

A man named Thos. Collins, a laborer, was choked to death in Kansas City last Sunday by a piece of bacon rind he attempted to swallow.

Hon. T. P. Bashaw, editor of the Paris Mercury is favorably spoken of as a Democratic candidate for Attorney-General of the State. He is an able lawyer and is well worthy of the place.

A great many people are now complaining of their inward. Too much hot, too much corn, too much cucumber, too much to eat generally. Folks must be careful what they eat, and how they eat. Temperance in that line is recommended to all.

The merchants of St. Joseph should make an effort to have the fare on the Branch Road from the Junction to St. Joseph reduced to 3c per mile. By this means they could get much trade from this section that now goes to Kansas City.

Hon. John Walker, of Howard county, is looming up as a candidate for Governor of Missouri next year. Mr. Walker is a gentleman of ability and if he can get the nomination will be cheerfully supported. We might do much worse than take him for the place.

They went through the customary form of holding an election out in Kentucky, for state officers, last Monday. The matter had been decided some months ago by a Democratic convention, which named a ticket and that ticket was elected, as the Globe Democrat would say, by the usual beastly majority.

Latest advices say that Gen. Grant will return from his wanderings some time in September. He must have plenty of money to be able to do so much traveling in foreign countries, and we have a lingering suspicion that much of it was stolen from the American people, while he held the reins at Washington.

State Auditor Holliday is out in a communication of considerable length, giving county assessors the information that all harvested crops are liable to assessment as personal property and should be assessed at their value on the first day of August. This the farmer down to a fine point white the money lender is given a chance to omit a part of his wealth from the assessment list.

Gen. Miles, who now commands the U. S. forces in the northern portion of Idaho, has been making the Indians know their places up in that section, and for this reason he don't suit the admiral's station at Washington. Hayes seems to want a man up there like Howard, all blow and bluster but no fight in him so as to make capital out of it and give his pals a chance to bleed the government furnishing Indian supplies. If they will let Miles alone a little while he will thrash Sitting Bull back into Canada where he belongs.

The Hannibal & St. Joe Railroad company, by their attorney Mr. G. W. Easley, made an application to Judge Dunn here, on Thursday last, for an injunction to restrain the St. Louis, K. C. & N. railroad from building a track over the right of way of the former road from the junction of the two, 8 miles this side of Kansas City to that place. The application was strongly resisted by Mr. W. H. Blodgett, attorney for the St. L., K. C. & N. railway. After exhaustive argument, running over two days Judge Dunn in an able opinion refused the injunction and the work of building the track will proceed without delay. It will be remembered that the two roads have been using the track of the H. & St. Joe road in common ever since the St. L., K. C. & N. was extended to Kansas City, and would probably have continued to do so if the present war on passenger rates had not been started, but there being now no good feeling between the roads, they will each worry the other as much as lies in their power.

St. Louis Republican:—The report of the state treasury of Missouri for July shows a credit balance on the last day of the month of $410,703.98. The Bank of Commerce deposit at that date was $79,904.67; the remainder of the balance consists of $2,342.59 in the National Bank of the State, $280,206.21 in the Mastin Bank, $49,000 in Clinton county bonds, $5,000 in the hands of Reid & Christian, and $2,590.50 in the vault.

YELLOW FEVER.

This dread scourge is raging as bad as ever in Memphis, Tennessee, there being 17 new cases reported yesterday, but does not appear so fatal as last year, as the number of deaths reported only ran from 2 to 5 a day, while the new cases ran from 15 to 20. The disease is not spreading over the South so far and other localities may be entirely exempt. Cases have occurred in several of the Northern cities which proved fatal in nearly every instance.

The Plattsburg Levee is a temperance paper, the editor apparently devoting his whole energy and talent in that direction. In the last issue, this paper, with others, comes in for a severe rebuke because we don't see things just as the editor of the Levee looks at them. He forgets that all men are not fanatics and that the mission of an editor is to give the news as well as his own opinions. The brunt of our offense is that we have given the news from Plattsburg as it came to us, not favoring the one side nor the other. While the temperance movement raged at this place we threw no cold water on the project nor have we ever uttered a word against its legitimate work. We notice below a few of the statements of the Levee:

We wish to inform the Richmond Democrat and the Marshall Democrat, and any other papers that may need such information that they either, consciously or unconsciously, misrepresent the Levee when they endeavor to create the impression that it acknowledges that whiskey drinking and selling is as bad in Plattsburg without license, as it was with.

So far as the Richmond Democrat is concerned we can only judge of what a man means by what he says. For some time past the Levee has been growing at the City Government of Plattsburg for not putting a stop to the illegal sale of liquors and has frequently drawn a picture of riot and disorder occurring on the streets from the effects of this illegal sale of intoxicants. Whatever comments that have appeared in this paper on the point have been suggested by information gained in this very way from the Levee. Our only object being to state facts as they really existed for the information of our people.

When the editor of the Marshall Democrat, or the Richmond, or any other, newspaper, talks whiskey evil by moral exhortation publishing his ignorance of the question or exhibiting his sympathy with the iniquitous traffic.

When the editor of the Levee talks about "checking or curing the whiskey evil" by force he exhibits an ignorance of the temper and spirit of the American people not usually found in men occupying the editorial chair. The idea of force is simply the idea of a fanatic wherever you find him. The average citizen of this country can be persuaded by appealing to his reason to do many things that he would never do if you attempted to drive him to the point. The editor of the Levee may be a tobacco user. If he is, how would he like to have a law passed cutting off his supply of tobacco? Would he enthusiastically support such a law?

If you want whiskey whetted to gratify your own animal appetite, you can always get it, without insisting on the maintenance of dramshops for the ruin of your neighbors.

If we could get it so easily to satisfy our own appetite, could not every other man in the land get it just as easily. If the above excerpt proves anything it proves too much. It proves that the attempt to stop the legal sale of liquors, as long as they are to be had at all is a mere farce and that a man get them easily.

There is much more in the article that should be noticed but we haven't the space to give it.

Times-Journal: Notwithstanding the clamor of parties and party leaders the real issues before the country are not partisan, but industrial, not political, but economic. What the country needs is the development of its resources, the enlargement of its industries, the facilities of cheap communication, the employment and fair remuneration of its labor, free employment to idle capital in national enterprises, and to let its currency alone. In these matters the parties take no hand except in the last, and that only to tinker with and disturb.

THE DEBT STATEMENT.

The debt statement shows the increase of the debt for July to be $6,086,344; cash in the treasury, $282,905,273; gold certificates, $2,785,450; silver certificates, $103,395; refunding certificates, $6,058,350; legal tenders outstanding, $346,681,016; fractional currency outstanding, $15,514,823. The increase of the debt is due to payments on account of arrears of pensions, and from United States bonds held for redemption of fractional currency as provided by act of June 21, 1877.

Kansas City Times: The St. Louis Post-Dispatch is authority for the statement that "seventeen negro refugees have died of starvation in camp at Topeka, and notwithstanding this fact the citizens are in no way bestirring themselves to alleviate the matter." We do not credit this statement. No doubt many of the refugees have died from diseases incident to a change of climate, exposure, and irregular diet. Such was the case at Wyandotte and it is probably true of all cases where idle camps are maintained. The citizens of Topeka are not responsible for this state of things. They did not invite the invasion and did what they could to resist it. It was the work of a political ring, who are alone responsible for its continuance. The point is to repudiate the ring, ship the campers back to St. Louis, and you will have no more negro exodus in anti-exodus Kansas.

In the Circuit Court at Springfield, Ill., a few days ago, Judge Zane decided a case wherein it was asked, that a mill adjoining property of the complainants be restricted from sounding a whistle. Judge Zane granted the injunction, holding that a man's house is not merely a shelter from wind and rains, but a retreat for quietness, ease and repose, which none have a right to disturb or interfere with. The opinion is a forcible document. The case is a much vexed one and has attracted wide attention as involving an important principle of law.

A scamp who represented himself as a government agent, excited the negroes of Holmes county, Miss., by telling them that a free train would take them on the following Sunday to Kansas. He charged every man $1 a small party, and they all went to a spot of land which he reached Kansas. The news spread like wild fire, and selling their cows for $2, their chickens for a penny apiece, and other possession at as ruinous rates, 1,000 negroes gathered to wait for the train that never came.

Just as was expected by all right thinking men, Gen. Ewing denies the statement of the Leavenworth Press, as to a political alliance between Ewing and Tilden in the interest of Ewing for Governor this year, and Tilden for President next year, and to elect Ewing, Tilden was to contribute $30,000. Ewing says it is all bosh and a falsehood of the first water.

Marshall Democrat: "We give it as a fact, that, according to our observation of the number of cases of rape reported throughout the land, North and South, during the last two months, quite all of them have been summarily dealt with by the enraged moral sense of the people, without due form of law. Why, then, should not the law be made adequate to the occasion? If we were disposed to be uncharitable we might say that this was a sample criticism of the legislature. The law was so changed last winter as to make rape punishable with death. Being in the revision of the criminal code, the provision will go into effect Nov. 1st.

Bonville Topic: "Two or three prominent country papers in Missouri are already calling upon Hon. John Walker, of Howard county, to make the race for Governor in 1880. Perhaps he will do it. If he should he will develop powerful popularity at once. He is particularly identified with the best interests of the entire people and would make a chief executive in whom would be centered the pride and confidence of every citizen of Missouri.

To get rid of house flies put a half spoonful of black pepper on a teaspoonful of brown sugar, and one teaspoon of cream; mix well together, and place them in a room where the flies are troublesome, and they will disappear. —Mrs. Bennett's Cook Book.

A quarterly commercial report shows that the number of failures in the country for the second quarter of 1879 has been smaller than for any previous quarter in five years, and there is an increase of over 20 per cent. in business.

BE-TRIPPEL.

Col. John F. Phillips, Tribune to Gen. Shields. The Hon. John F. Phillips, in the course of his oration at Carrollton, on the 4th of July, paid the following touching and eloquent tribute to General Shields: "Already I have detained you too long; but the association of a nation's heroes with its renown, together with the incident of locally, at this beautiful town of Carrollton, impel me to linger to give utterance to this sad thought: that I miss to-day, what I anticipated as a great pleasure in accepting your invitation, the presence of the country's grand old hero, patriot and friend, General James Shields! His martial step, his rugged face ever lighted with courtesy, his warm, firm hand, ever as ready to grasp his sword in his country's need as it was a neighbor's hand in friendly grip; his voice ever a bugle call to duty, valor and honor; we miss them all to-day.

"His shall no sunshine from the fields of glory, No drum beat from the wall, No morning gun from the black fort's embrasure Awaken with its call." He has pitched his tent for eternal rest in the bright fields where neither the long roll of battle, nor the clamor of fame can move or stir him more. Citizen of two hemispheres! the divine fire of liberty lighted up his soul on his own native Emerald Isle, glowed there in the land of his adoption with every increasing warmth to the hour when the night dew of death alone quenched it. Hero of two wars! he sealed his devotion to his adopted government with the libations of his heart's blood.

Senator from three States! he honored his constituency, guarded every trust, kept every promise, maintained his rights and his honor, and left office with his hands unsmirched with gain, his ermine unstained, his manhood erect. In a green old age he went down to his death like the grand Marshal of Saxony, amid a great people's lament, so intrepid and serene that nothing in his life became him so much as the leaving it. May summer's flowers ever bloom, winter's snows ever lie lightly on his grave, and his name be as dear to every patriot heart, as the American Union."

Lexington Intelligencer, Aug 2d: James McDowell, who lives about two miles east of town, was found, yesterday morning, about eight o'clock, lying by the side of the Missouri Pacific railroad track, a short distance east of the round house, at the edge of town, in a shocking condition, his head and one arm being terribly wounded, whether by a passing locomotive or by some iron or wooden instrument it is hard to tell. He has one wound on the top of the head, five inches in length; another similar cut about two and a half inches long; one cut on the forehead three inches long and to the bone; another cut on the forehead one and a half inches long and to the bone; the skull over his right eye mashed in, the flesh being reduced to a jelly, with several punctures reaching to the bone adjoining the lacerated flesh, and a very large and severe wound on the right elbow. Dr. J. F. Atkinson, who was promptly on hand sewed up the gaping wounds, and did all for him that skill and science could suggest, but his recovery is exceedingly doubtful.

James McDaniels, over 80 years of age and one of the oldest citizens of Benton township, went out last Friday morning to thin out his cane patch, and was found lying dead shortly after 8 o'clock a. m., by one of his daughters. He has been troubled with dropsy or some disease of the heart for some time, which is supposed to have been the cause of his death. He entered the land upon which he lived, being one of the first settlers of the County.—Gallatin Democrat.

A Very Good Thing, Indeed. Callaway Gazette. One immigration society in Illinois caused a large amount of writing paper to be prepared, having one side full of a closely printed immigration advertisement, and leaving the other free for writing purposes. This was supplied to the people at cost, and farmers and merchants, ladies and children, wrote their letters on it. It proved a most successful method of advertising. Would not this be a good thing for Callaway.

Ben Harrison, of Indiana, has finally concluded to accept his appointment on the river commission, but with the distinct understanding that he has little or nothing to do, outside of drawing his salary.—Republican.

Those persons who say that nothing will rid a house of bed-bugs should try the simple preparation of corrosive sublimate and turpentine. It is said to be sure death to these household pests.—Exchange.

Or make a strong solution of alum and salt and wash your floors, wash-boards, chair-boards, bedsteads, or any place they can hide, with it and you will completely exterminate the pests. Give it a trial. In putting it on furniture be careful not to get it on the varnish as it will ruin it.

The only reliable means of entirely ridding the hen-roost and pigeon-loft of vermin, is a preparation of sulphur and carbon. A bottle containing the solution will last several days, and the cost of it is small. Put two ounces of the preparation in a bottle open at the mouth, and hang it by a string in the hen-roost. Refill four times a year.

Information is wanted of Chas. H. Dameron, aged 15 years, son of Geo. W. Dameron, of Mt. Airy, Randolph county, Mo., who left home on the 28th of June last.
