BREAD For a Nickel.

It's Our Way Of Doing It....

We don't ask other people to do it that way, and we never complain about the way other merchants do their business. If we want to sell certain goods "cheap" because we can afford it, that's our business. Within ten days three different bakeries have been forced to quit selling us bread because we sold it "cheap." Others who sold bread refused to buy bread from these bakers if they sold Jones & Co. So the bakers, rather than ruin their business, were compelled to refuse us bread. We don't blame the bakers; in fact, we don't blame any one. We're not in the blaming business, but we are in the bread business, and we're in to stay this time. We've got a bakery of our own, and a first-class baker to run it. We can turn out 2,500 loaves a day on a pinch, and unless an earthquake swallows the bakery, we'll have all the fresh bread each day that you can carry away, and we'll sell you two big 16 to 18 ounce loaves of strictly first-class 5 cent bread for 5 cents. We've contended for two years that something was wrong when the people were forced to pay 5 cents for the same size loaf made out of 40c to 50c wheat that they got when wheat was $1 a bushel. To-morrow and each day following, right along from sunrise to sunset you can come here to our big grocery department and get the best bread that is made, coming hot from the ovens at two loaves for 5 cents. Cakes, pies and all the wilderness of dainty and delicious things that come from a first-class bakery will be easily had here each day at about half the old prices. It's pleasant, the widespread and generous encouragement we're getting on the opening of a permanent grocery department in connection with the business. Hundreds of things we can buy in our bargain rambles and sell at half regular prices. Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of splendid fresh groceries are caught by us in bankrupt squeezes. That's why we can sell them so low. Come to-morrow and get some of that fine bread.

Should be Encouraged. A Citizen Who Favors the University Medical College and Hospital. Mr. L. H. Rose in speaking yesterday of the proposition to locate a branch of the state university medical department and also a hospital on ground recently donated by Dr. S. J. Bell, of Rosedale, to the state for that purpose, said it would be against the interests of Wyandotte county if the people here should support the college. Dr. Bell intended to give this property to the state or some private institution which would erect thereon a medical college, and that he gave the state the first chance at it for the reason that he wanted the people of Kansas to get a much benefit out of the gift as possible. With reference to the property, Mr. Rose said that it is a prominently located as any property in the 1st section of the city, lying between Rosedale and Kansas City, Mo., and being only one block from the Southwest boulevard, on which the street car line is located. "Of course, it is a main line street," said he, "but in the spring it will be changed to an electric line. So far as the people of Kansas City, Kas., are not receptive to the gift from the college is concerned, I have this to say: It will require the location of some large institution in that section of the county to induce the street railway company to build a line from the north side to Rosedale. If this medical college is located there, then the report of my secretary, until a new line will be built direct from Kansas City, Kas., to Rosedale, by way of Armourdale and the Eighth street bridge. The street railway company of the city and county will not have to go around by the way of Kansas City, Mo., to reach Kansas City, Kas., and as a result the merchants will get a great deal of their patronage which they do not get at present." Mr. Rose also said that the property donated to the state by Dr. Bell, during the boom days would have sold for over $100,000. "The chancellor of the State university intended to appoint a Kansas City, Kas., committee, and he will do so," said Mr. Rose, "just as soon as he can find some prominent citizens of the city who will not oppose the scheme, and who are willing to aid in the project. He has delayed the matter simply from the fact that he knew such opposition existed. The Missouri committee was appointed, and it is claimed, because there are a large number of people who own extensive tracts of land in Rosedale, who might be induced to make additional donations to the state for the school."
