

THE DARK DAYS

ernment's attitude towards the Filipinos, who are Malays, and the cruelty the white man's treatment of the Indians. When the Republican attitude towards all these was brought out and the inconsistency and hypocrisy of the whole black Republican program was discussed at length by more than one speaker, it was easy to see that the Republican speakers were weakened and more than willing to stop the debate.

Northern Sentiment Changing.
My lectures in the north delivered during the last seven or eight years to hundreds of thousands of their most intelligent people have necessarily aided greatly in the change of feeling and sentiment which is apparent there. I have been asked frequently why more Southerners do not come among them and tell them about this great question and its dangerous aspect. There are thousands of communities up there in which there is not a single negro and they are wholly ignorant and indifferent on the subject, but when the facts are presented they grow intensely interested. Scores of times I have had men who wear the G. A. R. button crowd around me after a speech and express their approval of my utterances.

The issue is one which will not down and which the South cannot afford to let rest and as long as I live and my health holds out I expect to continue to agitate it and press for its solution along the only possible line by the repeal of the 15th amendment, thus permitting each State to regulate its suffrage according to its conditions. We will never have any guarantee of continued good government in South Carolina until we can limit the suffrage to white men, as has just been done in the South African confederation. Sir Arthur Balfour's recent declaration that the admission of inferior colored races to participation in government would destroy civilization itself, is as true of the South as it is of South Africa.

The negro-loving papers of the South, The News and Courier, The State, The Charlotte Observer, The Savannah News and others, may protest and abuse me as much as they like, but I expect to continue to discuss the race problem as long as my health and strength permits.

The Meeting Today.
We have met here today to celebrate the victory of 1876, the triumph of the whites over the blacks, of civilization and progress over barbarism and the forces which were undermining the very foundations of our commonwealth.

As is natural the Piedmont section of the State having a white majority suffered least during that terrible period and has profited most by the restoration of good government. When I first came to Anderson in 1886 it was a straggling village with muddy streets, which gave no signs of the progressive and beautiful city which now greets my eyes. This is the condition throughout the entire upper section of the State. Wherever you find whites in large numbers industry and thrift are in evidence on every hand. As we move towards the coast the lack of these grows more and more apparent, due entirely to the difference in the population. The more negroes the least progress.

Anderson never had negro domination in its true sense. Your old men know little or nothing about the horrors to which the middle and lower counties were subjected. You always had a white majority and have it still and you ought to thank God that this is so and strain every nerve to increase the number of good white people who shall make South Carolina their home and develop her resources.

Judge Aldrich last night gave us a general outline of conditions during the radical regime. You have just listened to Governor Sheppard's eloquent portrayal of the dangerous events which transpired in our State capitol when the final struggle for mastery culminated. I propose now to go somewhat into detail and give you particulars as to one of the most notable events of that struggle and one which caused the greatest stir in the State and throughout the country. I will narrate the events in which I was an eye-witness.

My recollection of those occurrences has recently been verified by others who saw the bloody tragedy. Altogether in 1874 and 1876 I was a participant in four race riots. All of these were most potent influences in shaping the conflict between the whites and blacks and producing the gratifying result which brought the white man again into control of his inheritance.

It was in this very cottage in Brookside, 15 miles from Birmingham, Ala., that three Italians nearly died of Fever. They had been sick 3 months. Johnson's Tonic cured them quickly—read letter below:

Brookside, Ala., May 4, 1909.
The two physicians here had 3 very obstinate cases of continued Malarial Fever. All were Italians and lived on a creek 50 yards from my store. These cases were of three months standing, their temperature ranging from 100 to 104. The doctors had tried everything in vain. I persuaded them to let me try Johnson's Tonic. I removed all the printed matter and let the medicine go out in a plain bottle as a regular prescription. The effect in all three cases was immediate and permanent. They recovered rapidly and there was no recurrence of the Fever.
