HAS THE MILITARY INSTINCT

Some Time Ruler of Germany Demonstrated the Fact a Short Time Ago.

The eldest son of the German crown prince has made his first public, though unexpected, appearance in a military role quite in keeping with Hohenzollern traditions. He is at present 24 years old.

The other day pedestrians strolling along Unter den Linden and casting the usual glance along the windows of the crown prince's palace, saw little Wilhelm climb on to the window seat and stand upright on the seat. He caught sight of the crowd which was rapidly assembling outside and regarded it with benevolent curiosity.

Presently, shouldering a stick he carried like a rifle, he strutted solemnly backward and forward across the breadth of the window, every now and then stopping to present arms to the spectators. This little comedy had been going on for some minutes, when suddenly a large hand was thrust out of the background. It seized the little prince and ruthlessly and unceremoniously dragged him from the scene.

SHE MAKES ALLOWANCES.

The woman whom everybody likes is tolerant and broad-minded. She always sees the best side of everybody. She is above reproach herself, but she is the first to make allowances for those who have wandered off the path, and to hold out a helping hand of friendship to them. She pities where others blame.

She "stands up" for her friends—and her enemies, too, if she should happen to have any.

And she is thoroughly good-natured. She can admire other people's beauty, accomplishments, successes, wholeheartedly. There is nothing envious, or mean, or petty, or small about her. Her philosophy is a bright, stimulating, every-day one. She sees things as they are, takes them as they come, and makes the best of them.

ALWAYS FULL.

"No," said Uncle Tom, firmly. "I shouldn't think of having a bath on a full stomach."

"Then you mean to say, nunk," roke in little curly-headed Willie just then, "that you never have a bath!"

PUN AT NORDICA'S EXPENSE.

Apropos of Mme. Nordica's contest of the will of her aunt, Mrs. Allen, and the claim of the famous singer that considerable of this wealth came from her grandfather, Camp Meeting John Allen, is told a story illustrating the old revivalist's sense of humor.

His wife was getting into a carriage one day, and the old gentleman neglected to assist her. "You are not as gallant, John, as when you were a boy," she exclaimed.

"No," was his response, "and you aren't as buoyant as when you were a gal."—Boston Journal.

HE HITS BACK.

There had been a domestic spat at breakfast. "You monster!" snapped the matron, who was always scolding, "you are not like my two former husbands. They were tender men."

"I never doubted that they were tender, Maria," ventured the meek man, "when you kept them in hot water all the time." And he just cleared the front porch two yards ahead of the rolling pin.

SHOPPING INSTINCT.

"If he has proposed, why don't you give him an answer?"

"I can't make up my mind whether I would like him when I got him home."—Brooklyn Life.

AMATEUR GARDENING.

"Have you harrowed your vegetable plot, Jones?"

"No, but I have my feelings."
