The Dispensary.

Some weeks ago The Herald and News stated it would have something to say further on the dispensary question. Discussion at this time we do not believe will result in any good or any harm, for the people have made up their minds what they are going to do whether or not by so doing they will get just what they want. That just now seems to be a secondary consideration, the thing upon which they seem determined just at this time is that they are going to vote the dispensary out of the county. It is in the minds of the people that there is something wrong with the management that there is graft and that the longer the institution existed the more corruption there would be. They have it also in their minds that the dispensary is charging too much for the class of liquor that is sold and that it is selling and inferior grade. Then there are those who believe that the institution is being run, not to regulate and control, the traffic in whiskey and thus to make it in reality a step towards prohibition, or at least to reduce the consumption of whiskey as a beverage; but rather to encourage the use of whiskey for the purpose of making revenue for the state. None of these things may be true or they all may be true, but still the people believe them and are opposing the dispensary and so far as results are concerned in the coming election they had as well be true.

Then there are those who conscientiously believe that it is wrong to sell whiskey as a beverage and will vote for anything to secure prohibition. Then there are those who think the principle is wrong and the state should not be in the business. These forces have combined and they will poll a very large vote in this county and the dispensary will be voted out when the election comes. In other words a great many people believe that the dispensary management has committed suicide.

The Herald & News has never advocated prohibition by statute. It does not believe that such a measure would be practicable for a people who consume three and a half million dollars worth of dispensary whiskey a year besides what is ordered for personal use and for blind tigers. It has never believed the principle of the dispensary was right. However, in its practical operation, if it were carried out as the law directs for the purpose of regulating and controlling the sale of whiskey and not for the revenue, it would be a good solution. But the people believe that is not being done and the combination now formed against it will vote it out in this county by a very large majority.

We would abolish the state institution and the state constabulary and let each county regulate the matter under the options given in the constitution as it pleases, and whatever plan was adopted in a county would have sufficient public sentiment behind it to enforce the law.

If the present anti-dispensary sentiment votes the dispensary out we will have prohibition because there will be no legal mode of handling the sale of whiskey. If this sentiment was all prohibition we might expect to see the law enforced but being prohibition and high license sentiment another fight will be on between these two.

However, let there be a full and free expression of the popular will and we can all be guided and governed by that verdict.

The revenue from the dispensary should not control, if you believe you can reduce the consumption of whiskey by voting the dispensary out and better the morals and improve the citizenship of the county. A few more mills tax cannot be weighed in the balance.

The Anderson Mail desires to know where the Hon. Jno. T. Duncan is. If it really desires to know we think he may be found in Columbia practicing law.

Senator Tillman is to speak in Greenville next week and from the tenor of his letter accepting the invitation it is probable that there will be something doing on that occasion.

Death of Mr. J. Wood Davidson.

Mr. J. Wood Davidson, a native of Newberry but for many years a resident of Washington, died in a hospital in Florida a few days ago. He was an author and an educator of national reputation. His history of South Carolina was a valuable text book in the schools of this state for many years. He also published a valuable contribution to literature in his work on Southern living writers. He spent some time here about two years ago with his nephew, Mr. Jas. R. Davidson.

A Fish Fry.

Chappells, June 29.—The young people of Dyson very much enjoyed a small fish fry at the old mill pond on Wednesday. Notwithstanding the crowd was small and the seiners were not so successful in catching many fish it was an enjoyable occasion and the ladies contributed largely to the pleasures of the day by the delicious dinner which they brought and which was eaten on the east side of the creek.

Everything passed off pleasantly until one of the ladies attempted to cross the creek on planks placed over the creek to an island, and fell in, but for the timely assistance of two young men she would likely have been drowned. She was carried to the home of Mrs. Werts and revived and when we left for home, after a heavy rain, she was apparently alright. Though having spent a pleasant day we were all glad to get home and enjoy the hot suppers awaiting us.

Some contrary people would rather have a pint of trouble than a bushel of happiness.

A man seldom realizes what a cold world this is until his creditors begin to make it hot for him.
