UNIQUE SEWING CLASS.

Visitor Impressed With Work of "Mary Frances Sewing Club," Organized by Miss McCullough.

Editor The Herald and News: The very great pleasure of visiting a unique sewing class was mine on my recent visit to Newberry.

It was unique in several respects—in that it was composed of several small girls, some even as young as seven; that it was doll clothes they were sewing on; that they were doing exceptionally good work for such little tots; and last, but not least, the primary purpose was not to sew so much as it was to grow to be better and sweeter children.

This class was organized at West End mill village by Miss McCullough, the mission worker from Central church. The twenty little girls of which it is composed are bright, attractive children, and delight in doing their best for Miss McCullough and her four voluntary helpers from Central church. The Wesley Adult Bible class from that church furnishes the material for the little people to work on. It is called the Mary Frances Sewing club for Miss Mary Frances Cannon, the little girl who presented the doll the class loves so much to sew for.

The work done by the little girls consists of first stitches, then doll clothes, hem-stitched bed linen, towels, etc., later a five-year-old child's suit, and after they make a complete suit for themselves they receive a diploma.

The purpose of the class is very clearly seen in the attitude of the earnest Christian workers toward the little girls. Meetings are held once a week in the school building, but while the weather is so warm, they gather at the park and sew in the open air. Each meeting is opened with Scripture reading and prayer. Quite often while the little fingers are busy their minds are directed by a memory gem or song to high and holy things. If they have done good work they are rewarded at the end of the hour by hearing a story told, or playing games. The prayer sung at the close of the meeting can not but leave a deep impression on each heart.

Not the least enjoyable part of the class work is the gathering every Wednesday morning to practice sewing and listen to stories read by Miss McCullough. Phil and his Monkey, Dago, have the sympathies of these little people, and the "Two Knights of Kentucky" have become their friends. These and many other stories they delight in hearing.

TRINITY CHILDREN'S DAY.

A Delightful Occasion on Sunday—A Large Crowd Present—Exercises Were Splendid.

(By Mrs. M. B. Evans).

Trinity, July 15.—The children's day exercises at Trinity church on Sunday afforded a most delightful occasion, not only on account of the great gathering from many points distant of young and old, that overflowed church and grounds, but also as a living evidence of the moral uplift of this remarkable Christian community. It is indeed the land of plenty and garden spot of grand old Newberry county.

The great number of lovely little tots from the cradle roll that recited or sang their little pieces without a falter was evidence of both home and school training of a high order on the part of teachers and parents. The finest sight was the number of young men who participated in this Sunday school work. We note this fact, as too often young men are conspicuous in Sunday school work by their absence, and the work too often given to the care of women and children.

We can not forbear notice of the impressive and lovely tableau, "The Ten Virgins." It was a sermon in song, and an object lesson that was felt by every heart present, and the young ladies deserve high praise for the pathos and tender beauty of its rendition.

The dinner was a marvel, and a tangible evidence of the homewifely skill of the good ladies who fed the multitude on the occasion. But we ceased to wonder when we gazed on orchards and gardens teeming with fruit and big vegetables that can not be beat anywhere and make the names of Pitts, Johnson, Davenport, Longshore and others stand forth as leaders in good works of hospitality, as well as leaders of the Nation.

In the afternoon addresses were delivered by Hon. Arthur Kibler and Mr. J. B. O'Neill Holloway. They were heard by a packed house. The treason of Arnold, and his bitter punishment, was Mr. Kibler's warning to the men and boys of today. Mr. Holloway's theme was the undertow of society, that beset the life of thoughtless youth who seek no haven because the waters are calm, but too late their sins find them out and the cruel undertow drags them down to eternal death.

We are sure the county and State are safe in the keeping of such a citizenship as the Trinity community of solid, honest men, and noble, refined women, as it is our pleasure to know and appreciate.

Paying Their Respects Pleasantly.

The Jolly Sewing circle paid their respects to Miss Alma Taylor, the bride-to-be, by a delightful miscellaneous shower on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. J. W. Reeder. The decorations of green and yellow, including two crossed hearts suspended over the seat of honor, were beautiful and very artistically arranged.

After the instrumental music by Miss Lucy Hill, telegrams of good wishes to the bride were written, among which were many wishes and declarations of the good qualities of the two organs—the "Ehr" and "hardt." The floral wedding game was very interesting.

And then, the shower came in on a small wagon. The presents were many and included a variety of useful articles.

Cream and cake were served, after which Miss Etta Shelley sang two or three beautiful solos.

It was indeed a pleasant evening to all present. We regret to lose Miss Taylor from our midst, but rejoice with her in the fact that where there is a place of listening ears and willing hearts, all will be well.

HE "PRESSED" CLOTHES.

A Negro Crook From Atlanta Tries to be Smart Here—Comes to Grief.

A young negro man, giving his name as Walter Jeter and claiming to be from Atlanta, arrived in Newberry last week and began immediate preparations to make a good living without work, but he was called down by Policeman J. C. Lee and given the finishing touches by Recorder John W. Earhardt.

To start at the beginning. Early Friday morning Jeter went to the residence of Mr. J. Roland Busby, near Cline's old shop place, and told Mrs. Busby that her husband had sent for a suit of clothes to be pressed. Such as that has been done in Newberry, hence Mrs. Busby thought nothing unusual of it and handed the negro the suit. Jeter asked her to let him have $10 and followed her about the house while she was getting the clothes, and also asked her where her little girl was, making himself very free about the house. Of course he failed to get the $10. After he had left, Mrs. Busby phoned her husband and Mr. Busby got Policeman Lee on the trail of the impudent negro.

The next house for Jeter to get in some more of his work was the residence of Mr. M. A. Davis in Caldwell street. He told Mrs. Davis the same story with the same result—he got the suit of clothes. He exhibited the same brazen impudence, asked Mrs. Davis to change $5 and while she was trying to make the change he walked about over the house making himself at home, going to the water bucket and helping himself to a drink of water. He finally got in a hurry and told her to give him all the change she had, went to the bed, got a newspaper, wrapped up the suit and left without the change.

The negro tried to operate in several other houses in Cline street, going to the homes, respectively, of Messrs Drayton Gruber, B. B. Hiller and J. A. Rikard. Nobody was at home at Mr. Hiller's and there was "nothing doing" at Gruber's and Rikard's, for him.

When Mr. Busby put Policeman Lee wise to the workings of Jeter that wide-awake official and Sheriff Buford got together and went to Helena on the "Cannon ball" Friday morning, thinking that perhaps the wily Atlanta con would take a train from that point. But they saw nothing of him, and the sheriff went on to Chappells; the policeman returned to the city and with Policeman J. H. Turner searched for the man wanted. Sheriff Buford returned from Chappells on the 11.50, still looking for the negro, and when the train reached Newberry the sheriff got on the engine and rode as far as the junction. When the train started from the depot Jeter, who was hiding behind freight boxes, caught it and jumped on as it was rolling off. After getting off the engine at the junction Sheriff Buford returned to the city. The train went on with Jeter aboard. Policeman Lee, who was at the depot when the negro boarded the train, came back to the city office and phoned Prosperity to look out for the man described on the arrival of the train there. The officer at Prosperity didn't catch the negro and Mr. Lee phoned to Pomaria and when the train reached that point Jeter was arrested by Major Wilson, who held him and so notified Mr. Lee. Dr. W. G. Mayes kindly carried Policemen Turner and Lee to Pomaria in his automobile. They returned with the prisoner, who appeared before Recorder Earhardt Saturday morning.

The thief was arraigned on twelve different charges, to wit, vagrancy, gambling, soliciting and purchasing liquor, beating board, and stealing handkerchief, selling clothes without license, obtaining goods under false pretence, and disorderly conduct. There were two charges of obtaining goods under false pretences, and several on disorderlies, making the dozen counts. Recorder Earhardt wanted to give the prisoner all was coming to him. Jeter pleaded guilty to all charges except one, pleading not guilty to beating his board bill and stealing the pocket handkerchief. The recorder sentenced Jeter to pay a fine of $25 in each of the 12 cases or to serve 30 days in each case. Not having the 12 times $25 the prisoner had to fall back on the 12 times 30 days.

Officer Lee was determined to catch the negro if it took him to Columbia or out of the State. When that officer gets on a trail he sticks to it like tar on a wagon wheel.

But Mr. Busby is minus a $15 suit. The thief says he sold it to an unknown country negro for $2.50. Mr. Davis was not so unfortunate; he got his trousers back, without the coat.

On Monday morning Mr. J. G. Miller, guard of the county chain gang, took Jeter to the gang, which is now working in the Prosperity section.
