

ENGLAND SAYS NO ALUM IN FOOD

and strictly prohibits the sale of alum
baking powder—

So does France
So does Germany

The sale of alum foods
has been made illegal in Washington and the District of Columbia, and alum baking powders are everywhere recognized as injurious.

To protect yourself against alum,
when ordering baking powder,

Say plainly—

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

and be very sure you get Royal.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It adds to the digestibility and wholesomeness of the food.

Last Appeal to Missouri Confederates.

To all Camps of the "United Confederate Veterans" in Missouri; to the "Confederate Southern Memorial Association"; to all Organizations of the "Sons of Veterans" and Chapters of the "Daughters of the Confederacy"; to all surviving Confederate Soldiers in Missouri; and to the relatives and friends of the deceased Confederate Soldier:

In 1903 Congress directed the Secretary of War to compile from the records of this office, a "Roster of the officers and enlisted men of the Union and Confederate Armies." The records of the Union soldiers being complete, and the records of the Confederate soldiers being very incomplete—not exceeding 25 per cent of enlistment—the Secretary of War requested the Governors of the several Southern states to co-operate with the Department in making the Confederate part of the Roster as complete as possible, in order that the Confederate soldier might receive that recognition which he is justly entitled to. All these States, with the exception of Missouri, immediately took up the work, and have about completed same, under Legislative authority, with appropriations ranging from $5,000 to $20,000. When I learned these facts, at the Reunion in Richmond, last June, knowing that our Legislature would order not meet until 1909, and realizing that the few surviving soldiers are rapidly passing away, I determined to inaugurate the work in Missouri, hoping and believing that our Legislature, at its next session, would order it to be completed, and also to have it made a matter of record in the Adjutant General's Office at Jefferson City.

The work undertaken by me has been more successful than I anticipated, owing to the fact that the Press of the State, regardless of politics, appreciating the importance of collecting this historical data, gave the subject much publicity. Since the 5th of August last I have received over 500 letters, collected about 3,000 original Confederate documents, consisting of Muster Rolls, Historic Rolls, and other miscellaneous papers relating to the service of Missourians who served in the Confederate Army. These documents have been forwarded to the War Department for record and return after they have served the purpose for which they were loaned. This work has the approval of the Missouri Division of the United Confederate Veterans, in Convention assembled, at Fulton, last fall.

As all of the other Southern States have completed their work, it is probable that the War Department will commence the publication of the Roster sometimes during this year; if so, not over 30 per cent of the names of Missouri soldiers will appear in this "Great Memorial Volume," as Maj. Gen. Ainsworth is pleased to call the Roster.

For the sake of history; for the sake of memory of our deceased comrades who fell upon the field of battle, and now lie buried in graves unmarked—unknown—and those who, since that eventful period, have answered the "last roll call," it becomes our sacred duty to see that their names are correctly enrolled upon the pages of this Official Roster, which will be published by the Government.

Commence this work at once, by organization, in every county, town and precinct in the state. Collect and send in all original Muster Rolls and documents made during the war, relating to the service of Missourians in the Confederate Army. Also from memory, prepare lists of Confederates from Missouri, giving date and place of birth; date and place of enlistment; rank, company, regiment and brigade; when surrendered and where; killed, when and where; where residing; and incidents of service. Same data is desired relating to the service of Confederates from other States who settled in Missouri after the War.

Forward all data, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope, when answer is required, to
