Senator Tillman's designation of the Republican Senators who are trying to pass a robber tariff bill as a band of bold buccaners was to the point and will be heard of again.

The Augusta Chronicle don't propose to risk any of the flying machines until it is certain that a good, strong net is spread underneath to catch a fellow if anything should happen. Good idea.

The estimate formed of a man's religion is based upon his deeds and not upon his profession. The man whose actions do not square with his words can never make a favorable impression on others, however orthodox his profession and however lengthy his prayers.

The sentiment is rapidly growing that the federal government should not issue licenses for the sale of liquor in local option or prohibition territory. In continuing to issue such licenses it is in effect abetting the violation of local and State law.

The News and Courier says "We wish to express our conviction that the sooner Democratic representatives in Congress endeavor to carry into execution the will of the voters as expressed by the platform of the party, the sooner will the danger of its disappearance as a factor in national politics pass away."

The Anderson Mail says "as we understand it, Senator Tillman's logic in voting for a tariff duty on lumber was that if he couldn't get a whole loaf he wouldn't take a half a loaf. If he could not get all classes of lumber placed on the free list he would not vote to have any of it placed on the free list."

Every decent, thoughtful man and woman will approve the action of President Taft in leaving a Washington theatre the other night because of the vulgar character of the play, and it ought to do something to swell the rising tide of protest against plays that corrupt and all manner of demoralizing shows.

Senator Tillman says Aldrich and the other Republican members of the Senate finance committee are not hypocrites, but they are the boldest band of buccaners that ever got together. In view of the tariff bill Aldrich and his committee are trying to force on the country we think Tillman sized them up just about right.

"All clear-eyed Southerners see now," says the Hartford Courant, "that a fortunate thing it was for the South herself that the attempt to break the United States in two did not succeed." We don't know about that. We could have gotten along all right, but the North would have missed our cotton "dreadfully."

Some men of colossal fortunes get lots of credit and applause for their supposed generosity to charitable institutions. But if the people were not compelled to pay tribute to monopolies whereby a few men amass immense fortunes, which are good neither for themselves, their children nor the country, there would be fewer objects of charity.

We agree with The News and Courier that "it would be far better to have no platforms, than to have them ignored by the representatives of the people in Congress. It is to such manifestations of bad faith and incompetency as this that the reverses of the Democratic party are in large measure due." This is exactly the contention of The Times and Democrat.

President Taft did the right thing the other night in leaving a theatre on account of a salacious play that was being given. How far, if at all, theatre managers will take the rebuke to heart is uncertain. Probably not to any extent if they find that immoral or suggestive plays are popular. The majority of managers are governed more by financial reasons than artistic and the question they ask themselves is "Will it pay?"

On Confederate Memorial Day miniature Confederate flags and beautiful flowers decorated every Confederate grave at Camp Chase, near Columbus, Ohio, where over two thousand Southern soldiers are buried. The Buckeye Republican Glee Club furnished the music and an address was delivered by Col. E. Polk Johnson, of Louisville, Ky. Congressman Hollingsworth, no doubt, threw a fit or two when he read of the above occurrence.

Revenue vs. Protection.

The Calhoun Advance lectures us about the votes of Senator Tillman and Congressman Lever as follows: We take it for granted that The Times and Democrat knows that the amount Senator Tillman voted as a tax on tea, that it was an ad valorem tax of 7.5 per cent, and when Congressman Lever voted for a duty on lumber it was an ad valorem tax of only 32 per cent, yet it contends that Lever voted a tax for protection and is a Republican, and Tillman voted a tax for revenue according to the reasoning of The Times and Democrat, our idea is that "the boot is on the other leg," or as The Times and Democrat would say, the "joke" is on the other fellow, and if her vote is a criterion to go by, Tillman is the protectionist or Republican, and Lever the tax for revenue man. We believe Tillman and Lever are both right and The Times and Democrat is wrong.

We can't figure out the taxes on tea and lumber as given above by the Advance, and we would be glad if our contemporary would show us in detail how it arrives at the conclusion it does in the matter. Those who have figured out the matter so as it can be understood by the general reader say that a tax of ten cents per pound on tea would yield a revenue of $9,000,000 to the government and give incidental protection of $1,500 to the tea growers of the United States. Even The State "concedes that the commodity of tea is attractive for revenue taxation," and admits that a tax of three cents a pound on tea "would raise but little less than $3,000,000 in revenue, which agrees with the figures we give as the revenue that a ten cent tax would raise. If a commodity that yields $9,000,000 revenue to the government, with only $1,500 incidental protection, is not "attractive for revenue taxation," we would like the Advance to name one that is.

The Louisville Courier-Journal, which has always been a good authority on tariff matters, says "the allegation that the lumber tariff is a revenue tariff is ridiculous, as the vast lumber industry of this country is almost entirely a domestic industry, the tariff on lumber being virtually prohibitive, and only yielding about $4,000,000 revenue to the government." We will leave the Advance to figure out the amount of money the lumber trust is permitted to rob the people of through the operations of a tariff law that is to be passed for its special benefit and which will yield only $4,000,000 revenue to the government. For its guidance in figuring it out, we would say that for every dollar the government gets out of the duty on lumber the trust gets from ten to fifteen dollars. In putting a duty on lumber, the Republicans do so expressly on the ground that they propose to protect the American lumber interests against foreign importations, and the claim of the Advance that it is a revenue tax would make the trust supporting Republicans smile.

From the above showing, it will be seen that the duty on tea would produce a handsome revenue for the government, while the duty on lumber fills the pockets of the trust at the expense of the people, while producing comparatively no revenue for the government. In defending the action of Congressman Lever in voting to protect lumber, the Advance puts itself in the ranks of the protectionists and subscribes to the Republican doctrine that it is sound business policy to tax the millions of consumers for the benefit of the few producers. That means that the consumer has no interests to be considered. As The News and Courier says, "We fail to see how protection that enriches the producer at the expense of the consumer is a sound business policy, or why the man who builds a home for his family, the congregation that builds a church, or the community that builds a school house, should be expected to bear the burden of this tax that will go principally into the pockets of the dozen or so men that control the lumber output of the South." Possibly the Advance can enlighten us.

People of Orangeburg Warned. The Calhoun Advance offers this argument as a reason why Mr. Lever should not be criticized for violating the platform on which he was elected by voting to tax lumber:

We suppose that those citizens of Orangeburg (if there are any) who are in sympathy with The Times and Democrat's criticism of Lever for voting to tax lumber in order that a revenue might be raised to help supply the funds to meet the demands of his constituents, will feel a delicacy in asking him to get more funds to put on the public building that Mr. Lever was instrumental in getting for Orangeburg. They can't conscientiously take the money and then kick when he votes to raise this money. The Times and Democrat ought to know by this time that it takes something else than hot air to run this government and supply the wants of its people.

If The Times and Democrat felt as the Calhoun Advance confesses it feels in the above paragraph it would be ashamed to admit it. A fair interpretation of our contemporary is that it would be perfectly willing for Congressman Lever to vote for a tariff which would plunder everybody so long as he would give St. Matthews the kind of a public building it would like to have. According to the Advance, Congressman Lever is the master and not the servant of the people, having the right to punish any community that dared to criticize his official acts. We are glad to say that neither The Times and Democrat or the people of Orangeburg have reached that stage where they are willing to "crook the cringing knee that thrift may follow fawning." In suggesting that Congressman Lever would attempt to punish a community because it criticizes him for some of his official acts, is doing him an injustice. Orangeburg is not begging for a government building. She demands it as her right by virtue of her importance as a city, and if Congressman Lever attempted to withhold it from her because she dared to criticize his official acts, some other Congressman or one of our two Senators would have patriotism enough to champion her cause. Rather than acknowledge that the man who may represent this congressional district is above legitimate criticism, for his official acts, we would be willing to have our mail distributed from a log hut. There are some things that are worth more than a thousand government buildings to a community.

Count Zeppelin's striking success with his dirigible balloon is likely to give England another war scare and create a demand for dreadnaught air ships.

It is predicted by some that a desperate effort will be made to retire Senator Tillman at the expiration of his present term, but it will fail.

Whatever else may be said about The News and Courier, it holds very fast to the Democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue.

The phenologist does not deny that his favorite occupation is bumping the bumps.

ECZEMA FROM HEAD TO FOOT

For Six Months his Suffering was Beyond Words—One Mass of Irritation and Itching was Dreadful—Slept Only from Sheer Exhaustion—Almost Out of His Mind—After 24 Hours' Use of Cuticura Slept Like an Infant and Then was

CURED IN ONE MONTH BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am seventy-seven years old and one day, some years ago I fell from a step-ladder, bruising my head. In a few days I could not walk. I called in a doctor and inside of a week erysipelas set in. The doctor had not cured me of that when I was taken with eczema from head to foot. I was sick for six months and what I suffered tongue could not tell. I could not sleep day or night because of that dreadful itching; when I did sleep it was from sheer exhaustion. I was one mass of irritation; it was even in my scalp. The doctor's medicine seemed to make me worse and I was almost out of my mind. I read of Cuticura and sent my wife to the druggist, who was a member of my lodge of Odd Fellows, for a set of the Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. I used them persistently for twenty-four hours. That night I slept like an infant, the first solid night's sleep I had had for six months. I was not afraid to use plenty of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap with hot water and in a week's time I was able to put on my clothes again. In a month I was cured. From that day to this I cannot praise the Cuticura Remedies too highly. I may add that I have a very heavy head of hair which I owe to Cuticura. W. Harrison Smith, R.F.D. 2, Mt. Kisco, N. Y., Feb. 3, '08."

A single set of the Cuticura Remedies is often sufficient for the treatment of the most torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning and scaly humors, eczemas, rashes and irritations, with loss of hair, from infancy to age, when all other remedies fail. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth. Cuticura Soap (25c), Ointment (50c), Resolvent (50c), and Chocolate Cuticura (10c), are sold throughout the world. Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it, Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have suffered with indigestion, have been sorry for it when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it.

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all. Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do. Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

Our Guarantee. Go to your druggist today and get a dollar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle. Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.
