in reply up to the present time.
