

KLONDIKE KINGS.

CAPT. JOHN HEALY, WHO IS CALLED THE REAL KING.

Alexander McDonald, Who Is Said to Have Made the Biggest Strike—Both Men Were Old Prospectors.

John Healy, "K. K." That means John Healy, King of the Klondike. The title is given by those who have lately been in Alaska grubbing for gold to a genial, jovial, old hunter and prospector who went into that frozen country before many of those who have since grown rich there had ever heard of it, says the Chicago Times-Herald. Had it not been for John Healy, indeed, it is doubtful if the world would yet know of the riches of the Klondike. Why? Because after he had wandered over the Alaskan hills and learned what the country contained he came back to civilization in the interest of opening up the region to prospectors and hunters, while others who were there were doing their best to keep it closed.

But aside from being the so-called "King of the Klondike," who is John Healy? To start with he was a boy in New York. Then he ran away from home to join the Walker filibusters on the Pacific coast. Later he became a hunter, trapper, prospector, guide and scout on the Western plains, and a Montana hunter. Twelve years ago he went to Alaska, and has been the means of organizing the largest transportation company that now goes into the country. Even which is just one of the principal points on the mountain route to the Klondike diggings, was once Healy's store. The so-called king of today established his trading post there years and years ago. He is a pioneer of the pioneers. Incidentally, while a scout on the West-

POISON, NOT SUNSTROKE.

It is the Former That Kills but It is the Latter Which Gets the Blame.

THE REAL "KING OF KLONDIKE."

A person who is sunstruck does not die because of overheating of the blood, but for the reason that there has been formed in his veins by the fierce rays of the sun a poison so deadly that it destroys the nerve cells, says the New York Herald. This somewhat startling information, even to the most skilled medical men, is the result of a series of experiments by Dr. Ira Van Gieson, director of the New York State Pathological Institute, and one of the foremost disciples of medical science of the day. The announcement at this season is particularly timely.

MA'ULIFFE TURNS COOPER.

The Pugilist Hard at Work in a Little Shop in Brooklyn.

Clad in rough clothes, covered with grime and dust, and perspiring from the result of his hard labor, Jack Ma'uliffe, once the bold pugilist of the world and a feature of the Ring, is now busy in a little corner shop on Third street and Kent avenue, Brooklyn.

WILLIAM PROCTOR'S HARD HEAD.

Block of Pine Falls on a Georgia Darkey's Skull and Has Little or No Effect.

The relative hardness of good, sound yellow pine is the most important of the practical test the other afternoon and the hours were easy. The block of solid heart pine was cut into a few slabs, and the skull. One corner of the block was chipped off, but whether this came about through pressure with a heavy sledge, or by accident, is not clear.

READY TO DIE.

A Georgia Negro Who Was Willing to Be a Martyr to Water-melons.

From the Atlanta Constitution. The melon crop was short this year, and a Southwest Georgia farmer who had practically made his money by growing them had suffered seriously from the depredations of some of the hungry colored brethren. So he gave out a notice that he would reward them with a sack of melons if they would eat them.

HE SAVED A SMALL FORTUNE.

Walter Sanger Paid the Premiums on His Father's Life Insurance of $185,000.

Walter C. Sanger, one of the country's famous bicycle riders, has added to his laurels of the road by his success in business. The recent demise in this city of Casper M. Sanger, father of the cyclist, and up to the time of his death, he was responsible for the announcement of the fact that he had paid the premiums on his father's life insurance, which had been saved from forfeiture mainly through the efforts of Walter, who had taken over the business of a wheelman to the payment of the premiums on this large amount of insurance.

PLUCKING THE INNOCENT.

A Street Fakie's Tale of the Cunning of Countrymen Who Best Him.

From the Cleveland Leader. "No," said the fakie to a group of people that had gathered around him. "There's no use talking to me about the innocence of the countryman. He may buy a good melon, but he'll be sure to get a check and lose his farm, but as a rule he can take care of himself, just as well as the next one, and generally a little better. If I knew as much as some farmers I wouldn't be in this business, and you can gamble on that."

DON'T CONTEST THE POINT.

If You Go to Klondike and Have No Luck Accept Your Wife's Scolding.

This Klondike craze will develop its romantic side. The California craze, as it is said, old. Let me tell you one of them. I know an old fellow who is "living in one of the Middle states was a young man, an only child, whose father was rich. He had everything that he could want. But the gold fever seized him, and he began secretly to make preparations to cross the continent. One thing came into his mind. He was deeply in love with a young woman, a near neighbor. He was afraid she would not carry off the prize in his absence. She had many suitors. He didn't think of course, of taking her along with him. The gold fever, however, was so strong that he decided to go to California. He planned to leave her in the care of his

NEGROES AND THE NAVY.

Messrs. Long and Roosevelt's Position on the Race Question—Hazing of the Last Negro Admitted.

Much interest is felt here, says the Washington correspondent of the New York Post, in the result of the examination of the two negro boys who applied for admission to the naval academy at Annapolis, and were put through their mental and physical ordeals yesterday. It was supposed that the two boys had been nominated for examination, but better informed persons say that the boy from North Carolina, is a Caucasian. The rumor that he was a negro probably grew out of the fact that he was nominated by Representative White, who is a negro, but at the last examination Mr. White nominated a white boy, who failed, and it was then understood that he would name the same boy for the military academy at West Point. The military academy at West Point has given diplomas to one or more negroes, but the navy has not.

THE BROKER'S ROLL OF BILLS.

A "Match" Game in Which Unbroken Luck Is Accounted For—Always Draw From the Right Side.

From the New York Mail and Express. No reformed gambler has ever described a game that has been going on in one of the exchanges, and as several score shrewd and up-to-date brokers have been made victims it is a pretty certain thing that the game is a new one. It is simple—simplicity itself—and having been discovered by one of the brokers, it is a fairly even chance that an orthodoxy on one side of the floor will have been carried through before this story becomes public.

ONE ONLY WORLD.

Is Our Earth the Only Pebble on the Universe's Beach—Some People Have Come to That Opinion.

Popular astronomy and the Hartford Courant have come to the conclusion, says the New York Mail and Express, that the earth, and such being the case, it is a very desirable place to reside. The earth is not only one of the most beautiful bodies in the universe, but it is also one of the most habitable. It is a globe of fire and ice, and it is a globe of life and death. It is a globe of joy and sorrow, and it is a globe of hope and despair.
