He is amply qualified in every sense to perform the duties peculiar to this court, and if nominated he will make every honorable effort to be elected, and if elected, he will give his best efforts to the transaction of the county's business in a manner suitable to all concerned.

Mr. Durst's Campaign.

The quiet, dignified, honorable and successful campaign Harry D. Durst is making for the Democratic nomination for representative in congress in the Seventh district, is gratifying to his thousands of friends in Greene and other counties in the district. A self-made man, one who has risen from hardships and poverty, without a college education but with an abundance of common sense, energy, industry and honesty, he became a leading member of the Springfield bar and a fighting Democrat whose influence is relied on in every campaign to overcome the Republican majority in this country. He is a man of broad experience, having traveled over a large part of the world and his record as a member of the city council indicates what he will do in the broader field in Washington. Being a volunteer officer in the Spanish war he has a practical experience of one of the never-ending questions before congress

—military affairs. While a favorite of the younger Democracy Mr. Durst has long ago reached the age of discretion, having turned into middle life and is capable in every way of making the district a good representative in the lower house of congress.—Springfield Leader.

The Cost of Pasteurizing Milk.

With a properly designed and properly operated plant the average cost of pasteurizing milk is $0.00313 a gallon, and of cream $0.00634 a gallon, according to tests recently conducted by the department. These tests also show that the "flash" process, by which milk is raised to a temperature of 165 degrees F. and kept there for a moment only, is more expensive than the "holder" process, in which milk is maintained for 30 minutes at a temperature of 135 degrees to 145 degrees. The "holder" process requires 17 per cent less heat than the other and, in addition, there is a saving on the expense of cooling. For hygienic reasons, also, the department recommends the "holder" process.

Many milk plants and creameries, it was found, do not attempt to make any use of the latent heat in the exhaust steam from their engines and steam-driven auxiliaries. This heat would be sufficient in many cases for all the pasteurizing done in the plants if it were properly utilized instead of being permitted to go to waste. When exhaust steam is used, it is calculated that for every 300 pounds of milk pasteurized per hour with it, one horsepower is taken from the boiler load, with a consequent saving in fuel cost.

Another common source of waste was found to be the faulty arrangement of apparatus and leaky piping. The loss from these causes may run as high as 30 per cent of all the heat required, a loss that can be reduced to negligible proportions by proper arrangement. The use of the regenerator, in particular, by which a large portion of the heat in the pasteurized milk is transferred to the raw product, is also an important factor in securing maximum economy.

In considering the cost of pasteurizing, the investigators estimated the life of the necessary apparatus at four years, and the annual depreciation, in consequence, was figured at 25 per cent. This is due to the fact that the whole dairy apparatus must be taken apart after each operation in order to give it a thorough cleaning. This necessarily results in rough usage. The mechanical equipment, such as the engine, boiler, shafting, etc., has on the other hand, been considered as depreciating at the rate of only 10 per cent per annum.

In these tests, the results of which are contained in Bulletin 85, the investigators have confined themselves entirely to the engineering features of pasteurizing, their object being to ascertain as closely as possible the necessary cost of the process. The hygienic and sanitary aspects of the question are covered in other publications of the department.

A Correction.

In the issue of the Daily Intelligencer of April 17, 1914, under the caption of the "Criminal Court" the following paragraph appeared: State vs. Ligon Vaughan, charged with gambling, set for June 1st. Mr. Vaughan was charged with "permitting gaming on premises," instead of gambling.
