SUBMARINE IS MAN'S HOBBY

American Everywhere Recognized as an Expert in That Arm of Naval Strength.

Lawrence Y. Spear, who has paid more attention to the development of the submarine than any other man in this country, does not believe that the battleship is doomed, but that a perfect navy must be composed of several units, the battleship, battle cruiser, scout cruiser, torpedo-boat destroyer, submarine, and many other craft. He is a graduate of the Naval academy at Annapolis. In 1900 he was on duty as superintendent constructor for the United States navy at the shipyard of Lewis Nixon at Elizabethport, where the first small Holland submarine was building for the navy department. Seeing great possibilities in the submarine, he retired from the navy and became vice-president and naval architect of the Electric Boat company, which owns the Holland submarine patents. He has seen the submarine grow from 60 feet to 300 feet, which is the length of the boat that is to be built for the United States government, and the plans for which have largely come from his work. A large number of boats from plans made by Mr. Spear are in service in the navies of England, Japan, Russia, Canada, Holland, Austria and Denmark.

LITTLE JOLT FOR THE BAR

Lawyers Must Have Found It Hard to Smile at His Honor's Humorous Comment.

Here is a story that was told at a recent Washington banquet by Congressman James Manahan of Minnesota, in throwing the harpoon into some legal friends.

In a certain court some time ago a German was drawn on the jury, but when it came time to officiate he arose in meeting and asked the judge to excuse him.

"I don't know about that," quickly answered his honor, casting a judicial eye on the jurman. "Is there any good and valid reason why you should be excused?"

"It was dis'vay, shoogee," hopefully explained Hans. "I was a Sherman by country, and I don't know any goot English."

"I guess you will do all right," chuckled the judge, with a happy glance at the legal talent before him. "It is doubtful if you hear enough good English to perplex you."

HIS REST WELL EARNED.

Dr. Benjamin Franklin Trueblood, general secretary of the American Peace society since 1892, has resigned, owing to failing health, his resignation to go into effect next May. He was born in Indiana in 1847. For five years, beginning with 1874, he was president of the Wilmington (Ohio) college. He was at The Hague convention of 1899, during the peace conference. As a lecturer and writer he is widely known, and for over twenty years he has been editor of the Advocate of Peace. Doctor Trueblood is a member of the International Law association Standing out among his literary efforts is his translation of Kant's "Zum Ewigen Frieden."

THE SPIRIT OF SUBSIDY.

"That poet was truly inspired when he wrote this patriotic sonnet," said the admiring reader.

"Of course," replied Senator Sorghum. "In my opinion, nearly everything you see written about politics is inspired by one side or the other."

THE USUAL THING.

"I am going to turn over a new leaf this year."

"Well, you know, few diaries show more than one turned over."

SELF-EVIDENT.

"Has the play you are speaking of got a punch in it?"

"It ought to have several. The hero is a prize fighter."

PLAINLY EVIDENT.

"I saw Smith pitch his alarm clock out of the window."

"Ah! I suspected he was throwing away his time."

MAKING THE POINT.

"My boy, is the girl you are going to marry a good plain cook?"

"No, uncle; she's a good, pretty one."
