Pretty Home Wedding of Miss Walker And Mr. Groves.

Of more than customary interest was the marriage on Sunday afternoon, December 28, of Miss Cornelia Walker to Mr. J. Lee Groves, of Fort Worth, Texas, which was solemnized at 2:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs. C. Irving Walker, on Myrtle street.

Rev Richard Orme Fynn was the officiating minister, the ceremony being performed in the presence of the immediate family only.

Although the engagement of these two popular young people was known to their most intimate friends, the immediate culmination of the romance was more or less unexpected and closed the Christmas visit of Mr. Groves to his fiancée.

The Walker home was prettily decorated for the holidays with a wealth of smilax, palms and other symbolic bits of green, and the introduction of bridal white in fragrant narcissus and white carnations easily converted the lower floor into an appropriate setting for the marriage. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. C. Irving Walker, was attractively costumed in a taupe tailleur with hat of mole and cloth of gold. A corsage of valley lilies and mauve orchids was a finishing touch to her pretty wedding toilet.

Since her graduation from Washington seminary the bride has been one of the most admired and popular members of the younger social set. Descended from a long line of distinguished ancestry in both South Carolina and Georgia, she has drawn to her side an enviable coterie of admirers and friends to whom her going away to make her future home is a matter of sincere regret. Miss Walker has received signal honors at the hands of the United Confederate veterans, whose commander-in-chief, for many years was General C Irving Walker, of Charleston, S. C., the bride's distinguished and beloved grandfather.

Mr. Groves is a former resident of Dover, Mo., and is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Groves of that city. A graduate of the University of Missouri and a member of the S. A. E. fraternity, he received many honors at the hands of his college mates, having been president of the S. A. E. chapter in the university as well as captain of the football team during his senior year. He is at present engaged in the advertising business in Fort Worth, Texas, where he will introduce his bride to a charming circle of friends.—Atlanta Journal.

The Shortest Name.

Among the names of 4,500,000 soldiers, sailors and marines recorded in the files of the War Risk Bureau at Washington, the shortest family name was "Ii," borne by two soldiers who were natives of Hawaii. Their name consisted of two letters, but it was pronounced in two syllables.
