ORDERS NATIONAL GUARD TO GET READY

Governor Mann's Says Militia May Be Called to Border Any Day.

Columbia, June 12.—Governor Manning has ordered that the National Guard of South Carolina hold themselves in readiness for mobilization should the Washington government command their services on the Mexican border. The order was issued this morning by the governor just before his departure for St. Louis. Mr. Manning, who was just back from Washington, would not say why he promulgated the get-ready orders further than he wanted the companies warned of what might happen. He said he was issuing the orders because there might be a call for the troops any day.

In unofficial circles the belief was expressed that the orders for the South Carolina militia to go to the Mexican border will be issued in Washington immediately after the St. Louis convention. The liveliest interest was taken in the governor's orders for the militia to get ready for mobilization in all military circles.

Adj. Gen. W. W. Moore was in conference with Governor Manning just prior to the latter's departure on the Carolina Special for the Democratic convention in St. Louis. The South Carolina militia is composed of two regiments of infantry, four companies of naval militia, five companies of coast artillery, and one troop of cavalry, in all a little over 2,000 men.

Text of Order.

Governor Richard I. Manning, as commander-in-chief of the South Carolina National Guard, issued the following executive order this morning:

"1. In view of the probable call for the mobilization of the National Guard and naval militia of South Carolina for service in the near future, I deem it of the utmost importance that the officers and enlisted men in this State begin at once and in earnest, active preparations for increasing the strength and efficiency of the several commands.

"2. I do not believe that the citizens and soldiers of any State in the union are more loyal and patriotic than those of South Carolina, and should the call come, it is my desire that the organization from this State make the best showing by being the first to notify the president of our readiness and preparedness, both in men and efficiency, to respond to the call of duty in defence of our national honor.

"3. I desire this order read in the presence of each company and division, and that the men be impressed with the urgent desirability and necessity for prompt, patriotic and enthusiastic action looking to increasing the strength and efficiency of the South Carolina National Guard and naval militia."

At last, I decided to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it helped me right away. The full treatment not only helped me, but it cured me."

COLONEL TALKS OF HIS ACTIONS

Roosevelt, Garfield and Lewis Hold Council of War Behind Closed Doors.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 12.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt was visited at his home at Sagamore Hill today by James R. Garfield and Dean William Draper Lewis. According to his secretary, John W. McGrath, the colonel "had a full and frank discussion" with Mr. Garfield and Dean Lewis "as to what he intends to say" with regard to the political situation "and the time he should say it."

Neither of the visitors would make any statement after their interview with Col. Roosevelt. Both have been prominent in Progressive party circles. Dean Lewis drafted the platform adopted by the Chicago convention.

McGrath announced that Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt would motor to New York to meet their son, Kermit Roosevelt, and the latter's wife, who are expected to arrive from Panama.

Col. Roosevelt will remain in New York overnight to keep an appointment there on Wednesday with Raymond Robins, who was chairman of the Progressive national convention, and Harold L. Ickes of Illinois.

Col. Roosevelt again secluded himself in his home today except for a couple of hours when he went for a horseback ride with Mrs. Roosevelt. A newspaper correspondent who met the colonel in the road asked if there was anything he cared to say, but the former president turned from him after a sharp reply in the negative.

Gifford Pinchot and William Loeb, Jr., called at Sagamore Hill tonight. They were closeted in conference with Col. Roosevelt for some time, but no intimation of their plans was announced.

Beauty.

Memphis Commercial-Appeal. "Beauty is but skin deep," says an old proverb. And the irreverent modern men retorts: "And we don't want to skin her."

And there you have it in a nutshell—beautiful women are to be taken at their surface value; there is to be no prying under the exquisite exterior to see if there is a heart or a brain to fall back on when the inevitable fading hour shall come.

Of all the tangible gifts God gives to woman beauty is the most desired because it is the most effective measure to gain the joys and pleasures of life, the most powerful weapon to win the heights of love, admiration, success, wealth and rulership. Women believe this because they have seen it fail, and never known it to fail.

The pretty baby gets the most petting, the pretty girl gets the most flowers and beaux, the pretty woman gets the soft places of the earth. In society, in the home, in the office, women are "checked up" by the masculine element according to their facial perfections or imperfections.

But somebody says, "How about the homely girl often making the best match?" Nine cases out of 10 the man has first worshiped at some beauty's shrine and been turned down before he wakes up to the fact that there is something more satisfying than pink cheeks and starry eyes. It is ingrained into man's nature to like beautiful faces. The love of beauty in all hearts is the harking back to the spark of divinity that lingers in human nature—a silent testimonial to the time when they themselves were a part of the general plan of perfection. "A thing of beauty is a joy forever," because it is an appeal, not only to the harmonies of form and color, but because it is a visualized proof of the perfection that passes all understanding.

Character, the strong principle under the "skin-deep" beauty, comes into its own in times of stress, in days of sorrow and when the rose hues have faded from the scheme of youth. It is the most glorious link that binds us to the Creator, the life line that saves us and those about us from the rocks of despair. But because we do not see character as we see beauty we are long in recognizing it.

Beauty is the open sesame to all sorts of success. Beauty does not open the door for herself, or set her own chair, or hold her own coat, or buy her own flowers. There is always a masculine slave ready to do these things for her. That is why women wish to be beautiful—that they may "dwell in green pastures" of ease and gentle consideration.

Afterward—let afterward alone; beauty is but skin deep, and "we do not want to skin them," say the self-indulgent, easy-going mere men of the world. And more is the pity that they do not want to do a little metaphorical "skinning;" more is the pity for the peace of the home and the activity of the divorce courts. Marrying merely for a pretty face, without stopping to find out what is on the other side of it, is one of the greatest gambles of matrimony.

And yet—and yet if God ever made anything sweeter or dearer or more to be desired about the house than a beautiful girl He did not let it show up in His plan of creation. In this June time of brides and graduates and perspective debutants the world stands with its hat in its hand and thanks God that He put the beauty of even skin deep!

A Card to Owners of Rural Telephone Lines

We are anxious to see that all lines owned by other parties and connected with us are kept in such condition as to furnish efficient service. Where the owners of rural lines are responsible for their upkeep, we want to co-operate with them.

All lines require a thorough overhauling occasionally if the best service is to be obtained. We recommend that every line connected with us be overhauled at least once a year, and that at least one experienced telephone man assist in this work. The cost of this work when divided among all the patrons of the line, makes the amount paid by each man small, and this cost will be more than offset by the improved service.

If the owners of rural telephone lines in this section are experiencing trouble with their service, we will appreciate their talking the matter over with our Manager or writing us fully. We will gladly do what we can toward helping you improve the condition of your line.
