SECRETED BIG EXTENSIONS OF SPACE AT PARIS.

UNITED STATES WELL TREATED

NOW HAS AS MUCH AS THE MOST FAVORED NATION.

Sites for a National Building and an Agricultural Pavilion and Liberal Annex Space Adjoining Some of the Principal Buildings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Ferdinand W. Peck, commissioner of the United States to the Paris exposition, advised here today on the American liner St. Louis. He was accompanied by Mrs. Peck, Miss Arline Peck, F. W. Peck, Jr., and Lester Spindling Peck.

"Concerning the mission abroad, the commissioner said today: "The results obtained are highly gratifying, and beyond expectation. When we reached Paris we were officially informed in definite terms that the allotments to all nations had been made, and that the United States had its full proportion, and that no more space within or outside the buildings could be given—the subject was sealed in the hands of the committee in asking for a site for a national building, as the entire area that could be disposed of for foreign pavilions had been disposed of.

"This was the situation for about a month. During that period, many influences were brought to bear, and the arrival of Ambassador Cambon from the United States, together with the return of De Launay Beaulieu, in charge of foreign space, brought about a change which resulted in concession after concession, until we had obtained an increase in exhibit space of 2,000 square feet, an addition of 25 per cent, beyond the other grant we had undertaken to secure.

"The United States now has an area in excess of any foreign nation. A site for a national building, of the same location and size to that granted Great Britain or Germany, countries which have the largest areas for their buildings for a similar purpose, and special facilities were secured in the United States.

"We also secured a site for an agricultural pavilion adjoining the main agricultural building, and the United States section in the latter building was re-located so as to be next to the new one.

"A most valuable space of about 16,000 square feet in the heart of the exposition grounds, adjoining the manufactures building, has been granted, likewise an adjacent space for the United States section in the forestry building; 2,000 square feet additional in marine transportation and an annex to this department of 5,000 square feet for the United States weather bureau and exhibits.

"We also asked for place for representation among the 'colonies' exhibits, which was finally obtained, although much explanation was required to convince the committee that the United States belonged to the category of nations possessing colonies.

"Besides these specific allotments, we have secured a special concession for the operation of an American passenger train, facilities for the United States in the service, also for field trials of agricultural and other machinery and various minor concessions. All of the space is in the main exhibition grounds, in the heart of the city of Paris. We shall have, in addition, our full proportion in the annex at Vincennes, which will be a most important part of the exposition, being beautifully located and situated in the heart of the people will be drawn there by international athletic sports on land and water. These are the most precious and exclusive sites that you let the water run to cool it.

"We, of course, gave much consideration to the site for the proposed Lafayette monument and finally concluded to ask for a site in the historic garden of the Tuileries, upon the axis of the unrivaled Arc de Triumphe. The outgoing prime minister, M. Ribot, agreed to recommend this site to the government.

"No foreign nation has yet allotted the exhibitors any space, and the commissioners of all other nations are daily endeavoring to obtain space; yet the members of our delegation, in their various departments, a greater part of the drive for the United States sections; in this, as well as in other respects, we have received exceptional consideration.

"We realized that the importance of our country in the eyes of the world would be increased by the presence of the United States in the exhibition grounds, and we have endeavored to use this fact to the full extent in connection with what we have accomplished. It is the greatness of our country and its political standing that most of the credit is due for satisfactory results in the exhibition grounds.

"The foundation for our vast work has been laid at a most opportune time, following the success of the Paris exposition of 1889, and the influence of the French government in its relations to the exposition could be successfully invoked.

"Commissioner Peck will start for Washington tomorrow, and expects to return to the city on Monday. He will visit the offices and make arrangements for the intending exhibitors.

NO FRONT DOORS OPEN.

Therefore Judge Burnham Dismisses Cases Against Thirty Saloonkeepers.

What constitutes a flagrant violation of the law and the orders of the police board? The police commissioners ordered that the saloons of the city should be closed on election day. Thirty men were arrested for violating the order, which is in compliance with the state law. In most of these cases the back doors were open and in discharging the thirty men yesterday Judge Burnham declared that no saloon had been found in violation of the order. If the front doors had been taken from their hinges and a man with a sledge had been stationed on the sidewalk, it is probable that the spirit if not the letter of the order would have been violated.

Another reason assigned by Judge Burnham for dismissing the cases was that it was the first time the police had ever made an attempt to enforce the closing ordinance. He gave the majority of the dram-drinking saloonkeepers a free pass for violating the order. Judge Burnham said that last Tuesday's election was the most orderly and peaceable in the history of the city, and for this reason he was inclined to be lenient with violators of the closing ordinance.

All of the dram-drinking saloonkeepers arrested Tuesday have been cited to appear before the police commissioners next Wednesday. It is generally believed that the saloonkeepers will be able to get out of the case that Judge Burnham dismissed yesterday. The offenders may be left with a reputation and a promise to comply with orders of the board in the future.
