Rural Schools Photographed.

J. O. Coffin is busy taking pictures of rural school buildings and of teachers and pupils at the request of the State Department of Public Schools, to be used in the Seventy-second Missouri report of public schools for 1921. The schools visited thus far include, Hicklin, Slusher, Burns, Locust Grove, Marshall, Elm Park, Maple Glen, Prairie Church, Long Grove, and Page City. He will continue until every school building in the county has been photographed.

New Ford Repair Shop.

Ray Thompson, formerly employed by John Morrison & Sons in their repair shop, has opened a shop of his own at 346 North 17th street, and respectfully solicits the patronage of Ford owners. Mr. Thompson has had practical experience in Ford surgery, and, no doubt, is amply qualified to administer to all of Lizzie's ills.

FARM BUREAU NEWS.

Free Government Tuberculin Tests.

Applications for the free government tuberculin tests are being filed daily at the Farm Bureau office. The rate at which they are coming in is enough to insure the work being carried out in every community without delay. It is absolutely necessary that these applications be filed promptly if the work is to be pushed as it must be to satisfy the Government officials. There is only a limited force of federal veterinarians in the state and unless their time can be efficiently utilized in Lafayette County they will be sent to those counties where the applications are being filed more rapidly.

Below are given a few questions relative to the Government tests which have been most frequently asked with a brief answer in each case:

Q. Is the test free? A. This test is absolutely free to cattle owners, being performed by a Federal veterinarian at government expense.

Q. What ages must be tested? A. All ages.

Q. Is it necessary to have stock cattle or steers on feed tested?

A. No, provided these cattle are kept in separate pastures and barns and do not come at any time in contact with milk stock through actual presence in the same pasture and barn or through the use of some watering place.

Q. How are the owners of diseased cattle paid for animals condemned?

A. The owner of a diseased cow receives whatever she brings on the market. She is shipped and slaughtered under Federal direction and inspection. In addition to the salvage, the owner receives indemnity based upon an appraisal arrived at between the Federal veterinarian and the owner and also upon the amount of salvage received. The total sum which the owner of a condemned animal receives cannot exceed $50.00 for a grade or $100 for a purebred plus the salvage.

Q. What are the regulations covering further government tests?

A. Under existing regulations, a herd showing no disease will be considered healthy after passing a second test at the end of one year. Herds showing disease at first test must pass three semi-annual tests with no disease before being considered healthy. These tests are made at Government expense.

Q. Will I be notified of the time the veterinarian will be at my place?

A. Notice of the veterinarians visit will be given with the necessary instructions for making the test.

The Effect of Culling.

There are mighty few skeptics in Lafayette County in regard to the benefits of culling hens for egg production. The culling campaign put on by the Farm Bureau in the Fall of 1919 when over 56,000 hens were culled by the County Agent and his cooperators, demonstrated the advantages of culling to the minds of those who watched the proceedings closely. In most cases however, we did not have accurate figures to show the results. Mrs. Chas. Seuser of Morrison-Stier.

Miss Florida Elizabeth Stier and Mr. Guy Thornton Morrison of Lexington, Mo., were married at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. George H. Stier, 3309 Olive street, Dr. D. J. Evans read the service.

Baskets of Killarney roses and ferns were used in the receiving rooms. The ceremony was read in the living room before an altar banked with sunset roses and Plumosus ferns, and lighted with cathedral candles. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Earl T. Stier, wore a gown of white crepe trimmed in spangled georgette. Her veil of tulle arranged in coronet effect was caught with lilies of the valley. Miss Lillian Freet, who was maid of honor, wore a gown of white canton crepe embroidered and trimmed with shirred ribbon. She carried an arm bouquet of Columbia roses. Mr. Morrison was attended by his brother, Mr. William Morrison. Master George Withers Stier, nephew of the bride, carried the ring in a silver basket. Mrs. Stier was gowned in beaded taupe satin crepe. She wore a corsage bouquet of Aaron Ward roses. Before the ceremony Mrs. Ella Van Huff sang "All for You" and "Faithful and True." The wedding music was played by Miss Cora Esther Park. At the reception which followed the ceremony Mrs. Stier was assisted by:

"Complete Satisfaction"

In our business of selling Lumber, we always try to do two things—give a man a little better Lumber than he can get elsewhere, and charge him no more than he would have to pay elsewhere for Lumber not so good.

We find it easier to hold old customers than to make new ones. How about you? Are you wholly satisfied?

Let us make you an estimate on your next bill. Large or small—no matter which. We will appreciate the smallest order and give you the same care, consideration and attention that the largest buyer gets.

Remember, there's satisfaction in quality.
