HARRY D. DURST.

In presenting the name of Harry D. Durst to the readers of The Intelligencer as a candidate for congress in this district, we do so, firm in the conviction that if Mr. Durst is nominated and elected he will bring to this county and district some of the prestige enjoyed while Mr. Cowherd was our representative. It cannot be denied that this district is not receiving the recognition it is entitled to in national affairs, and to remedy this it is necessary that a change be made in our representative. At this day and age a congressman's ability is not measured by his passiveness in voting with the party, right or wrong, or his ability to distribute garden seeds to the greatest number of his constituents. The Seventh district surely can produce a man with some originality; a man of individuality and character who will command respect and recognition within a reasonable time; a man who will do something besides draw his salary and walk in the shadow of the other members of Missouri's delegation. The Seventh needs a man who has been, first, a success in his own business. A man who has risen by individual effort to a prominent place in his chosen profession, and who commands the respect and admiration of his neighbors for these qualities. Let us not deceive ourselves in thinking that it takes a congressman with just ordinary ability ten years to get a chairmanship of an insignificant committee. Ability there counts, and recognition is forthcoming to the man who has it. The Seventh has been kind to Mr. Hamlin. He has been given every opportunity to grow, and no doubt he has done his best, but his best does not measure up to the standard we should expect in a congressman. He should be set aside and another man gives the opportunity who has been, at least, successful in former undertakings, to show that he is of the caliber of which congressmen are made, and eminently qualified to meet the demands of this important office. The Intelligencer expresses the belief that Mr. Durst is the man.

LET TRUTH PREVAIL.

A great many people, and especially the demagogues, jump to the conclusion right away whenever there is a long protracted labor trouble in any industry that the operators alone are too blame. In the Colorado trouble many would make it appear that the blame rests entirely with the operators. Whether this is true or not, we do not know. It is reasonable to suppose, however, that one side is as truthful as the other, and while our sympathies are always with the under dog, if the under dog is not too "yaller," we would give credence to statements corresponding to facts established in other strikes. Mr. Rockefeller who owns 40 per cent of the stock of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company says that 90 per cent of the company's employees are non-union men, and that he has no objection to organized labor, but insists that the unions should not be permitted to impose discriminations against the men not affiliated with them. Mr. Rockefeller further says: "We stand ready to lose every cent we have invested in that company rather than that the workingmen of this country should lose their right to work for whom they please." "It's a great principle. It's a national issue. And we intend to support the officers in their course, which is in support of the workingmen themselves and their right to work for whom they please." If these statements are true, Mr. Rockefeller should receive the support of every honest man in the country. In the meantime United States troops are on the way to disarm the belligerents and restore order to the mining district. Let truth prevail.

Plenty of Coal.

It is interesting to note that William D. Haywood of the I. W. W. has announced that in the event of war between the United States and Mexico, this country would find itself without fuel, since it has been decided that if such a war is launched the coal mines will be deserted by the miners. This is a pretty poor specimen of Americanism. Yet it need worry nobody. If the United States finds it necessary to pursue its program toward Mexico to the extent of prolonged armed conflict, there will be good Americans enough to man the mines. There will be no need of coercion. Nevertheless, it will do no good to remind Mr. Haywood that in the event of a war the Government, backed by the sentiment of millions of worthy citizens, has its own way of getting its tasks done. Policemen's clubs, used in a somewhat unheroic fashion in cases of merely local disturbance, nothing compared with those forms of coercion which the Government can properly command when emergencies arise. — St. Louis Times.

Sneer!

If a statesman stands for the constitution, sneer!
If a President pleads for the nation's honor, sneer!
If a speaker of the House defends his platform, sneer!
If business men protest against demagogic legislation, sneer!
If a parent rebukes a wayward child, sneer!
If a woman asks for human rights, sneer!
If a Bar Association resents assaults on the Judiciary, sneer!
If a patriotic citizen opposes attacks upon our representative form of government, sneer!
If a Civil Service reformer rebukes the degradation of politics, sneer!
If a captain of industry exposes the insincerity of a muck-raker, sneer!
If a generous philanthropist bestows his favor upon a deserving institution, sneer!

If an old-fashioned thinker commends the simple life of those who complain of the high cost of living, sneer!
If the church utters a warning against those who parade under the banner, "No God, No Master," sneer!
If Justice declares against the iniquity of race and class distinctions, sneer!
If a voice cries out against luxury, extravagance and vice, sneer!
"In the law it is written. With men of other tongues and other lips will I speak unto this people."
—Leslie's Weekly.
