TIME'S CHANGES IN HAWAII

Less Temptation Now Than Formerly Toward Racial Mixtures Is One Thing.

Everywhere in Honolulu you find witnesses to a now perished state of society, when princesses of the blood and daughters of great chiefs married Anglo-Saxons, Katherine Fullerton Gerould writes in Scribner's. With the passing of the monarchy and the subsidence of the native aristocracy, there is less temptation to the American or Englishman to espouse a native, and I believe it is not much done at present except in the lower classes—though a deal of the best white blood is said to have received at some time or other a Polynesian tributary.

It is natural, with the change of government, and all that change entails, that the fashion should have passed. Much else has passed with it; the knowledge of Hawaiian, for example. Everyone uses Hawaiian words, but the majority of American children do not learn the language. They are carefully not allowed to, lest a chance Hawaiian playmate should let in a flood of Polynesian information on their innocent minds. The Kanaka infant has "nothing to learn;" therefore much too much to teach. It is again, in some ways, a pity, for the Kanaka himself has no interest in the preservation of his tongue, and it is degenerating into pidgin talk.

BIRD CARRIES AWAY DOLLAR

Swift Flier Makes Snappy Catch and Sails Away With University Man's Money.

"I'll bet you this dollar bill I can hit that blackbird over there," said Herbert Hill, a freshman at Redlands university, to a crowd of fellows as the bird fearlessly flittered near the group as if challenging the young men to capture it.

"Take you," said another, and Hill crumpled up the bill into a ball and hurled it at the blackbird.

Hill missed. The bird flew a few feet and then circled back, seized the dollar in its bill and disappeared through the park into a tree far away. Hill could not pay the bet. Somewhere inside a blackbird's nest or under a tree the bill eventually may be found.—San Bernardino (Cal.) Dispatch to Los Angeles Times.

FRENCH HAY BOOTS.

Paris has just discovered hay boots. It appears that the military stores have run out of boots in small sizes—the most in demand, naturally, for the French are not usually built on a colossal scale. Unable, therefore, to give men properly fitting boots, they have been informed by circular that they can obtain serviceable footwear some sizes too large, accompanied by a gratis pair of extra socks. By doubling their socks, they are told, they will be able to walk very well in large boots. But unhappily the socks do not seem adequate, and so hay is substituted. If only you can get enough hay, indeed, the size of the boot is of no importance; you fill it as full as you like or can, and then insert your foot.

NOT SO EASY.

"Five years ago he was a struggling clerk. Now he rides around in a seventy hundred dollar automobile."

"I don't suppose he struggles any more."

"Oh, yes, he does. He has the Dickens of a time getting pocket change from his wealthy wife."

BAD TIME OF THE YEAR.

"Hasn't Mr. Fanleigh proposed yet, daughter?"

"No mamma; I can't get him to talk about anything but baseball."

PAW'S EXPERIENCE.

Little Lemuel—Is marriage a failure, paw?

Paw—Not necessarily, son. There is always a fighting chance.

UNPROFITABLE.

Dyer—I understand there is a lot of water in the stock.

Ryer—Yes, the tears of the unfortunate investors.—Judge.

THE PROVISION.

"Are you going to have any outings this summer?"

"Yes, if I have any innings this spring."

Should Teach Dairying in Rural Schools.

Teaching of the principles of dairying in rural school, is advocated by Professor P. M. Brandt, assistant to the dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Prof Brandt believes that dairying can be made intensely interesting to the pupils if the right methods are pursued. If the youth while in school studies the relative efficiency of cows and efficient dairy administration, he will know how to remedy abnormal conditions and thus greatly enrich the dairy interests of the state.

"Every school that attempts to teach this branch of agriculture," says Prof. Brandt, "should have in its equipment a Babcock tester, to ascertain the amount of butter-fat in milk, and should have milk scales."

A Live Cattle Association.

"More cattle and better cattle for Missouri" was the spirit of the Cape Girardeau Beef Cattle Breeders' Association which met at Jackson in that county recently.

Although organized less than a year ago this organization is making itself known in the stand for more and better cattle. Furthermore, the trade of southeast Missouri appreciates its stand and is coming to Cape Girardeau County for more cattle than ever before. New as this association is with its limited publicity, the demand for breeding stock has steadily grown. Not a member of the association, of which there are more than twenty, has a bull of breeding age for sale and the present supply of females is limited.

It is gratifying to note that the majority of the surplus cattle sold have remained in Cape Girardeau and nearby counties, all of which will tend to develop the demand and draw future trade to home breeders. With this increased demand in view members of the association plan to increase their herds in the near future and show a disposition to supply the the present demand with their present herds.

The association sees a great opportunity for beef producers in southeast Missouri and proposes to have a hand in starting the cattle men in the right direction by supplying their demands at reasonable prices. It is a result of the hearty co-operation of the producers of beef cattle and the farm adviser who represents the ideas of the Missouri College of Agriculture and Agricultural Experiment Station working in co-operation with the United States Department.

Liver Trouble Signs

Headache, dizziness, bad taste in the mouth, bad breath, bad complexion, coated tongue, etc., are all signs of liver trouble—of clogging up of the natural health channels, by overflow of bile, indigestion, etc. If you suffer from any of these disagreeable symptoms; if your meals don't taste right; if your appetite is poor; if the food you eat doesn't digest, the first thing to do is to purify your system with a general, cathartic, liver medicine. For more than 75 years

THEDFORD'S

Mrs. John Simonson, of McLeansboro, Ill., says: "Thedford's Black-Draught is surely a fine medicine. I have taken it for liver and kidney troubles, also headache and it beats any medicine I know of." It cured me of these troubles. I would not be without it in the house."

Try this remedy for yourself. At all dealers. Costs only 25c a package, one cent a dose.
