BEEF WINS

Vets Outweighed Cadets Thirty Pounds to the Man and Won 27 to 13.

It took considerable stretch of the imagination to figure out a victory for the cadets when the Vet team made their appearance on the field Saturday. They undoubtedly had the heaviest line ever seen on the local gridiron. The two guards were mountains, weighing 250 pounds per. The remainder of the team were all solid, husky men who would not look out of place on any of the big teams of the country. However, they had to work, and ever slip they made was taken advantage of by their smaller opponents, and at the end of the first half the cadets were leading 13 to 6.

A thirty-yard forward pass in the first quarter paved the way for the first Vet touchdown, the same being a punch. From this point it was not a procession, as the cadets took the ball on downs and then carried the ball some distance; but failed to kick on a fourth down and lost the ball in their own territory. The Vets then began short jabs through the line which finally won them a touchdown. The try at goal was a failure.

The second quarter was all for the cadets. They jumbled up two fumbles by the Veterinarians and carried both over. Only one goal was kicked.

The third quarter had Vet written all over it. They punished the line from end to end, and by the aid of two costly cadet fumbles, scored two touchdowns and kicked a field goal.

The fourth quarter was fought to the finish, the lighter men fighting like bull dogs and the heavy men using their weight for all it was worth. The Vets put one over which was duplicated by the cadets, the latter, however, was not allowed as the runner ran outside.

While the count was against the cadets, their playing was very encouraging. Their spirit was W. M. A's. own brand, which never has failed to win out in the end.

Mrs. G. W. Fredendall went to Kansas City yesterday morning for a brief visit.

WELLINGTON DISTRICT FOR BONDS

The Proposition Carries by a Vote of 537 to 117.

A big majority of the people of the Wellington Special Road District showed their progressive-ness Friday by rolling up a handsome majority for a bond issue of $55,000.00 for the purpose of rocking the Santa Fe Trail and the building of bridges, which were destroyed last summer by high water.

Meetings, where everyone had an opportunity to have their say, had been held at various places throughout the district for the purpose of crystalizing sentiment in favor of the bonds, and to meet half way the proposition made by Kansas City representatives that, whatever sum the district lacked in completing the Trail after the bridges were built, Kansas City would make up. It was too good a proposition for any community to pass up, and the voters of the Wellington District showed their good sense by giving it a big majority.

Mr. Tharp has several fractured ribs and a badly bruised shoulder. The runaway occurred when Mr. Tharp hitched up a young horse with an old one, and the team started before he had all the traces hooked up. The result was that he held on to the lines and was dragged some distance. He will be laid up some time, on account of the unfortunate accident.
