

THE DAY AT BARNWELL WAS BIG BLEASE DAY

BLEASE SEVERELY DENOUNCED DISPENSARY COMMITTEE.

Gives His Opinion of Felder in No Uncertain Terms—A Very Tempestuous Meeting.

Barnwell, July 12.—Rampanly pro-Bleaze a majority of the persons present at the campaign meeting here today proclaimed their preference in the race for governor with hand and voice, in season and out of season, and a considerable portion of them did their best to howl down the governor's leading opponent, Ira B. Jones. Judge Jones, undaunted by the odds against him, persisted in speaking as he had intended, and thus won to his cause an impressive number of citizens who had either been indifferent or were turned from a predilection for Bleaze to militant support of the opposition by resentment at the refusal of elements in the crowd to give Jones the respectful hearing Bleaze had enjoyed.

Unmistakably the feature of the meeting, aside from the encounter, elsewhere fully reported, between B. B. Evans and J. F. Lyon, was the fiercely vituperative denunciation by Gov. Bleaze of the legislative committee investigating the winding up of the dispensary. Obviously the governor's remarks, coincident as they were with the appearance of Thos. B. Felder and other witnesses before the committee in Augusta today, were intended to forestall and offset any allegations against the governor which might be brought out at the Felder hearing.

Very Bitter Words.

On this subject he said: "The men who called themselves decent, who claim to represent the legislature, and are the legislature in fact, have gone to Augusta to get the testimony of a low down, cowardly thief, who is afraid to come into your State. You know why they went to Augusta? Because they knew he could swear there to anything he wanted to swear to, could forge any paper he wanted to forge, and that little, watermelon-headed, sap-headed governor they've got over there wouldn't grant a requisition for him. No, they are as dirty and as mean and as cowardly as Tom Felder. The chief head clerk of the committee, old Sullivan, is a relative of Featherstone, and if he had run again for the senate in Anderson this year we would have beat him by 2,500 to 3,000 votes. I don't know what they are going to swear to today, or what dirty paper they will introduce. But I want to mention that they have waited until this campaign is half over, so I can't go back and answer. But I swear to you today, as your governor, that not one dispensary dollar has ever come into my hand and not one letter has ever been written by me acknowledging the receipt of money from whiskey houses."

Life an Open Book.

"There is no act of my private or public life that I am not willing for all the people of South Carolina to know. I'll ask them just to tell the truth; then read the filth that this carrion vomits tomorrow. Remember, I'll be in Columbia and they can find me on the street, and if they come one by one I will take pleasure in accommodating the whole dirty, filthy crowd."

EVANS WARNS LYON BACK.

Thrusts Hand in Pocket as Latter Advances.

Barnwell, July 12.—Catching a quick breath, gasping for a moment, the Barnwell audience at the State campaign meeting here today was carried to the highest pitch of excitement yet reached in the campaign, when Barnard B. Evans, thrusting his hand into his right hand coat pocket, said to Attorney General Lyon, who was advancing from the rear of the platform, "If you touch me, I'll tell you right now—." The sentence was not finished or was drowned out by the noise of the excited crowd.

Attorney General Lyon had not assumed an attitude of attack, for he carried in his right hand a bouquet of flowers he had just received. He stopped Mr. Evans in the latter's attack upon some of his acts with the warning: "Hold on there; you have gone too far." Mr. Evans faced about, thrust his hand in the outside pocket of his coat, assumed a menacing attitude and uttered the warning not to touch him.

Chairman Steps in.

Chairman Buist was between them in a second, as was also a policeman, who had taken his stand on the plat-

CHALLENGE SALE CONTINUED

Crowds Packed & Jammed Our Store from Top to Bottom

This marvelous sale has smashed the selling record of this store and established a high water mark of success which future sales in the unborn years will have to compete. My public announcements are plain statements of facts. I've never fooled the people and I never will. I think too much of my past record, the name Mimnaugh we are proud of, and our best efforts in the future will be to preserve that name and reputation by always giving the best goods and never advertise a thing unless I have it, never a price unless I mean it. That you have confidence in our statements is abundantly proven by the largest 10 days business ever done by any dry goods establishment in this section. Note the prices quoted in this announcement, make comparison for yourself. We are challenging the Newberry merchants to meet our prices. No one dare to attempt it.

New Additions to the Sale.

500 White Quilts arrived. We bought these Quilts several months ago at 50c. on the dollar. The mills tried to shrink out of the delivery, but we held them to it. So you are invited to a feast of White Bedspreads at less than any merchant in South Carolina can buy them today. Come forward; get in line and see that you get your share.
