RIVERVIEW COUNTRY CLUB FORMAL OPENING

Members With Their Wives Dedicate New Club House.

The Riverview Country Club had its formal opening Monday evening, November 28th, at the recently completed club house. Practically all of the members with their wives were present, making about one hundred and twenty-five people. A five course dinner was served by Hinesley's at 7 o'clock, in the main hall of the club house. Music was furnished by the Wentworth Military Academy orchestra under the direction of Major Pay. Col. C. L. Ristine acted as toastmaster for the evening and made all announcements, introduced the officers of the club, and kept things moving generally. Mr. W. J. Gresham made the address of the evening. His talk covered what had been accomplished and what the club members are supposed to do to make the organization a success in every way. Following the dinner those present enjoyed themselves by dancing and conversation until about midnight.

Messrs Ben Gratz, Col. C. L. Ristine, and J. W. Sydnor, the committee in charge of the formal opening, were given a hearty cheer of thanks from all present upon the success of their good work.

Mrs. Ike H. Noyes, Mrs. N. E. Baskett, and Mr. G. H. Bates were chosen as a committee to arrange for a club party in December.

Trials In The Probate Court.

Claims against the estate of Jane Haggerty, who died last March, involving $16,775 have been heard in the probate court before Judge S. N. Wilson. The first, a claim of $6,000 by the estate of Jennie Lehane, deceased, was presented Friday, and Saturday the claims of Elizabeth and George King for $4,300, and the claim of John Haggerty for $6,750 was heard.

The claimants were represented by Robt. Reynolds and Wm. Meschede of Marshall, and Wm. Aull of Lexington. The estate of Jane Haggerty, deceased, was represented by Lyons & Ristine of Lexington.

County-wide Vaccination For Smallpox.

Dr. B. T. Payne, deputy state commissioner of health, has mailed a circular letter to all presidents of school boards urging the immediate vaccination of all school children. The Slusher and Garr schools, east of Lexington, called a doctor to the school house and had all the children vaccinated. Many elder people took advantage of the opportunity and were vaccinated, too. Reports from different parts of the county indicate a universal response to Dr. Payne's letter, and the possibility of an epidemic is thereby lessened.

New Water Works for Odessa.

Odessa approved a bond issue of $100,000 Tuesday to construct a water works system, by a vote of 571 to 256—59 more than the required two-thirds majority.
