Mr. H. H. Horton, a prominent farmer of Lanes Creek township was in town Monday with a load of corn to sell, which was a little thing, to be sure, but it simply shows that he is one of the farmers who believe in living at home. How many of our readers are corn buyers rather than sellers?

Mr. T. A. Gullede lost a good horse Monday night. He had been to Monroe, and he said his horse seemed a little sluggish when he started home Monday evening and he drove in a walk nearly all the way. When he was within about a mile of Pageland the horse doped dead in the road.

Mr. T. B. Watts suggests that there be a trade day at Pageland once each month, at which time all the people could bring any and everything they want to trade and in many instances find the person who needs the very thing he wants to dispose of. Mr. Watts says he has talked with a number of people about this and finds that they want it. He suggests, we believe, the first Saturday in each month. What say the folks?

Lightning struck the residence of Mr. Jesse Price in the Cross Roads section of the county last Friday afternoon, and two of the children were severely wounded by the stroke as it passed down the chimney. Effect on Fertilizers.

W. H. Bowker, director of the American Agricultural Chemical Co., says:

"At this moment I do not think that the European war can have any serious effect on the consumption of fertilizers in this country, nor any material effect upon the earnings of the fertilizer industry. It is true that Germany controls the sole source of available potash of the world. Potash for agricultural purposes is not contraband. It is a tremendous source of profit and revenue to Germany. She may let it out and she may not. If she lets it out there is a question if we can get ships sailing under neutral flags to bring it to this country.

"This country is the home of phosphate, which is the basis of fertilizers. Germany imports our phosphates extensively. This country also has a good supply of sulphur for the manufacture of sulphuric acid, with which to dissolve the phosphates and make them available for immediate crop assimilation. It also produces a large amount of nitrogen-bearing products, such sulphate of ammonia, fish and meat tankages, seed meals, etc. It is dependent upon Chile for its nitrate of soda. Nitrate of soda for agricultural purposes is not contraband and Chile should let it out freely, but the question is, can we secure neutral vessels to bring it to this country?"

"Knowing that we have sufficient phosphates, and assuming that we shall obtain sufficient nitrogen, there is every reason to believe that the sale of nitrogenous, soluble, phosphatic fertilizers will be equal to that of any year, and there is every reason to believe that profits will not be impaired."—The Wall Street Journal.

T. W. Belk's Record.

T. W. Belk, Candidate for House of Representatives, was born and raised on a farm, worked on a farm at $4.00 per month in order to get money to pay his railroad fare to college, then worked his way through school at 7 1-2 cts. per hour at honorable labor; notwithstanding this hardship he won more honors during his terms in school than any other of his school mates—he won four medals out of five for which he contested—two for oratory and two for athletics. He was the star of his college football team, champion wrestler, won gold medal for the best all round athlete, won gold medal for the best orator of his class of nearly five hundred and was chosen to represent his college in the intercollegiate oratorical contest. He holds seven out of sixteen of his college athletic records, he belonged to his college quartette, quintette and glee club which gave entertainments throughout east Tenn., was a faithful member of the church, Y. M. C. A., Christian Endeavor Society and other organizations. After seeing Mr. Belk's ability along certain of the above lines the University of Tenn., offered him all expenses to attend that University. Ill health at that time prevented a professional course. Mr. Belk was acknowledged as even tempered and a good student. The Tenn. press has complimented him more than any other in or out of school during his stay in Tenn. He holds a book of clippings to verify this statement. He has won highest rating in civil service examinations, was told a few years ago by County Supt. of Education that he held the highest grade teacher's certificate in the county. He has taught school during the terms in Chesterfield county for the past 15 years and worked insurance during the vacations. You hear no kicks relative to either. During the past 12 years the schools have applied to him for his service and not he to the schools. Mr. Belk's mother, who is now dead, was a native of Lancaster Co. S. C. which proves his deep love for her native State. Mr. Belk has performed the duties of magistrate for nearly two years without criticism from friends or foe. He has made a success of his every undertaking and will without doubt make good in the House of Representatives if given the opportunity. He asks for but one trial. Give him a chance.
