Young and old can testify to the effectiveness of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. Buy a bottle to-day at your Druggist, 50c.

FERTILIZER INSPECTION PROTECTS THE FARMER

Collection and Examination Carried on by Agricultural Experiment Station.

Six inspectors from the experiment station of the University of Missouri are soon to start on their yearly fall collection of samples of fertilizers used by Missouri farmers. So much fertilizer is now being used in the state that it has become necessary to protect the farmer from poor and adulterated goods. To do this the Missouri Fertilizer Law provides that all fertilizers offered for sale in Missouri should be registered at the experiment station; that registration must include a guaranteed chemical composition which, together with a registration tag, must be on every package of the fertilizer; and that the agricultural experiment station must collect and analyze samples of fertilizers used by the farmers.

The inspectors are sent out in September and October, when the greatest quantity of fertilizers is on the market. They collect samples from the dealers' cars, warehouses, farmers' wagons and other places, and send them to the laboratories of the agricultural experiment station. There they are examined to ascertain if the fertilizer offered for sale is in accordance with the registered guarantee. At the close of each year a report is published showing the results of all the samples analyzed. The published report also gives a list of all manufacturers offering fertilizers for sale together with a list of the brands which are on the market. In addition, farmers may send samples of fertilizer to the agricultural experiment station to be examined for them.

During 1915, 177 localities in 63 counties were visited by the inspectors. About 890 samples were taken representing 222 different brands of fertilizers. It was found that though the guarantees sometimes exceed the product, the composition of the product sometimes is better than represented, and that on the whole the farmers of the state are well protected in the purchase of fertilizers.

Heavy Draft Stallion at State Fair

WHO is it that does not love to gaze upon the symmetrical formed show, saddle or racing horse, trained for man's pleasure and entertainment only? But it is the great boned draft and coach horse that the workaday folks look upon with the greatest interest. At the great Missouri State Fair, Sept. 23 to 30, 1916, there will be collected a host of the finest draft and coach horses in America—Clydesdale, English Shire, Belgian and Percheron, both the product of Missouri and other great breeding states of the Union. The tractor will pull the plow, the road machine and the cannon, but the horse will never be supplanted, and his price goes steadily upward.
