REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR DELEGATE IN CONGRESS. HON. TRANQUILINO LUNA OF VALENCIA COUNTY.

BERNALILLO COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A County Convention of the Republican party of Bernalillo County, is being called to meet at the District Court room, in the city of Albuquerque, on Saturday, Oct. 21st, 1882, at 10 o'clock a. m. for the purpose of nominating two members of the County, three members of the House and County officers of said County of Bernalillo, to be voted for by the Republican party of said county.

Each precinct will be entitled to representation in said Convention, as follows: No. 1-Bernalillo, 6. No. 2-Carral, 3. No. 3-Alameda, 4. No. 4-La Buncosa, 2. No. 5-San Juan, 2. No. 6-Pajarito, 2. No. 7-San Antonio, 2. No. 8-La Gracia, 2. No. 9-Buenos Aires, 2. No. 10-Chili, 2. No. 11-La Buncosa, 2. No. 12-Albuquerque (east end), 4. No. 13-Albuquerque (west end), 4. No. 14-San Francisco, 2. No. 15-Casa Blanca, 2. No. 16-Placitas, 2. No. 17-Tina Blanca, 2. No. 18-Jemez, 2. No. 19-Arroyo, 2. No. 20-Nacimiento, 2. No. 21-La Ventana, 2. No. 22-San Pedro, 2. No. 23-Walton, 2. No. 24-San Ysidro, 2.

Specimens of Indian Skilled Labor. The government on the 7th of last March gave a contract for 2,000 pairs of brogans to General Armstrong, who set at work nine of his Indians and three of his colored pupils at Hampton Institute. The government has also ordered seventy-five sets of double plow harnesses. Samples of the shoes and harnesses are now on exhibition at the store of Houghton, Coolidge & Co., in Boston, and competent inspectors say that they are so well made, both in finish and for service, as to compete successfully with the products of northern workmen. A. L. Coolidge pronounces the work superior to any which could be produced by hand by any three men in a hundred who can be found in northern factories. General Armstrong is hopeful that within five years all the shoes and harnesses needed on the plains can be made by Indian young men at home, as the 100 at Hampton and the 300 at Carlisle, besides others instructed elsewhere, become adept at handicraft. Those who have already gone back from these institutes are, as a rule, doing well, and prove not only that the Indian, under favoring circumstances, is able and willing to work, but that he may be made a valuable producer and citizen at far less cost than it takes to fight him.

Manufacturing in the West. From the Post and Ship Recorder. Heretofore the eastern states have enjoyed the reputation of being the great shoe manufacturing centre of this country, and fully seventy-five per cent. of the goods used in America were made in this section, but we are now hearing rumors and talk of the west as a shoe country. Certainly, developments tend that way, and the positions and facilities are equally as good as here in our eastern country. Take that portion of the United States west of Chicago, and we find it rapidly building up. The growth in population is immense, and therefore the consumption of goods must be enormous. It is now largely supplied with eastern goods. Take the great southwest and a good portion of the south itself, and we find the best of communications with Chicago and other points in its immediate vicinity. The country is lined with railroads and the rivers afford a quick and cheap transportation to direct points. The country and the climate are in many cases preferable to this. Then why should not the manufacturing centre there?

Very Gracious. The language of England to the Porte is that of a man graciously explaining some simple thing to a three-year-old child. The Porte wants to know why England does not withdraw her troops from Egypt, and England replies that the temporary presence of a certain number of troops is necessary to preserve order. Some of the troops, she deigns to remark, have been withdrawn already, and the rest will go as soon as seems best. The Porte is given to understand that there has been an understanding in Egypt, and that England has gone to considerable trouble and expense to compose matters, and that just as soon as they are composed beyond peradventure and nothing else appears to be in the way, the soldiers will be ordered home. This seems to be a very clear and definite reply, yet it may be doubted if the Porte is perfectly satisfied.

The Rum Question in Connecticut. This is the way the Connecticut Democrats treated the "rum" question in their convention platform: "We fully recognize the evils arising from the abuse of intoxicating liquors. We believe these evils may be most effectually checked by the force of an enlightened public opinion. They may be partially restrained by wise legislation, but such legislation should not be so oppressive or impracticable in its provision as to trench on the personal rights and liberties of the citizens, and ought not to be made a partisan question. We believe the incorporation of a police regulation relative to the sale of intoxicating liquors into the state constitution to be opposed to the plainest principles of sound government."

Just So. The Transcript says: "If Vanderbilt, Gould and other enormously rich men of New York only had Peter Cooper's popularity, how much more pleasant their lives would be." If they only had Peter Cooper's air cushion, then how much more, etc., etc.—Boston Star.

new-days, and every one of these helps to bring the town to the notice of the public. We have only just got to the point now, where we can begin to attract immigration from the east, and everything indicates that the growth of Albuquerque has hardly yet commenced. All the progress that has been made up to this time—and which everybody properly regards as wonderful—is but the introduction to the "boom" that we shall experience during the next two years.

ALL SATISFACTORY. Just after the closing of the fair there was considerable dissatisfaction expressed, especially by Mr. Nathan Bibo, of Bernalillo, with the manner in which the premiums on certain classes of minerals had been awarded. But Mr. Bibo authorizes us to say now that having stated his case to the officers of the association, everything has been satisfactorily arranged, and he has no further ground for complaint.

The new weekly from Hillsboro, the Prospector, put in its first appearance at the Journal office yesterday. Hillsboro is between Lake Valley and the camps on the Percha, in the midst of the richest mines in the Territory. The Prospector is full of news from the mines, and will be particularly interesting to readers abroad.

The signal officer at Leavenworth, in his report of the weather, published in Tuesday morning's Times, says: "Amount of rainfall during past 24 hours, 20 inches." The drought seems to be over in Kansas.

WHEN THE NEW academy building is completed Albuquerque will have the largest and best public school building in the Territory.

The registration of voters now in progress will show that Albuquerque has a larger population than any other town in the Territory.

VENUS AND ANTARES.

On the 16th instant, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, says The Scientific American, the planet Venus will be in conjunction with the first magnitude star Alpha Scorpii, better known as Antares, the familiar red star in the constellation of the Scorpion. At her nearest approach Venus is only eight minutes from the star, and at that time, the opportunity for observation will be unusually favorable and will form a delightful study. The contrast in dimensions between Venus, which nearly at her brightest, and a first magnitude star, and the contrast in color between the red tint of Antares and the soft golden hue of the planet, are points to be noted, as well as the exceeding beauty of the scene in which the actors are sure to appear as soon as the short autumnal twilight fades. Antares is almost as easily found as Venus, being a brilliant red star near the planet. Observers will find great pleasure in watching their gradual approach from night to night, until they meet and pass each other on the celestial highway, approaching at conjunction more closely than any other planet and star have done before during the year.

A "Stomach Investigator." John Walruff, the Kansas brewer to whom Governor St. John paid special attention in a recent speech, is as frank about his business as anyone could wish. "In place of closing my establishment," said he to a reporter the other day, "I have in the past year added to its capacity four times, and have just purchased in Nebraska 10,000 bushels of barley to be shipped at once to me in Kansas. I have quit the manufacture of beer, and have gone to manufacturing a 'stomach investigator' at my chemical works in Lawrence, the sale of which I find as large and larger than ever before. I am protected by decisions of the Supreme Court, which says plainly that a man must be prepared to swear that his stomach investigator intoxicated him, which he never can do, and the Governor or State or city authorities dare not interfere with my business, and they will not. My establishment is valued at $60,000, and no one or no law dare confiscate it, and it will not be done in a free country. No one has yet undertaken to interfere with me or my business, and I don't think I have any desire to go to Mr. Walruff's establishment, but there was more drinking of intoxicating liquors in Kansas now than there ever was before.

A Big Job.

Judge Folger has undertaken to run the treasury department on business principles in some minor particulars, if not in greater ones. The discipline of the office has become notoriously lax, but a new order of things was introduced last week. Clerks were instructed to present themselves at the beginning of business hours and to remain there until the close, on penalty of being docked in their pay. They were ordered, moreover, to work, and not smoke, visit or read newspapers. Leaves of absence, it is also given out, are not henceforth to be indiscriminately granted, though probably there will be no objection raised to New Yorkers going home to vote. The regulations are praiseworthy, but Secretary Folger will prove himself a bigger man than his predecessor if he enforces them rigorously.

Rebellion Against the Boss.

The "war inside of the Republican party of St. Louis" is simply a contest on the one hand for packed primaries and cut-and-dried nominations, and on the other hand for a full and free expression of opinion as to all candidates and a decent regard for individual preference. The men who are in revolt against Filley simply deny his right to force upon the party such nominations as he may choose to make, consulting only the whims of his own mind and the good of his own pocket. Speaking for this large element of the Republican party, we say that there will be neither compromise nor concession this side of the utter defeat of Mr. Filley and his gang.

The Aurora.

Lieutenant Danenbower, in the course of his lecture the other evening, stated that the Aurora he witnessed in the Arctic regions was not so brilliant as an aurora he had witnessed in Chicago. It is evident that the Lieutenant has no intention of repeating the lecture in St. Louis.

A RIVAL OF LADY GODIVA.

The Condition in which "Squire Newsum of Columbus, Paraded the Street on a $1,000 Wagon." Columbus (Ind.) Special to the Indianapolis Sentinel.

A novel sensation occurred in Columbus to-day, which probably has no equal in the United States. It will give Columbus a reputation far and wide and will distinguish the principal character in the episode. The particulars are these: "Squire David Newsum a leading citizen of this place, lives in the eastern limit of the city, and his cozy little home was mortgaged to Frank Crump, the wealthiest man in Bartholomew county. For some time past Newsum has been depressed on account of not being able to pay off the mortgage which was due. At noon to-day the two men met at Palmer & Maynard's saloon. Newsum told Crump he couldn't pay him, whereupon Crump told him that if he (Newsum) would go home through the streets and return the mortgage of $988 upon his property. Whereupon Newsum stripped stark naked and procured an open landau, in which he would go home through the streets and return the mortgage of $988 upon his property.
