Wilson's Work For Peace.
With apparent authority, Swedish newspapers announce that the Nobel Peace Prize for 1920 will be awarded to President Wilson. In this event, never will the bestowal have been justified so amply by facts and the chosen man. This may be said without prejudice to any previous recipient of the prize, since never before has the award followed upon the heels of so portentous and momentous an occasion as the late World War.

Mr. Wilson is an idealist, as his partisan enemies have charged. There is distinction in the truth of this charge. But it was as a practical man as well as an idealist that he took his place among the forces directed to the bringing of the conflict to a righteous close. American troops turned the tide of European battle. It is quite as literally true that the fighting stopped at the word of the American President. How futile partisan criticism has been or can be in its effort to rob Woodrow Wilson of the great and lasting glory of his position is indicated in the words of Maximilian Harden.

"Immortality," says the great independent German editor, "is as certain to Wilson's speeches as to the meditations of the Roman Emperor Marcus Aurelius, who also dropped half way up the heights." And in continued eulogy of our President, on the occasion of the League meeting at Geneva, Harden stamps as "the most beautiful, the only great experience of the war" the fact "that Wilson existed and that he aroused an echo which roaring cannon could not drown."

The heralded judgment at Stockholm is thus appreciated in advance from the land which was so lately that of the enemy. —New York World.

It is significant that it is reported from Rome that delegations of Irishmen will endeavor to arouse some friendly nation to the end that outside aid may be invoked for Ireland. The same dispatch suggests that proposals may be made in the Italian parliamentary bodies that the Irish case be brought before the League of Nations, from a sympathetic point of view. The absence of America from that council-table, around which the nations' representatives are gathered, may thwart this move. Meanwhile, it is tragic for those who sympathize with the Irish impulse for freedom to read the stories of the woes daily inflicted upon the people of Ireland. Where are those who hoodwinked the American voter of Irish extraction, by painting false pictures of the League's purpose? What are they going to do for Ireland? Mr. Harding has already answered the question. NOTHING.—Mo. State Journal.

NO REST—NO PEACE.
There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from a bad back, and distressing urinary disorders. Lexington people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Be guided by their experience.

Mrs. John Rosewall, S. Side Addition, Lexington, says: "Mornings I was greatly troubled with severe pains through my back and had such a dull ache through my back that I could get no rest at all at night. I was miserable most of the time and was bothered with dizzy spells. At times little flashes seemed to come before my eyes and I became blinded. I felt tired and weak and could hardly get about. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used successfully by others of my family so I got a box and they entirely rid me of the trouble." 60c. at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
This remedy is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries. This alone is enough to convince one that it is medicine of more than ordinary merit. Give it a trial and you will find this to be the case.

Mrs. Joseph G. Chinn is critically ill at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. R. W. Gentry, Mexico, Mo. Mrs. Chinn is 87 years old.

An Agreeable Surprise.
"About three years ago when I suffered from a severe cold on my lungs and coughed most of the time night and day, I tried a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and was surprised at the promptness with which it gave me relief," writes Mrs. James Brown, Clark Mills, N. Y. Many another has been surprised and pleased with the prompt relief afforded by this remedy.
