

Surprises Her Friends.

Saturday morning when Miss Nellie Price was about to board the train, she informed our correspondent that she was bound for Ottumwa, Iowa, to join her husband and there make her future home. Miss Nellie immediately became Mrs. C. C. Knipe, as she had been since December 16th, when she and Mr. Knipe went to Olatha, Kansas, and were married. Mrs. Knipe is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Price of this city. She was born and grew to beautiful young womanhood in Lexington. She is a graduate of the Lexington High School. Mr. Knipe was for a time engaged in the mercantile business in Lexington. During his short stay here he impressed everyone with his manly qualities and business ability. He now has a position in Ottumwa, Iowa.

The Intelligencer extends congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy married life.

The Best Way Out.

The city council Tuesday night listened to arguments pro and con for the readjustment of merchant's licenses, and as contemplated by the council, a raise all along the line. The only sensible thing to do is to get the city's business on a cash basis. Lump the whole indebtedness, take up the old bonds and float a new issue covering the whole indebtedness, and then when a city council creates an indebtedness for any one year greater than the revenue for that year, have that council make pay it instead of placing the burden on the merchants. The merchant's license though should be readjusted; some are paying too much, some too little and some not anything. But let's have the bond issue and start with a clean slate so the city can do business on a cash basis and save almost enough to pay the interest on the bonds.

A bill has been introduced in the South Carolina legislature, the purpose of which is to limit the wealth of her citizens so that no one may own more than $10,000,000 or be proprietor of more than 1,000 acres of land.

DR. PRICE'S CREAM Baking Powder

Purity in food, lower cost of living—these are the demands of the day.

Pure food is health, and health is economy itself. We cannot have health without healthful food.

The most healthful foods are the quickly raised flour foods—biscuit, cake, muffins, crusts and other pastry, when perfectly made from wholesome ingredients.

Dr. PRICE'S baking powder makes these foods in specially attractive, appetizing and wholesome form, and for both economic and hygienic reasons, such food should be more largely substituted for meat in the daily diet.

But bear in mind that alum, or unwholesome baking powder, can never make pure, wholesome food.
