The Lion and the Mouse.
The Associated Theatre company presented their first play in this city Monday "The Lion and the Mouse." The play was interesting and every part was well handled. The company has seven theatres on the circuit and will play in Lexington every Tuesday night. Next week will be "The Commanding Officer."

Not Sorry for Blunder.
"If my friends hadn't blundered in thinking I was a doomed victim of consumption I might not be alive now," writes Dr. T. Sanders, of Harrodsburg, Ky., "but for years they saw every attempt to cure a lung-racking cough fail. At last I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The effect was wonderful. It soon stopped the cough and I am now in better health than I have had for years. This wonderful life-saver is an unrivaled remedy for coughs, colds, la-grippe, asthma, croup, hemorrhages, whooping cough or weak lungs. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Crenshaw & Young."

Saves an Iowa Man's Life.
The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for stomach, Liver or Kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c. at Crenshaw & Young.

ANTHILLS
Observations Made Among Anthills of Wide Area Show Close Fraternity if Not Confederacy.

To satisfy himself that something resembling national life existed among separate mounds of ants, Dr. Henry C. McCook, author of "Ant Communities," made observations among 1,700 anthills scattered over a space of 50 acres. A small oak branch covered with aphides and their attendant ants was placed upon a mound 20 rods distant. It was thought that if anything would incite to hostility it would be the intrusion of members of a separate community upon feeding grounds. On the contrary, the ants being called from the hill, came out and mounted the branch with the usual excited bearing and then mingled with its original occupants on friendly terms and began to feed quietly. A spadeful of earth was swiftly cut from the mound, and with the ants, cocoons and broken cells, thrown into a pail and carried to a cone 50 rods distant. After the first sharp challenge the imported ants melted away into the general community as though at home. From this Doctor McCook concludes "that among the myriads of creatures occupying more than 1,700 mounds, there was a complete fraternity—if, indeed, they were not one mighty confederacy. Here was a republic which in the number of its separate states—for every mound was an independent community of ants—and in the multitude of its total population exceeded the most sanguine prophecy of the future of the American republic."—Harper's Literary Gossip.

Jack—People used to live in caves. Jim—Well, with the subway it's easy to get back to the simple life.

SHOULD HAVE BEEN THERE.
Father S— was remarkable for his ready wit. On one occasion, while traveling on a steamboat, a well-known sharper, who wished to get into the priest's good graces, said: "Father, I should like very much to hear one of your sermons."
"Well," said the clergyman, "you could have heard me last Sunday if you had been where you should have been."
"Where was that, pray?"
"In the county jail," answered the bluff priest as he walked away.—Tit-Bits

PLAYING SAFE.
"Johnny," said the teacher, "this is the third time I have had to punish you this week. Why are you so naughty?"
"Because," answered the incorrigible youngster, "grandpa says the good die young, and I ain't takin' my chances."

PROSAC FELLOW.
"You can get an armful of daisies for a dime," pointed out the optimist, "and just look at their bright, merry little faces."
"What do I want with an armful of daisies," growled the pessimist. "I'd rather have a cheese sandwich."

HOW HE DID IT.
"How have you managed to live so long without getting a wrinkle in your face?"
"Well, I don't think I—"
"Oh, that it, eh? I suppose one has to be born with the ability to keep from thinking."

AN ARMISTICE ONLY.
Maud—So Helen and Jack have made up their quarrel, have they?
Ethel—Yes, but only temporarily. They're going to be married soon.

Company for dinner - IT'S ALL READY - THE ROUND OAK CHIEF RANGE NEVER FAILS ME. SIMPLY INCOMPARABLE

THE OVEN in the Chief is the finest you ever saw—large, high, capacious, gracefully arched and insulated all around—everywhere—by asbestos-board three times the usual thickness, and every bit covered by 16-gauge boiler iron. The fire-box is made of good Round Oak gray cast-iron and is exactly the right size and shape to insure correct results, while the duplex grates permit the use of any kind of fuel. The reservoir supplies an abundance of hot water—heated by contact—and you can bake and heat water at the same time. The Chief is a range without an equal. It received highest award—remember—at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, Seattle, over all others exhibited. We will welcome a chance to show you, further, how good and dependable it is.
