BISHOPS AND PEERS.
Not in Sympathy—Episcopal Life in House of Lords.
The attitude of the lay peers toward the spiritual peers, according to Archbishop Magee, is one of indifference, if not hostility. Writing to his friend MacDonnell, in 1878, Dr. Magee said: "I am thoroughly sick of Episcopal life in parliament, where we are hated by the peers as a set of parvenus whom they would gladly rid themselves of if they dared, and only allowed on sufferance to speak now and then on church questions after a timid and respectful sort." But no one can deny that the bishops, in their black and white gowns, contribute to the picturesqueness of the house of lords. The wigs they wore in former times—not curled or with a pigtail, like the familiar hobnobbing of the barrister, but puffed out at the sides—were discarded in the early years of the reign of Queen Victoria. Dr. Blomfield, bishop of London, was the last prelate who appeared with a wig in the house of lords. Long before that the wearing of pigtails and powdered hair by lay peers had become unfashionable. The duke of Cleveland clung to the old style of dress, and after he died, in 1842, the pigtail and powder were seen no more in the house of lords. As for the chamber—the gilded chamber, as Gladstone first styled it—that, indeed, is a fit dwelling place for statesmen and sages.—Good Words.
FIVE GOVERNORS.
Massachusetts' Queer Case When the Governor is Away.
Much amusement was caused at the state house Tuesday over the announcement that Massachusetts was without a governor. It happened that Lieut. Gov. Bates returned sooner than expected, and was at the executive chamber, but if he had not, the fact remains that under the constitution the commonwealth would have no less than five governors to fill the vacancy caused by the absence of both governor and lieutenant governor. Article VI, chapter 11, of the constitution of Massachusetts provides that:
"Whenever the office of the governor and lieutenant governor shall be vacant, by reason of death, absence or otherwise, then the council, or the major part of them, shall during such vacancy have full power and authority to do, and execute, all and every such acts, matters and things as the governor and lieutenant governor might or could by virtue of this constitution do or execute, if they or either of them were personally present."
A majority of the council is five.—Boston Journal.
After a Bad Showing.
When any one has been to the front, and made a bad showing, it is now the popular thing to say he should go away back and sit down.—Atchison Globe.

THE NEW YORK WORLD
THREE-A-WEEK EDITION.
The Most Widely Read Newspaper in America
Time has demonstrated that the Three-a-Week World stands alone in its class. Other papers have imitated its form but not its success. This is because it tells all the news all the time and tells it impartially, whether that news be political or otherwise. It is, in fact, almost a daily at the price of a weekly and you can not afford to be without it.
Republican and Democrat alike can read the Three-a-Week World with absolute confidence in its truth.
In addition to news, it publishes first-class serial stories and other features suited to the home and fireside.
The Three-a-Week World's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the INTELLIGENCER together one year for $1.75.
A GREAT NEWSPAPER.
The Sunday edition of the St. Louis Republic is a marvel of modern newspaper enterprise. The organization of its news service is world-wide, complete in every department; in fact, superior to that of any other newspaper.
The magazine section is illustrated in daintily tinted colors and splendid half-tone pictures. This section contains more high class literary matter than any of the monthly magazines. The fashions illustrated in natural colors are especially valuable to the ladies.
The colored comic section is a genuine laugh-maker. The funny cartoons are by the best artists. The humorous stories are high class, by authors of national reputation.
Sheet music, a high-class, popular song, is furnished free every Sunday in the Republic.
The price of the Sunday Republic by mail one year is $2.00. For sale by all news dealers.
